ONE HUNDRED TONS OF GRASS TO AN ACRE. -Mr. Editor: The statement you published, taken from an English paper, respecting the raising of one hundred tons of grass on a single acre of land pertaining to Lord Derby's estate, is undoubtedly correct, or nearly so. I had the pleasure of visiting his lordship's estate last summer, while on a tour of agricultural observation in England, and I am prepared to believe the statement. My visit was made about the first of June, and they had already secured two heavy crops of grass, and it is not improbable that four or five more were cut during the long and favorable season of last year. Four or five crops of heavy stout, Italian rye grass is not unusual; Mr Mechi of the celebrated Triptree farm, informed me that he had once grown seven during the summer. This grass grows with great rapidity in England when stimulated by the rich, liquid nutriment so liberally and coatin-

Our farmers have yet much to learn respecting the scientific cultivation of the soil. They have yet to learn how bountiful mother earth may be when properly dressed and car-ed for by the husbandman. It should be ob-served that the climate of England is much more favorable for the growth of grasses than our own, owing to its excessive humidity; but still, I do not know why several successive crops may not be produced here, by the use of liquid manuring and by careful, systematic enlture.—Jas. R. Nichols, Haverhill, Mass., May, 1857.

A crop of two or three tons of hay on an acre is considered pretty good husbandry in these parts, with some aftermath or rowen perhaps in the latter part of summer. But only figure up the crops spoken of by Mr. Nichols in his letter to the Scientific American. One hundred tons in five or seven crops of hay on a single acre of land require each crop to be fourteen or twenty tons? Take either supposition, and how could it be dried on an English climate of very frequent rain? It may be Indian rye grass or any other grass ; to convert into hay, the moisture must be exhaled from it, after which the season's product is affirmed to weigh one hundred pounds to an acre.

We have frequently read that some plants -some plants, if not most-derive the principal part of their sustenace from the atmosphere, the ground which holds their roots of ficiating chiefly as convenience to keep them right end up, as their roots feel rather a preference of being in the earth to a position high up in the air. Such, probably, is this character of the rye grass, which notwithstanding all the liquid fertilizers with which the ground in question was stimulated, must have its roots; it would seem an impossible task to take up nourishment to feed such a voracious appetit as it must have had, in order to expand to twenty tons weight of hay at of five cuttings in a year. To account for such a product we must resort, consequently, to the atmospheric theory, just as that experimentor did who weighed the earth in his pot previous to planting his flowers, weighed it again after cultivating therein a large plant, and found that on comparison, that it had lost not a penny weight, though a heavy shrub had been pro duced therein during the interval .- (Newark Advertiser, May 21.

SMUT IN WHEAT .- Much has been said and written about smut. Many experiments have been resorted to discover its cause. The most enlightened inference seems to be that it is a disease, but what, and how cured, are the ful source of smut is the heating of the seed in the mow. With this view, my preventative for some years past has been to let my wheat for seed stand until quite ripe for cutting, and then I advise to put it on a scaffold until fully cured. Since I have practiced this mode of saving seed, I have no smut in my wheat, although my neighbors complain of their wheat smutting."—Valley Farmer.

THE SUGAR BEET .- A mechanic having a cow, and but a small piece of ground to derive the means of sustaining her, cannot do much better than to plant a portion or the whole of it with sugar beets. He will in this way secure more salutary aliment for his animal than in any other way, and at a loss expense. From eight to thirteen hundred bushels have been taken from an acre, and in several cases, the crop has amounted to fifteen hundred. The roots attain a large size and nutritious and wholesome. Swine fat rapidly on boiled beets, and the pork made an on this food is said to be more solid than that on potatoes or any other root. We would advise every one this season to put in a small plot of this vegetable, and give it a trial. - New England Farmer.

To IMPROVE POOR LAND .- Plown down an indifferent sod, harrow well if very poor, apply a coating of manure, or 200 lbs of Peruvian Guano to the acre—sow with rye and clover. The second year take off a mowing of clover, and let the second crop grow as large and long as possible. Then plow it down. Sow again with rye or grass seed.

A correspondent of the Country Gentleman thinks the Spanish Chestnut common in many parts of Europe, worthy of cultivation here. Its fruit grows to twice the size of our chestnut, and is palatable only when cooked-but then it is said to be excellent, and is considered an important item of food in some sections of Europe.

REMEDY FOR HEAVES .- A writer in the Agriculturist states he thoroughly cured a fine young mare afflicted with the heaves by feeding her on corn-stalks, and that the disease never returned. He quotes Judge Buel's opinion as to corn-stalks being a remedy, that distinguished agriculturist having had a horse afflicted with that disorder, which disappeared after being so fed.

A cow that runs almost entirely to milk will grow poorer, rather than otherwise, in good pasture. She will require more water and grass. Her rich food will be almost entirely absorbed in the production of milk. She will be likely, too, to be short lived. An excess- been give ive flow of milk has its dis d antages. - Ohio Valley Farmer.

A NEW and singularly successful remedy for the cure of all Billious diseases—Costiveness, Indigestion Jaundice, Dropsy, Rheumatism, Fevers, Gout, Humors, Nervousness, Irritability, Inflamations, Headache, Pains in the Breast, Side, Back, and Limbs, Female Complaints, &c., &c. Indeed very few are the diseases in which a Purgative Medicine is not more or less required, and much sickness and suffering might be prevented, if a harmless but effectual Cathartic were more freely used. No person can feel well-wished excitate habited. important questions. We do not dispore a discussion of the subject, but only to quote from the Wisconsin Farmer the experience of a wheat grower. He says:

"As I have ever, in regard to all discases, considered an ounce of preventation equal to a pound of cure, I have, from a careful investigation become satisfied that the most fruitful source of smut is the heating of the seed in Patients and Cathartic were more freely used. No person can feel well while a costive habit of body prevails; besides it soon generates serious and often fatal diseases, which might have been avoided by the timely and judicious use of a good purgative. This is alike true of Colds, Feverish symptoms, and Billious derangements. They all tend to become or produce the deep seated and formidable distempers which load the hearses all over the land. Hence a reliable family physic is of the first importance to the public health, and this Pill has been perfected with consummate skill to meet that demand. An extensive trial of its virtues by Physicians, Professors, and Patients, has shown results surpassing anything a extensive trial of its virtues by Physicians, Professors, and Patients, has shown results surpassing anything hitherto known of any medicine. Cures have been effected beyond belief, were they not a ibstantiated by persons of such exalted positions and character as to forbid the suspicion of untruth.

Among the eminent gentlemen who have testified in favor of these Pills, we may mention:

Doct. A. A. HAYES, Analytical Chemist of Boston, and State Assayer of Massachusetts, whose high Professional character is endorsed by the—

Hon. EDWARD EVERETT, Senator of the United States.

ROBERT C. WINTHROP, Ex-Speaker of the House epresentatives.
ABBOTT LAWRENCE, Minister Plen. to England.
+JOHN B. FITZPATRICK, Catholic Bishop of Boston

Dr. J. R. CHILTON, Practical Chemist of New York

Hon. W. L. MARCY, Secretary of State.
WM. B. ASTOR, the richest man in America.
S. EELAND & Co., Proprietors of the Metropolitan

S. EELAND & Co., Proprietors of the Metropolitan Hotel, and others.

Did space permit, we could give many hundred certificates from all parts where the Pills have been used, but evidence even more convincing than the experience of eminent public men, is found in their effects upon trial.

These Pills, the result of long investigation and study, are offered to the public as the best and most complete which the present state of medical science can afford.

They are commounded not of the drugs themselves, but of are offered to the public as the best and most complete which the present state of medical science can afford.— They are compounded not of the drugs themselves, but of the medicinal virtues only of Vegetable remedies extracted by Chemical process in a state of purity, and combined together in such a manner as to insure the best results. This system of composition for medicines has been found in Cherry Pectoral and Pills both, to produce a more efficient remedy than had hitherto been obtained by any process. The reason is perfectly obvious. While by the old mode of composition, every medicine is burdened with more or less of acrimonions and injurious qualities, by this each individual virtue only that is desired for the curative effect is present. All the inert and obnoxious qualities of each substance employed are left behind, the curative virtues only being retained. Hence it is self evident the effects should prove as they have proved, more purely remedial, and the Pills a more powerful antidote to disease than any other medicine known to the world.

tidote to disease than any other medicine known to the world.

As it is frequently expedient that many medicines should be taken under the counsel of an attending Physician, and as he could not properly judge of a remedy without knowing its composition, I have suppled the accurate Formulæ by which both my Pectoral and Pills are made, to the whole body of Practitioners in the United States and British American Provinces. If however there should be any one who has not received them, they will be forwarded by mail to his request.

Of all the Patent Medicines that are offered, how few would be taken it their composition was known! Their life consists in their mystery. I have no mysteries.

The composition of my preparations is laid open to all men, and all who are competent to judge on the subject freely acknowledge their convictions of their intrinsic merits. The Cherry Pectoral was pronounced by scientific men to be a wonderful medicine before its effects were known. Many eminent Physicians have declared the same thing of my Pills, and even more confidently, and are willing to certify that their anticipations were more than realized by their effects upon trial.

They operate by their powerful influence on the internal viscera to purify the blood and stimulate it into healthy action—remove the obstructions of the stomach, bowels, liver, and other organs of the body, restoring their irregular action to health, and by correcting, wherever they exist, such derangements as are the first origin of disease.
