Sowing Corn Fodder-Drilling Deep Plowing.

"It is an ill wind that blows no one any good," through a trite proverb is often verified in the experience of the farmer. We believe it will be found true, as regards the effects of the late very severe winter on our mowing and pasture fields, the alternations of which from mild to extreme cold, together with the small amount of snow fallen, acting as a protective covering to the ground, having apparently killed out the grass, especially in fields recently seeded down. Roots of both grass and wheat may be seen in many farms of eastern Pennsylvania laving on the surface of the ground, heaved up by the frost, entirely dead; and this, too, at a time when wheat is worth $2.50 per bushel, and beef and butter higher than for many vears. There are two or three practical inferences suggested by these facts which we wish to call attention to. We say facts, because they are plain and obvious to every farmer on his own farm, and may prove, if wisely reflected upon and digested, more valuable than many pages of reading.

1st. We have known, this spring, fields of wheat apparently almost killed out, with the roots lying on the surface, the seed having been sown broadcast, adjoining other fields looking green and healthy where the seed had been drilled, no roots in the latter, comparatively, baving been heaved up by the frost. This we consider a strong argument in favor of drilling, which puts the seed in deeper, with more regularith and evenness, the small rises between the rows mouldering down during the winter and eovering the wheat as required for protection. Here is one practical deduction of great

2d. It has also been found that on those fields where the ground was deeply plowed or subsoiled to the depth of eight to twelve inches, these effects of a severe winter, which will shorten the hay and pasture crop at least onethird, and in some cases probably one-half, have not been observed to the same extent as on others. This we consider a second practical deduction of great importance.

The 2d point we have to make is a remedy for this state of things fortunately within reach, and which will go far to make up the loss, viz : where the grass has been observed to be thus killed out, plow up the fields immediately, and sow corn for fodder. It has been fully proven that nothing will turn off so much agreeable, provender, and nutricious and palatable to stock, as sown fodder. By successive sowings a supply can be kept up the whole season, and for cows, when fed green, it is fully equal to the best pasture, and will make as much and as rich milk and butter.

We have frequently urged upon our readers the importance of the corn fodder crop, and as the present is a most opportune period for the experiment, we hope they will give it a trial.— There are two methods of putting in the crop, by drilling in rows and by broadcasting. We prefer the former, and would recommend, after the ground has been well plowed and thoroughly pulverized, rows should be struck out one way, two and a half or three feet apart, and the corn strewed along at the rate of about three bushels to the acre. The seed may readily be covered with a cultivator or harrow passing parallel with the rows. When the corn is about a foot high, run the cultivator along once or twice to clean out the weeds, and no farther attention will be required, as the ground will soon be covered and yield a product of ten to twelve tons to the acre, and more, depending on the strength of the soil.

The above is substantially the plan recommended by J. J. Thomas, and we believe to be the best. George Walker of Susquehanna county, however, prefers the broadcasting system, and gives his method of managing it and his product in one of our back numbers. If the soil is not in good condition, it will pay well to spread three hundred pounds of guano to Block, over the office of James Macfarlane. the acre previous to plowing. Much of the fodder crop may be got off in time to seed with wheat next fall if desired .- Farm Journal.

often been grafted with good success. But the operation should not be performed until the season has advanced considerably-until the vine to be grafted has leaved out-say in ordinary seasons, about the 10th of June -Should the attempt be made early in the season. the excessive flow of sap would be in the way of success; however, after the young shoots get pretty well started, the sap ceases to flow from a wound or cut made in the wood of the vine. The mode ordinarily adopted in grafting large apple-tree-cleft grafting-is a good way to do it. When the body of the vine is of a regular shape at the surface of the gound, it would be well to saw it off close to the ground. and, after inserting the scions and applying the wax, to clear the dirt up over the end of the stock, leaving only about half of the length of the scions out of the ground. Where this manner of performing the operation, owing to circumstances, is not practicable, the trunk may be taken off higher up. Small, short jointed cuttings, taken from vines at the winter pruning should be used for scions-they can easily be kept till the time arrives for using them, covered with sand in a cool cellar.

Vines thus grafted have been known to produce the first season, shoots or canes from fifteen to twenty feet in legth. If the wood of the vine in question proves to be firm and healthy, it can, without doubt, be grafted with a satisfactory result .- Ontario Co. Times.

MANGE IN CATTLE. - The disorder termed the mange arises from the excitement of the skin probably brought on by disarrangement of the organs of digestion in consequence of poverty engendered by hunger and want of shelter .--After these are supplied, a wash made of gunpowder and water-charcoal, nitre and sulpher -will be found a valuable application. Mange is an infectious disorder ; remove therefore the sick beast from the rest of the herd .- Boston Cultivator.

WASH FOR FRUIT TREES .- I have often found the following a certain antidote for insects, or fungus, on vines and fruit trees :-- 1 lb. sulphur, 2 lbs. soft soap, 1 gallon tobacco water, and 2 gallons lime water ; mix, to paint over all the wood.

VALUE OF A POUND OF THE FINEST FLAX THREAD .- A single pound of flaxen thread, intended for the finest specimens of Frech lace, is valued at six bondred dollars, and the length of thread is about two hundred and twentysix miles. One pound of this thread is more valuable than two pounds of gold.

A ND CHERRY PECTORAL.—The following remedies are offered to the public as the best, most perfect, which medical science can afford. Aver's Cartakarre Pills have been prepared with the utmost skill which the medical profession of this age possesses, and their effects show they have virtues which surpass any combination of medicines hitherto known. Other preparations do more or les good; but this cures such dangerons complaints, so quick and so surely, as to prove an efficacy and a power to uproot disease beyond any thing which men have known before. By removing the obstructions of the internal organs and stimulating them into healthy action, they renovate the fountains of life and vigor—health courses anew through the body, and the sick man is well again. They are adapted to disease, and disease only, for when taken by one in health they produce but little effect. This is the perfection of medicine. It is antagonistic to disease, and no more. Tender children may take them with impunity. If they are sick they will cure them, if they are well they will do them no harm. ND CHERRY PECTORAL.-The fol-harm.

Give them to some patient who has been prostrated with bilious complaint; see his bent-up, tottering form straighten with strength again; see his long-lost appetite return; see his clammy features blossom into health. Give them to some sufferer whose foul blood has burst out in scrottla see his clanny features blossom into health. Give them to some sufferer whose loul blood has burst ont in scrofula till his skin is covered with sores; who stands, or sits, or lies in anguish. He has been drenched inside and out with every every potion which ingenuity could suggest. Give him these Pills, and mark the effect; see the scabs fall from his body; see the new, fair skin that has grown under them; see the late leper that is clean. Give them to him whose angry humors have planted rheumatism in his joints and bones; move him, and he screeches with pain; he too has been soaked through every muscle of his body with linaments and salves; give him these Pills to purify his blood; they may not cure him, for olas! there cases which no mortal power can reach; but mark, he walks with crutches now, and now he walkes alone; they have cured him. Give them to the lean, sour, haggard dyspeptic, whose gnawing stomach has long ago caten every smile from his face and every muscle from his body. See his appetite return, and with this health; see the new man. See her that was radiant with health and loveliness blasted and too early withering away; want of exercise, or mental anguish, or some lurking disease has deranged the internal organs of digestion, assimilation, or sceretion, till they do they do their office ill. Her blood is vitiated, her health is gone. Give her these Pills to stimulate the vital principle into renewed vigor, to cast out the obstructions, and infuse a new vitality into the blood. Now look again—the roses blossom on her check, and where sorrow sat, joy bursts from every feature. See the sweet infant wasted with worms. Its wan, sickly features tell you without disguise, and painfully distinct, that they are eating its life away. Its pinched-up nose and ears, and restless sleepings, tell the dreadful truth in language which every mother knows. Give it the Pills in large doses to sweet himgs? Nay, are they not the marvel of this age? And yet they are done around you every day.

and see the ruddy bloom of childhood. Is it nothing to do these things? Nay, are they not the marvel of this age? And yet they are done around you every day.

Have you the less serious symptoms of these distempers, they are the easier cured. Jaundice, Costiveness, Headache, Sideache, Heartburn, Foul Stomach, Nausea, Pain in the Boweis, Flatulency, Loss of Appetite, King's Evil, Neuralgia, Gout, and kindred comploints all arise from the derangements which these Pills rapidly cure. Through a trial of many years and through every nation of civilized me, Ayer's Cherry Pectoral has been found to afford more relief and to cure more cases of pulmonary disease than any other remedy known to mankind. Cases of apparently settled Consumption have been cured by it, and thousands of sufferers who were deemed beyond the reach of human aid have been restored to their friends and usefulness, to sound health and the enjoyments of life, by this all-powerful antidote to diseases of the lungs and throat. Here a cold had settled on the lungs. The dry, hacking cough, the glassy eye, and the pale, thin features of him who was lately lusty and strong whisper to all but him Consumetron. He tries everything; but the disease is gnawing at his vitals, and shows its fatal symptoms more and more over all his fame. He is taking the Cherry Pectoral now: it has stopped his cough and made his breathing easy; his sleep is sound at night: his appetite returns, and with it his strength. The dart which pierced his side is broken. Scarcely any neighborhood can be found which has not some living trophy like this to shadow forth the virtues which have won for the Cherry Pectoral in imperishable renown. Influenza, Croup, Bronchitis, Hoarseness, Pleurisy, Whooping Cough, and all irritations of the throat and lungs are easily cured by the Cherry Pectoral if taken in season. Every family should have if by them, and they will find it an idvaluable protection from the insidious prowler which carries off the parent sheep from many a flock, the darling lamb from many a home.

The method by which all Sarssaparillas, and other similar medicines are prepared, is by boiling the Roots of plants to obtain the extracts. Their medicinal virtues are thus principally evaporated and destroyed. It is not to be wondered at then, that 10 and even 20 bottles of these Sarsaparillas are sometimes taken without any perceptible benefit. Not so with the Forest Wine.— By the invention of a wonderful chemical apparatus, a per-fect wine is produced without beating; retaining, at the same time, all the primitive healing properties of the rare medicinal plants of which it is composed, thus rendering the Forest Wine the most efficient medicine the world ever produced, at the same time time the most agreeable. TESTIMONY.

This is to certify, that I have used Dr. Halsey's Forest Wine in my family with the most entire success. My wife was badly afflicted with Neuralgia, affections of the Spine and Kidneys, and general Debility. She found speedy r lief, and regained her health by the use of the Fores

Wine.

From my own knowledge of this excellent medicine, I confidently recommend it for the good of others who may be suffering from similar complaints. It is the best medicine with which I am acquainted, and those who are afflicted with the above, or any similar disease, may safely rely on its virtues.

MORE TESTIMONY FROM COHOES.

Dr. G. W. HALSEY—Dear Sir: My wife last autumn was reduced to a low state of Debility. My family physician advised her to take your Forest Wine. Accordingly I went to Mr. Terry's, your agent in this town, and procured a bottle of it, which restored her in a very short time to perfect health.

DREADFUL COUGH, DEBILITY, AND LOSS OF APPETITE.

DR. HALSEY: Hempstead, Dec. 1, 1847.
A bottle of your Forest Wine and box of Pills, which I procured of James Carr, (your agent for this place,) has done wonders for me. I had been in a state of decline for more than a year, afflicted with a dreadful cough, pain in the breast, general debility, and loss of appetite. I became almost a skeleton, and had been unable to leave my room for more than two months; my friends told me I had the Consumption and despaired of my recovery. I could not obtain any permanent relief from any medicine I had taken, or my physician, until your Wine and Pills were procured. The first dose of the Pills brought up from my stømach, much phlem and greenish matter, and my were procured. The first dose of the Pills brought up from my stomach, much phlem and greenish matter, and my stools were perfectly black. I then commenced taking your Forest Wine three times a day, my appetite began to return immediately, my cough left me, and in less than two weeks I was almost well. I now enjoy better health than I ever did before, having increased twenty-five pounds m seven weeks. Your Forest Wine and Pills are highly valued in this vicinity, and I owe my recovery entirely to their virtues.

AFFECTIONS OF THE KIDNEYS.

Mr. T. J. Gillies, a highly respectable Merchant of No. 308 Broadway. New York, cured of a severe affection of the Kidneys by the Forest Wine and Pills.
Dr. G. W. HALSEY: New-York, March 12, 1853.
Dear Sir—In the summer and fall of last year I had a severe complaint of the Kidneys, which rendered me quite unfit for business. I procured your Forest Wine and Pills which cured me in a few weeks time, and I have since enjoyed better health than I had for many years previously. From their efficacy in my own case, and from what I know your medleines to have done for others, I am induced to recommend them as the best medicines with which I am acquainted.

Yours, respectfully.
