The money article of the Philadelphia News says that "the business of the Williamsport and Elmira Railroad has been steadily on the increase since the railroads which, in connection with it, form a continuous track from Philadelphia to Niagara Falls, have been completed. The excellence of the bituminous coal of the west branch of the Susquehanna, and its superiority over any other that now finds its way into the interior of New York having been satisfactorily established, arrangements for the transportation of large quantities of this article are now being made-one coal company, alone, having contracted to send 50,000 tons over the road during the current year."

MARRIED, In Canton, Nov. 23d, 1854, Mr. E. P. ROCK-WELL to Miss R. E. KETCHUM, both of Canton. DIED. In Canton, January 9, 1855, Mrs. R. E. wife of E. P. Rockwell, and eldest daughter of James and Mariette Ketchum, aged 20 years 6 months and 29 days.

The subject of the above notice was laid away in the silence of the grave, clothing in the winding sheet and the sober habiliments of death, just seven weeks after she had put on the bridal robe. The notes of Joy were early hushed in the sadness of grief. The fragrant rose of the marriage wreath was draped in mourning under the shadow of the cypress and the willow. The fond youthful heart, all throbbing with the sweet intoxication of the newly tasted domestic happiness, and still warm with the new offered the following, which were unnnimously life created by the vews so recently spoken at the altar of in u Hymen, and cheered by the hope of a most promising future, was suddenly chilled and lay pulseless in the cold, firm grasp of the fell destroyer. How fearfully true the language of the scriptures, "In the midst of life we are in death." If youth, innocence, and a remarkably sweet and gentle spirit were any safeguard against the approach of death, Mrs. Rockwell would have been spared for a long time to bless with her love a fond and doting husband and shed the light of happiness in the midst of a large circle and strong than any other.

But alas! she is gone ;-cut down in the midst of a bright and joyous youth; gone from earth, and its loves, history and wise and beneficent in its governits sorrows, and its responsibilities. She has gone to her rest, and the reward of the pure and the good. We do most truly sympathise with the sorely afflicted and bereavministered till the present hour, have been at ed husband and parents, and most affectionately commend all his works." They can truly say, in the language of
