

THE BURDELL MURDER CASE.—The trial of Mrs. Cunningham, indicted as a principal in the murder of Dr. Burdell, was commenced in New York on Monday week before Judge Davies. The entire day and evening, until 9 p. m., was consumed in obtaining a jury. Many of the five hundred who were empaneled were absent, and many of those present had formed an opinion. Mrs. Cunningham was present, dressed in deep mourning, and accompanied by her two daughters. Eckel was also in court, and sat by the side of his counsel during the day. The District Attorney opened the case for the prosecution on Tuesday.

The trial was concluded on Saturday last, and ended in the acquittal of Mrs. Cunningham. There was not the slightest evidence which cast suspicion even upon her as a participant in the bloody deed. Eckel was discharged from custody upon nominal bail, upon his own recognizance. He will probably not be tried.

Terrible Conflagration.

On Monday night last, a little before ten o'clock, our citizens were aroused by the cry of fire, for a long time happily unheard in our village. When first discovered the flames were bursting through Ah-wa-ga House barn, a very large and well finished frame building, containing eight horses, one cow, and a large quantity of hay, besides two omnibuses, a number of valuable wagons and carriages, harnesses, etc. As soon as the flames were discovered a rush was made for the barn, and the front door opened; but the whole inside was a mass of flames, and it was utterly impossible to rescue the horses, two of which had been driven into the barn but a few minutes previously, and were hitched to the omnibus. In a few moments the whole building was enveloped in flames, and from its combustible nature and the force of the wind, which was then blowing a gale, few entertained any hopes of saving any of the frame buildings in its vicinity. The flames roared and surged through the roof carrying the burning shingles in every direction. Occasionally the flames, as if acted upon by a violent whirlwind, would tower straight up, illuminating the whole village, then instantly the column would be lashed down horizontally over the neighboring roofs covering them with glowing shingles and burning embers. It was really the most terrific sight we have seen. Soon Charles Beers' Livery stable, from which the horses, wagons and harnesses, etc., were with difficulty rescued, and his dwelling house on Lake street, Gold's and Riley's blacksmith shops and Conklin's wagon shop, were in flames and all efforts for their safety were unavailing. The elegant residence of Capt. Ayers and the large barn belonging to the Central House, were saved by the greatest efforts. The Central House itself was in the most imminent danger, and had it not been for the combined exertions of a number of active citizens, aided by a good full cistern and a long line of pails, it would not be now standing almost entirely uninjured, externally at least. Isaac Hall's boot and shoe manufactory had a narrow escape, as also Mr. Huntington's residence. A little shanty that stands off the street, between Mr. Beers' residence and the Messrs. Lameran's saddletry was pulled down and by that means checked the fire from progressing down the east side of Lake street.

Mr. Brower's loss must be $2,500 or $3,000 on which we learn he has $500 insurance.— Mr. Beers, and Mr. Gould and Mr. Riley had no insurance. The entire loss must amount to between $6,000 and $7,000.

Of the eight horses destroyed in Mr. Brower's barn, five belonged to Mr. Brower, one to James Wright, one to Mr. Newell and one to Benjamin Wilcox. Each was worth at least $150.

Mr. Beers lost in his barn 10 or 12 tons of hay, and about 300 bushels of oats.

The origin of the fire is unknown. The driver of the omnibus was in the barn not over 10 minutes before the fire was discovered.— There was a loud rattle burning in the omnibus. It may have exploded, or the stump of a cigar may have been dropped. There are some suspicious of deliberate incendiarism.— Owego Times.

NATIONAL HOTEL DISEASE.—Mr. Briggs, of the National Hotel, has called and requested us to correct a statement in our article of Saturday evening, touching the fatal disease.— We cheerfully do so. He says that no rats were found in the tanks—that the one on the ground-floor was made of granite, and the other, on the roof, was closed by a spring door. The water was pumped from the lower to the upper one, which he visited twice or three times daily, and can vouch as to the impossibility of rats getting into either.

The assertion made in distant papers that the disease made its first appearance when Mr. Buchanan came, Mr. Briggs states to be untrue. Cases as early, he thinks, as the 8th of January, were noted. The hot weather of February succeeding, the house was kept cool, and no cases presented themselves. In March the weather changed, and it became necessary to close windows and doors, and light fires; which being done, the disease commenced with the fury which has made it so lamentably notorious.— Washington States, May 6.

MYSTERIOUS MURDER.—On Thursday morning the dead body of a young and beautiful woman apparently twenty years of age, was found lying in a ploughed field at Hampton, about five miles north of Newburg. She was entirely naked, and round her neck was found a cord, and from this circumstance, as well from the distortion of her features, it was evident her death had been caused by strangulation. No clue to her name or whence she came, had been discovered at last advices from Newburg, but the Coroner had commenced an inquest. None of her apparel was found, and the only article belonging to her that has been discovered so far was a large cameo brooch, or breastpin.— New York Advertiser.

The N. Y. Times gives as "an item for Old Buck" the following: "On Wednesday night at the Opera, Col. FREMONT and Ex-President Fillmore sat side by side in a front seat, listening to Gazzaniga in "Norma," apparently entirely forgetful that there had been a Presidential election last Fall. If Mr. Buchanan could have looked in and seen how perfectly satisfied and placid these two rivals of his appeared in their defeat, we are not sure, but that he would have envied them their happy escape from the toils and troubles of the White House."

ANOTHER BLOODY TRAGEDY.—Two Shocking Murders for Money.—The Pittsburg papers of Saturday contain the particulars of another shocking tragedy, committed in the borough of McKeesport, Pennsylvania. The victims were an old and decrepit couple, brother and sister, between sixty and seventy years of age, by the names of George and Elizabeth Wilson.

The couple lived in a small cabin on the main road leading to Elizabethtown, and had by economy and industry, succeeded in accumulating some money, whereby they might support themselves in their declining years. It appears that a day or two previous there came to the cabin a large and masculine looking female, who craved shelter for charity sake. The boon was freely granted and during the first day of the stranger's stay at the house, she made particular inquiries concerning the pecuniary circumstances of her benefactors.

About 8 o'clock last Friday morning, a neighbor's little girl proceeded to pay her accustomed visit to the old couple at their cabin. She opened the door and entered; but instead of being received with a welcome and a smile as was usual, a horrid spectacle was presented to her gaze. The brother had been stabbed to the heart, and the knife which inflicted the deadly wound, lay a short distance from the corpse, all covered with blood. By the side of the brother lay the sister, a mutilated in a manner shocking to the senses, and sickening to the heart of humanity; her head was bruised and beaten so horribly that it would have been impossible to recognize it from the rest of her body, as the representation of anything human. A poker besmeared with blood, was lying on the hearth, and it is supposed to have been the instrument used in performing this act of barbarous butchery.

The woman spoken of, who claims to be married to a man named Pife, has been arrested on suspicion, as was her pretended husband, and a man named Tom Stewart. Blood was found upon Pife's clothing, and it is stated in a postscript that Charlotte Jones or Pife (the woman spoken of) has disclosed the whole affair, implicating the men arrested and two others—her brother one of them.

SINGULAR FEAT OF A BIRD.—The Somerset (Pa.) Democrat says, some time last fall, a blackbird came to Mr. Joseph Snyder's in this borough, and has since lived contentedly with the chickens. It has thoroughly domesticated, and comes regularly for his food. Instead of roosting as chickens do, it takes a position on the rooster's back, who bears the weight of his little friend with great good nature. But the most singular of all is this it has learned to crow like a cock, and crows regularly, more frequently than the rooster, and seems to be vain of its accomplishment. It is a real bona fide crow, clear and loud and similar to that of a young rooster. The bird can be seen and heard daily; and if any one doubts its truth, they can be convinced by seeing and hearing for themselves. The age is progressive, and the birds are keeping up with the times.

HORRIBLE ACCIDENT.—A man saved in two. The London (C. W.) Free press of yesterday, says that on Wednesday of last week, a most shocking accident occurred in a circular saw-mill at Wallingham. Charles Harris, a young man lately married, had just been employed that morning to work in the mill and was set carrying away boards as they dropped from the saw. He was cautioned against the danger of letting a board touch the saw while in motion, but the unfortunate man had taken away but a few boards when the end of one he had just taken up swayed against the saw, and being repelled with violence, caused the other end to force him against the saw, then in full motion, and, as quick as thought, he was cut in twain. The saw struck first the point of the left shoulder passing directly through the heart, and out under the ribs on the right side of the body.

MAINE.—The legislature of Maine passed two acts of an important character previous to its adjournment, besides resolutions condemning the Dred Scott decision. One of these acts provides that in case a fugitive slave is arrested under the act of Congress in that state, the county attorney shall undertake his defence and summon the necessary witnesses to establish it. The second acts that any slave voluntarily brought into that state by his master, or with his knowledge and consent, shall thereby become free; and if restrained of his liberty, he may, on the writ of habeas corpus, be discharged from such restraint; and any attempt by any person to restrain such slave of his liberty, shall be punished by a fine not exceeding one thousand dollars, or by imprisonment not exceeding one year.

ROLLOFFE AT LARGE.—Rolloffe, the murderer, whose application for a new trial is among the cases to be decided at the General Term of the Supreme Court in Owego next week, broke out of the Tompkins County jail night before last, and made his escape! The Sheriff of the county offers a Reward of $500 for his detection and re-arrest; but no clue to his whereabouts or of the direction he took, has been ascertained when cars left Ithaca last evening.— Owego Gazette.

The following notice is posted conspicuously in a printing office "down East"—Shut this door, and as soon as you have done talking on business, serve your mouth in the same way.

It is stated that of the 606 convicts who now occupy the Ohio Penitentiary, 554 cannot read or write, and 400, or nearly 60 per cent of the entire number, have no trades. This brief return is full of meaning. It at once admonishes and instructs. There are two great essentials for success in life—education and regular occupation.

We learn that the dwelling house of JOHN H. OSTLER, in Forks township, in this county, was destroyed by fire, one day last week. Mr. O. and his family were absent at the time, consequently the entire contents of the house were consumed. We did not learn the particulars.— Sullivan Co. Democrat.

FROM WASHINGTON.—Washington, Friday, May 8, 1857.—The Cabinet to-day were almost exclusively occupied with Kansas affairs, the Hon. Robert J. Walker being present for several hours. He will take the oath of office, on Monday or Tuesday. The official and private accounts daily received induce both him and the Administration to believe that there will be no serious, if any obstruction to the adjustment of the pending difficulties in that Territory.
