The principal trouble lies in the seed bed, and soon after planting out, for without constant vigilance, if their enemy, the fly, once appears, and is not checked, they soon make short work of them. Tobacco dust, shook over them, is undoubtedly the best preventative; lime, soot or wood ashes is sometimes used, but either of them must be done thoroughly to be effective; not so much the quantity, as, if too often done with large quantities of tocbaco, they would be killed that way. The tobacco generally used is too coarse to be used judiciously; if ground to a powder and used perfectly dry it would stick on the leaves much better and be far more efficacions.

We heard that if the seed is steeped in oil (probably fish oil) no bugs will infest them, but on what principle this acts as a preventive we are unable to perceive.

There is no fear of having too many plants ready sale can always be found for the surplus. There is probably over a hundred acres of cabbage alone grown in this vicinity, a considerable portion of which is shipped for the New York market.

The plants should be up and in rough leaf by this time, though in case of the first sowing missing they will often be later. The soil requires well manuring, and to be ploughed deep for this crop.

If ploughed early in the spring and again at planting time, so much the better, but one should always be at the time of planting. If should always be at the time of planting. If possible, too, a rainy spell should be selected for the planting, as much fewer misses will occur than in dry weather. If a puddle of muck is made of cow dung, soot and weak tobacco water, to plung the root in before planting, it will assist them. They ought not to be less than two feet apart each way, and put in by the hand rather than a dibble. It is for the planting, as much fewer misses will occur than in dry weather. If a puddle of muck is made of cow dung, soot and weak more expeditious with a practiced hand, besides giving the roots a better chance to strike out than in the hole made by a dibbling stick; but care must be taken to leave them firm in the soil, which may be known by taking hold of the point of a leave and giving it a jerk, when if it breaks rather than come up, it is well planted, and vice versa.

If the weather be dry at the time of planting, they must be watered if possible, or there will be many vacancies from this cause. A dusting of tobacco should also be given after the watering; with a dredging box it would be the most conveniently done. When established, the cultivator should be used several times, and when large enough the plough run up each side of the rows to give an earthing but little more can be done till pulling commences. All vacancies should be filled up as they occur, till the whole has taken .- Country Gentleman.

PATTERSON'S WHEAT CULTURE.—Since the issue of the May number, we have seen Mr. Patterson, who wishes us to make a few additions to the statement then made by us of his wheat-growing scheme. He says plough between the 25th of May and the 25th of June, as deep as you please, but at least eight inches.

Let it lie till about the middle of July, and then give it a single harrowing; letting all the stock you can command run upon it till a week before sowing.

Then harrow it till the surface is sufficiently mellowed to cover the grain, which is best done with a drill, as aforesaid. From one-fourth to half an inch is sufficient to cover the seed .-Mr. P. thinks it a damage if the seeds are buried so deep as to form the second root common to wheat too deep to send forth its tillers at the point of germination.

For spring wheat and oats, plough immme diately after harvest; let it lie till spring, and put in the seeds with harrow or drill. He thinks land is ploughed too much, and that one good deep ploughing on prairie soils is better than more. He calculates that spring wheat and oats will yield an additional three to five bushels per acre, put in after this mode, over that cultivated as usual .- Prairie Former for

FARM IMPLEMENTS .- To use that old plow longer is bad economy; repairs have already come to more that original cost, and still it is an old, rickety plow. It always did "run to land" to much, and always will, perplexing the plowman and fretting the team. It has a radical defect past all cure of inventor or mechanic. Do not work with heavy, uncouth implements-they drag down the body like a perpetual serrow upon the mind. Boys often acquire a disgust for farming, merely from the use of the miserable implements placed in their hands. The lighter the tool, the better, if strong enough for the work for which it was intended. The workman who uses his shovel to pry up a stone, and breaks it, should be required to pay for it, and the next time, if not incorrigibly lazy, he will probably use the bar. Use light rakes, made of good material, and so of hoes, spades, shovels, and all other implements. We have beaten the English in the construction of our agricultural implements, week rub with it such parts of the animal as may have been attacked by the nit-fly. Grease destroys and prevents the eggs from hatching.

CHEAP MANURE.—We often see, in the door yards of our farm houses, large accumulations of saw dust, chips and rotten wood. Just permit me to suggest to those who are in possession of these valuable materials, that by placing them around their fruit trees, currant bushes, and, other similar productions, they will not only free their enclosures from a most undoubted nuisance, but secure a very import ant accession to their stock of fruit. The mass is rich in carbonaceous matter, in salts, both of which are congenial to all descriptions of fruit-bearing trees and shrabs .- Ger. Tele

If you have contracted the terrible disease, which when once seated in the system, will surely go down from one generation to another, undermining the constitution, and sapping the very vital fluids of life, do not trust yourself in the hands of Quacks, who start up every day in a city like this, and fill the papers with glaring falsehoods too well calculated to deceive the young and those not acquainted with their tricks. It is a medicine perfectly pleasant in its taste, and very innocent in its action, and yet so thorough that it annihilates every particle of the rank and poisonous virus of this disease; and, unlike other remedies, it does not dry up the disease in the blood.
Constitutional Debility, brought on by self-abuse, a most terrible disease, which has brought thousands of the hu man race to untimely graves, thus blasting the brilliant hopes of parents, and blighting in the bud the glorious ambition of many a noble youth, can be cured by this INFALLIBLE REMEDY.

This article is now pre-cribed by some of the most distinguished Physicians in the Country, and has proved more efficient in practice than any preparation of Sarsaparilla yet offered to the public. Several cases of secondary Syphilic, Mercurial and Scrofulous diseases have entirely recovered in the incurable wards of our public institutions, which had for many years resisted every mode of treatment that could be devised. These cases furnish striking examples of the salutary effects of this medicine in arresting some of the most inveterate diseases, after the glands were destroyed and the bones already affected.

H. C. PORTER, P. M. DAVIS' PLATFORM BEE-HIVE.

THE subscriber having been appointed Agent for the counties of Bradford, Sullivan and Lycoming, has the pleasure of calling the attention of the public to this useful invention. The Hive is truly a great improvement on the old square box; and the facilities it affords for taking out the honey are as harmless to the bees, as they are profita-ble to the owner. No resort to drums and pans is needed to hive the increase in the spring, and no resort to brimto hive the increase in the spiffig, and no resort to brimstone, fire and fagot is required to conquer the bees and procure their honey in the fall. As the bees multiply, new sections are added to the hive; and when the honey is wanted, they are removed accordingly. The arrangements for feeding the bees, for changing them to different parts of the old hive, or to a new one, for ventilation, are unquestionably ahead of anything hitherto known.

A description of this Hive is impossible, without reference to a model, but an examination will satisfy any one of its advantages. For sale, Town and Individual Rights, with books, bill of feed, &c., giving full directions for making the Hive, and managing the Bees.

The method by which all Sarssaparillas, and other similar medicines are prepared, is by boiling the Roots of plants to obtain the extracts. Their medicinal virtues are thus principally evaporated and destroyed.

By the invention of a wonderful chemical apparatus, a perfect wine is produced without beating; retaining; at the same time, all the primitive healing properties of the rare medicinal plants of which it is composed, thus rendering the Forest Wine the most efficient medicine the world ever produced, at the same time time the most agreeable.

Dr. G. W. Halsey—Dear Sir: My wife last autum was reduced to a low state of Debuity. My family physician advised her to take your Fore-t Wine. Accordingly I went to Mr. Terry's, your agent in this town, and precared a bottle of it, which restored her in a very short time to perfect health.

DREADFUL COUGH, DEBILITY, AND LOSS OF APPETITE.

Dr. HALSEY: Hempstead, Dec. 1, 1847.

A bottle of your Forest Wine and box of Pills, which I procured of James Carr. (your agent for this place,) has done wonders for me. I had been in a state of decline for more than a year, afflicted with a dreadful cough, pain in the breast, general debility, and loss of appetite. I became almost a skeleton, and had been unable to leave my room for more than two months; my friends told me I had the Consumption and despaired of my recovery. I could not obtain any permanent relief from any medicine had the Consumption and despaired of my recovery. I could not obtain any permanent relief from any medicine I had taken, or my physician, until your Wine and Pills were procured. The first dose of the Pills brought up from my stomach, much phlem and greenish matter, and my stools were perfectly black. I then commenced taking your Forest Wine three times a day, my appetite began to return immediately, my cough left me, and in less than two weeks I was almost well. I now enjoy better health than I ever did before, having increased twenty-five pounds m seven weeks. Your Forest Wine and Pills are highly valued in this vicinity, and I owe my recovery entirely to
