Feeding and Culture of Carrots.

I have wintered swine almost entirely upon carrots, fed raw. They not only grew but fattened upon them. For this purpose, however, 1 would advise to cook them.

I prefer them to any other root (not except ing beets) for feeding cows that are milked through the winter. Butter made from cows so fed is as good flavored and rich colored as can be made in June or September I once fattened a cow upon carrots, feeding meal only a few days before she was butchered. She was quite thin when I commenced feeding, yet fifty bushels of carrots made her fat enough to yield ninety-sis pounds of "rough tallow."-Good judges pronounced the beef superior to any they ever saw. I commenced feeding her about the 15th of October, and fed a bushel a day until the fifty bushels were consumed .-Can any of the readers of the Country Gentleman tell me of a cheaper way to make good beef than the above? If so, I should be glad to hear from them.

Horses also thrive well upon carrots. I believe it is generally conceded by those who have tried it to be ahead of any other root for this tried it to be ahead of any other root for this "most noble animal." In fact it is the root for the horse. Try it, brother farmers. Feed your horses less grain and more carrots, and if they have not smoother coats and fewer coughs than that neighbor of yours who "stuffs" his with dry hay and grain, then resume your old practice and call me a know-nothing. I consider the "Long Orange" far the best as a standard sort for general cultivation.— The White Belgian has been recommended by some as the oest, on account of its being more easily harvested, as it generally grows nearly one th rd of its length above ground. From what experience I have had with them, I think the difference in the labor of harvesting is not as great as the difference in the carrots. The White Belgian is far less nutritious than the deeper-colored varieties, and never keeps as well. Liately received a package of carrot sond

As well. I lately received a package of carrot seed from Germany, that was labeled "Early Dutch Horn Carrot." It proves to be a very early variety, and it is the best for table use of any kind I ever cultivated. It is fine grained, and has a peculiar rich and agreeable flavor; top, small; color, deep orange—short—tap-root terminating abruptly. The latter qualification fits them admirably for thin or stony soil, as it facilitates the labor of harvesting. The car-rot delight in deep, rich, mellow soil. There-fore land intenled for them can lard'y be ploughed to deep, or made too rich. I sow in ploughed to deep, or made too rich. I sow in drills eighteen inches apart. They should not stand too thick. An inch or an inch and a half apart is about the right distance.

I generally sow from the 15th of May to the first of June, and harvest at the rate of 1,000 bushels per acre. Carrot seed should be cov-ered about one-third of an inch deep, and the earth firmly pressed about it The neglect of the latter precaution has been the means of losing many valuable crops. In sandy soil it should be covered deeper. The heaviest crop I ever raised was on a piece of land that was used as a barn-yard during the winter preceding. The greater portion of the manure was drawn off and the land ploughed and sowed the first of June. The ground and earrots were measured at the time of harvesting, and found to yield at the enormous rate of 1,600 bushels per acre. EDWARD L. Cov, West Hebron, Wa hington Co., N. Y .- Country Gentleman, February 27.

ed process : Firstly, in churning the cream, enough ice should be put into it occasionally to make the butter come in crumbs ; pour off the buttermilk, and wash the butter several times in soft ice water until there ceases to be any milky appearance. During the process of washing, should there be a solid lump of but- Nov. 25, 1856. ter large enough to contain a cell of fluid, that lump should be crushed while in the water, and broken into a corresponding size with the other crumbs. Lastly, wash it in brine made of rock salt, saltpetre, soft water and ice ; skim the crumbs out of the brine with a skimmer ; drain each skimmer-full well, and spread the crumbs of butter on zine plates (in cold weather wooden tables will do instead.) In verv warm weather the zinc plates should be set on ice water. While the crumbs are spread out thinly, place the butter in the middle of a milk room ; open all the windows, and a current of air passing over it, will evaporate all the moisture in warm weather, if the room is suitably ventilated.

"Care should be taken not to have any other moisture in the room, like water on the floor. or wet dairy furniture in the room. When the butter is perfectly dry, pack it down immediately ; let there be no more working of it than is necessary to pack it solid in a jar or tub .--This will secure unbroken the crystals of butter and its original flavor. As near as I can ascertain, there will not exceed one ounce of salt to ten pounds of butter by the process of brine salting. As a general thing, in making for hospitals, gouty invalids and sick persons the salting process should be omitted altogether. Butter made in this way, (without salt,) if sealed in cans or jars and placed in an atmosphere or chamber of binoxide of nitrogen, I believe will keep any practical number of vears.'
