THE TRIBUNE FOR 1857.

The Election is past, and its results proves that the work devolved on the Republican party is not yet completed. In all the Eastern and Northern portions of the country—in New-England, New-York, Ohio and the North-West—the Republican hanner floats in triumph; while in Southern Jersey, Pennsylvania, Indiana and Illinois—in short, wherever few new-renew are taken to the property of the property are to the property of the property of the property are to the property of the pr leaving the station at Sufferns, and was totally wrecked. The boiler was thrown entirely across the other track, and the smoke-pipe was blown nearly 300 feet.

Three of the cars were thrown off the track and considerably broken. It is supposed that the water was exhausted in the boiler before taking in a fresh supply at the Sufferns Station, and the cold water passing into the heated boiler, as the train moved on, caused the explosion.

It must triumph; for all true prophecy affirms and the vindication of the Divine benignity imperatively requires it. It must triumph; for Democratic America cannot always remain the scoff of aristocrats and the shame of reformers and liberals throughout the Old World. It must triumph; for Man's history is not a chaos or a riddle, but everywhere instinct with meaning; and no heroic effort ever failed of its effect—no drop of martyr blood was ever shed in vain.
