land where the water with which the butter is washed is hard. Your correspondent seems anxious that a trial should be made this Fall, after the 27th November, as well as in June as in August next. I here desire to lay down what I regard as another truism, that there never was, and never can be, one pound of first quality butter made after a heavy frost has killed the grass—which in this region is as early as the 27th of October. The grass becomes insipid -which in this region is as early as the and bitter, and butter partakes of the flavor of the food on which the cow feeds, for sweetness, richness, and solidity, in the same ratio as cows which feed partly on garlies, wild onions and rutabagas, afford butter unfit for table use ; and with the same result as to keeping. The longer this kind of butter is kept the more offensive it becomes; while butter made when the cow gets nothing but the sweet high-flavored grasses will improve, if well manufactured, until it is ripe, which will be in

I am rather inclined to think that your correspondent is not a good butter-maker for a hard water country. I fancy his wife is the butter-maker, and if he will take the trouble to inquire, she will inform him that no first quality of butter can be made either in Nov. or Angust. While the one is too cold with frost-bitten grass, the other is quite too warm; and without ice it is impossible to make first quality butter. And even with ice, I believe hazard nothing in saying it is so difficult a task that a package containing 100 pounds

has never been found in the market. Now if hard and soft water lands are to have a fair test, so as to decide which is best adapted to making first quality butter, the trial certainly should take place at the season when first quality butter can be made. May and September are the two best months in this latitude, with part of June, something depending on the season.

In this communication it is not my purpose to say whether I believe that grasses as well adapted to the production of first quality butdo not grow on hard water land as on soft, but I do mean that it is just as indispensably necessary to have soft water to wash the milk from butter, as it is to have soft water to wash fine linen, or to water rot flax to make the hurl soft, or to water plants. By this I do wish to be understood as saying that hard water lands are not best for some crops, or even that hard water is not better for some purposes. Eggs may be kept for years in lime-water properly prepared, which would spoil in soft water in twenty days.

And it is by no means invariable that in a lime-stone country the springs or streams are of hard water, though usually they are. In some localities they are just as soft as the rain that falls from the clouds, and which was absorbed within a mile distant, from some hard water lake, or pool, or the ocean itself.

It may be said that many of the best butter- makers do not wash their butter. Of this fact I am quite well aware, and in the vicinity of Philadelphia, where they make as good butter for immediate use as anywhere, they never wash their butter, nor do I believe that it would be improved for immediate use there or here, by washing: but I do mean to say, and on this point I wish to be distinctly understood, that to work butter sufficiently to seperate every particle of milk, so that it will keep

The plan which your correspondent proposes, at your suggestion, to test the question, is practicable and fair, and should be tried. I will see that some butter made from soft w: ter land by a fair test is forwarded in March or April, 1857, as the butter cannot be made Meantime I think I can suggest a plan whereby butter makers on hard water land, if skeptics, can satisfy themselves fairly. In May, when grass is good, work one crock, without washing, in your best manner; then take rain water and wash, as soon as your churning is completed, all the milk from the butter. Be careful in washing to pull the butter over with a ladle so as not to affect the grain then put it away in some sweet cool place, out of the reach of any bad influence its proper color; then work it over by hand and lay it down in your crock; and after it is laid down the same care must be taken to keep it through the season. A common farm-cellar, with meats, fish, and vegetables, would when taken without other branches..... lar, with meats, usn, and vegetables, spoil in sixty days the best package of butter Ornamental needlework and embroidery, each Ornamental needlework and embroidery, each Ornamental needlework and embroidery, each own way, wash another with water that you know to be hard, as some springs that are hard in dry weather in the springs that are hard in dry weather in the rainy seasons are Room rent for lodgers. nearly soft; lay down and keep both parcels as near alike as possible, without salt, as butter does not require salt to preserve it any more than lard does. Salt is only necessary for the purpose of flavoring anything that is not palatable. Salt can be worked in at any time. Then pursue the same course with three more packages salted with Liverpool salt, and observe the result. You will probably be as well satisfied as I am that hard water injures butter.
