Rats and Grain.

To protect grain from r ts, you have to thresh early, say in November, and then you must have a building that is rat tight, to save it in good condition. If rats have a free access to grain, it is impossible to have it free from the litter of rats. This makes it bok had, for it damages the sale of grain very much. You will observe the necessity of early threshing and careful storing. Perhaps a few hints on the construct on of a grain storehouse may be of some importance to some careless farfarmers. The first principal object to look out for is the foundation; if this is all right the important obstacles is overcome. This foundation consists of round posts only, for a corn crib they should be 5 feet long, 3 feet in the ground, and 2 out; for a storehouse, they want to be 7 feet long, 4 feet in the ground, and three out-this will bring the bottom of the building level with a common wagon box. These posts may be made of white oak, chestnut or rock ouk. They should be shaved perfeetly smooth on the outside, and set with the butt end ur. The upper or butt end should be squared off with a saw, then jut a common milkpan on the upper end of these posts with the bottom up. This pan will prevent all rats and mice ascending to the building, for it is a hard job for rats and mice to climb a smooth post that is set with the little end down, and then to make around the pan is an impossible thing. For a cornerib, 3 posts on a side are sufficient; for grain storehouse, 14 by 20 feet it requires 4 on a side, or one under every post of the building. Let your sills rest on the bottom of the pan, and then proceed with your building in any desirable way. I think the roof of a grain building should project at least 2 feet from the main body of the building all round. Hemlock lumber is superior to any other for granaries, for it is hard, corky and full of slivers, which is hard to gnaw. When a building is infested with rats and mice, I would recommend portable bins made to hold not more than 100 bushels with cast wheels under them, say six inches in diameter. If bins are portable you may arrange them as you please, so as to travel around them on every side. This will give you and your dog and cat | a good chance to kill these depredators. When I see a farmer feeding from 40 to 100 rats all winter on grain, when it is worth from 4 to 20 shillings per bushel, I calculate he is climbing the ladder of science feet foremost, and is liable to fall before he arrives at the top, yet many are doing business in this same way. Were they compelled to give amount of grain to the poor that these long tailed devils destroy yearly for them, they would feel very much affronted. Open your eyes, friends, and look in-that the former were made acquainted with it by the Scythians, Thracians and Prygians, and the latter by the people of Germany It appears, says Beckman, that when they had learned the art of making it, they employed it only as an ointment in their baths, and particularly as an ointment of the oint Galen and others as food, though they have spoken of it as applicable to other purposes. No E. ALBERT LUDWIG, A. M., Professor of Modern Lan. notice is taken of it by Apicius, nor is there anything said in that respect by the authors who treat on agriculture, though they have given accurate information regarding milk, cheese and oil. This may be easily accounted for by the fact, that the ancients were entirely accusines 14 weeks, besides 10 days recess at Christmas. tomed to the use of good oil. In like manner, butter is very little used at the present day in Italy, Spain, Portugal, and the sonthern parts of France, but it is sold in the apothecaries' shops for medical purposes. During the ages of Paganism butter appears to have been very scarce in Norway; mention is made by historians of a present of butter so large that a man could not carry it, and which within two miles of the Institute shall be admitted to tuiing the ages of Paganism butter appears to was considered a very respectable gift.—Far- lion therein upon any permanent scholarship rented or loaned by such pupil, his or her parent or guardian. mer's Magazine.

THE ELECTRO CHEMICAL BATH,

DIRECT & TO-&-FRO ELECTRO MAGNETIC MACHINE. JAMES HARRIS, ELECTRICIAN, of Towanda, respectJuly informs the public that he has lately procured from New York the celebrated Electro-Chemical Bath, which has proven to be one of the most important and wonderful discoveries of the age, from its ability to extract which has proven to be one of the most important and wonderful discoveries of the age, from its ability to extract minerals from the human system.

Some eight years ago, a physician of Cincinnati discovered the process of extracting minerals from the body, by galvanism: more recently, M. Verges, of New York, an electro-gilder, having suffered from the introduction of poisonous minerals into his system in the prosecution of his art, conceived the idea of removing them by the same processes, he succeeded in doing so, and quickly recovered. He then applied the same means to others similarly affected, with like results. His success exceeded his most sanguine expectations, for not only did these Baths remove mineral poisons, but cured many diseases, some of which were the result of minerals, and some were not.

More recent experiments have fully confirmed the singular power of this Bath to draw from the system all minerals that may be lodged therein, to the great detriment of health. Very often persons are afflicted by diseases which are beyond the comprehension of the most skilful physicians, and which are the effect of poisonous minerals accumulating in the system for years, taken in the shape of calomel, lead, &c. &c.

The following are some of the diseases cured by these baths: Rheumatism, Paralysis, Palsy, Painter's Cholic, Chronic Ulcers, Glandular Swellings, Scrofula, Cancer, Neuralia in all its forms, Salt Rheum and Humors of all kinds.

He has also S. R. Smith's newly invented DIRECT. AND

He has also S. B. Smith's newly invented DIRECT AND TO-AND-FRO ELECTRO MAGNETIC MACHINE

TO-AND-FRO ELECTRO MAGNETIC MACHINE, which is a great improvement on the Magnetic machines heretofore in use. With the aid of the Bath and Machine, we have at command all the available medical efficiency of Electricity. The medical power of the Machine is very great, in introducing medicines into the system through the porce of the skin—applying it directly to the parts affected, which gives an increase of medicinal power over that of taking it into the stomach, rendering it particularly efficacious in all local diseases.

I am now prepared to apply these Baths, and also the Machines, at my house in the south part of the borough of Towanda, or I will visit patients at a distance, who are unable by reason of disease to come to this place, at moderate prices.
