Cutting Hay.

MR. FREAS :- There are at present a multitude of conflicting opinions in relation to the period when grass should be cut, some contending that the operation of mowing should be commenced as soon as the development of the flower has commenced ; others, that the seyther should by no means be introduced till the seed has become partially matured, as they suppose the superior value of this adds more to the value of the plant as a whole, than it abstracts. No definite rules, however, can be laid down in this matter, as practice must necessarily vary with the contingencies of temperature, aspect, climate and the specific character of the grasses ordinary cultivated. For my own part I think that one should commence as soon as infloresence begins. He will then have time to get through haying before the crop becomes too far advanced towards maturity, and his hay, though less heavy, and consequently somewhat less valuable as a market product, perhaps, will be much more succulent and sweet, that if permitted to stand till a later period, or till it becomes dead ripe. The old method of making hay in the sun, and drying it till scarcely a particle of moisture is left in the fibre, is now almost universally deprecated. On this subject, one of the greatest farmers who has ever lived, has the following remarks :

" As soon as the grass is fairly freed from moisture, it is put into narrow heaps, which are made as high as possible ; and to prevent these from falling down, a small stake is driven into the ground, around which the grass is carefully arranged with the hands. A handful of grass is then taken from one of the swaths, and the longest and strongest portions are chosen from it to cover the top of the heap or hay-cock with, care being taken to trim the upper or flowering part of the grass downward. These pyramidial heaps are then suffered to remain until the grass of which they are com-posed, is thoroughly dry which is generally  $\begin{bmatrix} REV. JAMES McWILLIAM, A. The Academic will comprise 3 terms.BUDER WOHposed, is thoroughly dry which is generally somewhere between the eight and fifteenth day. On the heap being opened, the grass in the interior of it will generally be found to retain its hue and freshness. I have seen grass thus its hue and freshness. I have seen grass thus made into large heaps, in dry and windy weather, which has made very rapidly with-out requiring to be moved and has been quite green. Temporary rain or showers will not do it any harm beyond that of depriving the Oil painting in padscase, per term. it any harm beyond that of depriving the external parts of some portion of its greenness; but should the wet weather continue for any considerable period of time, there is a possibility of the hay becoming too much compressed it will then be necessary to open the heaps, and shake and loosen the hay, in order to prevent it from acquiring an unpleasant flavor." This may be obviated by making the cocks small-say of about eighty pounds weight, when first put up, and covering carefully with green grass. I give you this for what it is worth-some may be induced to try it this season, on a small scale, and report the result. One thing is admitted by every one, which is, that the less the hay, in making, is exposed to the sun, the more valuable it is—it retains its color and flavor better, and consequently is worth a great deal more per ton than when dried up by the burning rays of the sun. I am respectfully yours .- Germantown Telegraph.

EXPERIMENTS WITH CARROTS AND TURNIPS IN SHEEP FEEDING .- The J. B. R. correspondent of the Germantown Telegraph details interesting experiments made to test the relative value of carrots, turnips and beets for sheep. The beets were discontinued, because the animals refused to eat them, except upon compulsion of the sharpest hunger. His method with carrots and ruta-baga turnips he describes as follows : ree sheep were confined in a vard in which there was a close shed for feeding, with plenty of water supplied from a cistern. Three more were placed in a similar enclosure, the fixtures of which were in every respect precisely the same, and that there might be no discrepancy whatever in the management of the two parcels, even their water was supplied from the same source. All the animals were of the same age, and nearly of the same weight. In the morning chopped ruta-bagas were given to the sheep in one pen, and chopped carrots to those in the other. This feed was regularly repeated at noon, and again at sundown ; the quantity allowed each animal being one peck (by weight) of each.

for $1. Through a trial of many years and through every nation of civilized me, AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL has been found to afford more relief and to cure more cases of pulmonary disease than any other remedy known to mankind. Cases of apparently settled Consumption have been cured by it, and thousands of sufferers who were deemed beyond the reach of human aid have been restored to their friends and throat. Here a cold had settled on the lungs. The dry, thacking cough, the glassy eye, and the pale, thin features of him who was lately lusty and strong whisper to all but him Consumption. He tries everything; but the disease is gnawing at his vitals, and shows its fatal symptoms more and more over all his fame. He is taking the Cher-ry Pectoral now : it has stopped his cough and made his breathing casy: its sleep is sound at night : his appetite teatments, and with it his strength. The dart which pierced his side is broken. Scarcely any neighborhood can be found which has not some fiving trophy like this to shad-ow forth the virtues which have won for the Cherry Pec-toral an imperishable renown. Influenza, Croup, Bron-chitis, Hoarseness, Pleurisy, Whooping Cough, and all ir-ritations of the throat and lungs are easily cured by the Cherry Pectoral if taken in season. Salt and common house ashes were kept constantly in both apartments, mixed in the proportions of one of the former to three of the later Good clean leaves from the woods were scattered daily over the shed bottoms. and a few handsful of fine clover hay kept by them to supply the cud.

The experiment commenced on the 12th of November, and was brought to a final close on the 12th of the ensuing March. Both sets did remarkably well, as indeed might be expected from the careful and systematic manner in which they were tended and fed ; but those kept on carrots gained each eight and threefourths pounds more than those fed on rutabagas. In April the six sheep produced six lambs-fine, healthy ones, which have grown to maturity, and are by far the most valuable animals to be found in the flocks to which they belong.

CURRANT TREES .- Currant bushes may as well be made trees as shrubs. In the spring of 1831 my father set cuttings for currant bushes. I determined to experiment on one of these cuttings, and as it grew, I pinched off all the leaves except the top tuft, which I let grow. The cutting was about fourteen inches long, and during the summer the sprout from this grew ten inches. The next spring I pinched off all the leaves to about half way up the first year's growth, so as to leave the lowest limb two feet from the ground. Is branched well, and became a handsome little dwarf tree. When it came to bear fruit, it was more productive than any other bush in the garden and the fruit larger. It was less infested with spiders and other insects ; hens could not pick off the fruit, and grass and weeds were more easily kept from the roots, and it was an ornament instead of a blemish. Now I would propose that currant cuttings be set in rows about four or five feet apart each wav-let them be long and straight ones-and trained into trees. -Michigan Farmer.

To HOUSEKEEPERS .- Monsieur Loysel, a French chemist, says that he has discovered that by grinding tea in the same manner as coffee, before infusion, the quantity of exhilarating fluid obtained is nearly doubled. The experiment is worth trying, especially if with an additional strainer similar to those used by the Frepch, suspended from the spont of the teapot.

DAVIS' PLATFORM BEE-HIVE.

DAVIS' PLATFORIM BEE-HIVE. THE subscriber having been appointed Agent for the counties of Bradford, Sullivan and Lycoming, has the pleasure of calling the attention of the public to this useful invention. The Hive is traly a great improvement on the old square box; and the facilities it affords for taking out the honey are as harmless to the bees, as they are profita-ble to the owner. No resort to drums and pans is needed to hive the increase in the spring, and no resort to brim-stone, fire and fagot is required to conquer the bees and procure their honey in the fall. As the bees multiply, new sections are added to the hive; and when the honey is wanted, they are removed accordingly. The arrange-ments for feeding the bees, for changing them to different parts of the old hive; or to a new one, for ventilation, are parts of the old hive, or to a new one, for ventilation, are Aquestionably ahead of anything hitherto known. A description of this Hive is impossible, without refer-tee to a model, but an examination will satisfy any one of its advantages. For sale, Town and Individual Rights, with books, bill of feed, &c., giving full directions for ma-king the Hive, and managing the Bees. May 1, 1855. GEORGE S. KEEN.

PIANO FORTES.

A bottle of your Forest Wine and box of Pills, which I procured of James Carr. (your agent for this place.) has done wonders for me. I had been in a state of decline for more than a year, afflicted with a dreadful cough, pain in the breast, general debility, and loss of appetite. I be-came almost a skeleton, and had been unable to leave my room for more than two months; my friends told me I had the Consumption and despaired of my recovery. I could not obtain any permanent relief from any medicine I had taken, or my physician, until your Wine and Pills were procured. The first dose of the Pills bronght up from my stomach, much phlem and greenish matter, and my stools were perfectly black. I then commenced taking your Forest Wine three times a day, my appetite began to return immediately, my cough left me, and in less than two weeks I was almost well. I now enjoy better health than I ever did before, having increased twenty-five pounds JOSEPH R.
