The Burdell Murder.

The New York, Herold of Monday, says the proceedings of the Grand Jury in the Burdell murder case, are, of course, kept a profound secret; but still enough has leaked out to show that the testimony adduced on Wednesday was this pregnant paragraph from the Washington unusually interesting, and developed several new facts from witnesses who feared to appear before the Coroner, as they apprehended an imprisonment if they volunteered their evidence. Two of the best trained policemen at the Chief's office have been deputized to hunt up facts that have a bearing on this mysterious case, and they have been enabled to furnish several important witnesses to the Grand Jury, and, besides have discovered a number of circumstances that develope an entirely new and startling theory of the murder, and put a different phase on the whole matter.

Dr. John W. Francis was examined before the Grand Jury on Wednesday, and his testimony went to show that the first stabs inflicted on the body of Doctor Burdell must have been given by a person thoroughly conversant with the anatomy of the human frame, and who knew where to strike to inflict the most injury. He thought it must have been the work of a man educated as a physician, or at least of one whose knowledge of the vital parts was quite as accurate. This is somewhat in conflict with the generally-received impression that the murder was committed by a female.

Among the witnesses before the jury was a private watchman, who testified that he shook hands with Dr. B. at 10 1-2 o'clock on the night of the murder, at the corner of Broadway and Bond streets. His testimony, all of which we cannot publish, will have a most important bearing on the case. Another witness living at No. 30 Bond street, immediately opposite the scene of the tragedy, testified that he saw a strong light in the opposite window at a quarter to 11 o'clock, and also smelt the odor of burning clothes about midnight. The evidence of this witness would go to show that the murderer must have been concealed in the front room, an hypothesis confirmed by the situation of the body when Snoderass opened the door the morning after the murder.

The Grand Jury continued to work industriously vesterday in investigating the Burdell murder, and although few witnesses were examined, still their attention was occupied with the case during the entire day and afternoon. Only two witnesses were examined, and those we understand were not very important cases. -They were persons procured through the aid of the authorities outside of the Coroner's office, and were expected to give such evidence as would lead to the clearing up of the myste ry which surrounds the case. But the Grand Jury were very much disappointed at the result of their examination, as it did not reveal one-half of what was expected.

The Grand Jury then proceeded to weigh the evidence taken before them, and spent the entire afternoon and the greater part of last evening in examining the evidence and discussing the merits of the case. There seemed to be a general disposition on the part of members present to conclude the investigation last evening, so as to be able to report this morn ing, when the Recorder opens the Court of General Sessions.

Some strange revelations may be expected when the Grand Jury have concluded their labors in the Bond street case.

The police are on the track of another party who is suspected of being the perpetrator of the deed; but as it might defeat the ends of justice we refrain from publishing the facts until the evidence is sufficiently strong to arrest the suspected person.

Kansas to be a Slave State.

We might fill columns with interesting de tails relating to the affairs of Kansas, but it is sufficient for the present, to put on record correspondence of The Tribune :

"The opinion is very generally entertained here that the late proceedings of the Kansas Bogus Legislature will accomplish the purposes of the invaders and conquerors of that Territory, so far as to create a Constitution establishing slavery. The acts of the Legislature seem to demonstrate that in the Convention to be beld under its direction such a Constitution will be adopted. That Constitution will be framed next September, and presented to Congress for ratification, and for the admission of Kansas as a slave State. Minnesota, which is now ready, and whose admission the House has already voted for, will be kept back by the Senate until that time, when the plan will be to admit them both together. This is the next humiliation to which the free States are doomed by the Oligarchs Hopes are entertained that the scheme may be in some way frustrated by the terror of the Northern doughfaces, fearing o consumate the original conspiracy against Kansas, but we have every reason to believe from experience that those nopes will prove to be unfounded. The slaveholders rule this Republic with an iron hand, and the Northern Democrats in Congress, now reduced in numbers, are more than ever submissive to their inexorable demands. The only queston has been whether the Southern men could not think it the safest policy to permit Kansas to be a Free State, and act accordingly; but this idea appears to be fading out .-They seem to have determined that it is best to bring the nose of the North to the grindcratic members of Congress, or Northern Democratic newspapers may say on this subject, it is not of the least consequence. In the first place they don't know what the Southern leaders have determined upon, and without this knowledge their statements are valuelessthey have no functions in the matter except to carry out and defend the policy that is dictated to them by those leaders. This they will do as they have done hitherto."

N. Y. & ERIE RAILROAD .- So energetically had the repairs on the Deleware Division been prosecuted since the freshet, that but for a second misfortune the trains would have commenced making their regular trips over the entire length of the road, this morning. But, yesterday, the River again suddenly rose, and, after the Mail train from New York had crossed the Delaware at Narrowsburgh, the trestle work created as a temporary crossing until the Bridge could be replaced by a substantial structure, was carried away! Well, we are sorry; but inasmuch as neither Superintendents nor Directors can control the storm and flood, we must wait patiently again until this second misfortune shall be repaired, as we have no doubt it speedily will be. Meantime, the trains of the Erie Road, as heretofore since the damage by the freshet, will continue to connect with the trains on the De'aware, Lackawana & Western Road, a route which has been found a safe, pleasant and expeditious one by very many of our citizens during the last week or two, who have had occasion to visit New York and Philadelphia .- Owego

In the House, a bill was reported from the Committee on Ways and Means, to extend the time for the Norfolk and Petersburg Railroad to pay the duties on the iron imported for that road. It was laid on the table by four majority. Mr. Davis, of Maryland, by direction of the Corruption Investigating Committee, offered to make a special report in the case of William A. Gilbert, of New-York, and moved that the report be printed. Mr. Grow denied the right of the committee to make a report without permission. An exciting scene ensued, whereupon the Speaker said that Mr. Davis must state the character of the report. After much further uproar, Mr. Davis did read the portion of the report referring to Mr. Gilbert, concluding with a resolution that he be expelled. The charge against Mr. G. is that he voted for the Iowa land bill for a corrupt consideration; and that, for a certain sum of money, he helped to procure the passage of a resolution or bill authorizing the purchase of certain copies of a book by F. F. C. Triplett, on the Pension and Bounty Land Law. A long debate ensued, after which the special report was ordered to be printed, and the consideration of the resolutions postponed until Wednesday next. Mr. Davis said that the committee had three other special reports to pulsion from the floor of the House as a repor- community. ter. The committee report a bill to punish members for corruption.
