Clover Hay.

The clovers are just considered as among the best and most valuable of the cultivated grasses. Yet, owing to an error in cutting and curing them, a very considerable portion of the rich nutritrive matters they contain is lost. As a preventive of this, a correspondent of the Germantown Telegraph gives the following :

I have now a mow of red clover, sparsely intermixed with which are small quantities of white clover, red top, brown top and herds grass, which was cut when honeysuckles was in full bloom, and made in grass cock, according to the rules laid down sometime since in the columns of your paper for curing this kind of hay. I must say that although I had not much faith in the matter at first, the result has fully proved the correctness of the writer's views, and that I no longer doubt the theory upon which the practice is based. If clover is cut when in bloom and permitted to remain undisturbed in the swath till the forenoon of the second day and then turned, exposing the under and unwilted side to the sun for a few hours, and then pitched carefully into cocks of sixty-pounds weight, cured hay, and there allowed to stand till cured, the hay will be heavier, brighter of better flavor and possessed of far greater nourishment than hay of the same kind made in ordinary manner. The leaves and fine heads, which are inevitably lost in drying in the ordinary way, in consequence of their brittleness when dried, are in this way preserved. The flavor of the hay is also vastly superior. One ton of good clover, made in this way, is worth, for feeding, two tons cured the old way, and deprived by turning, spreading and filching of its heads and leaves. The fermentation which it undergoes in the cock is never sufficiently vigorous to dissipate any of the elimentary properties, and is rarely sufficient to be perceptible by the hand. That the heat is very moderate is sufficiently attested by the fact that the color, not only of the foliage which is naturally of a deep and vivid green, but the bright crimson of the flowers, is retained, which would not be the case where the fermentation as vigorous as many would lead us to believe. Any grass cured in this way will be more nutritive, of better color and greater weight than the same grass made in the old way.

☞ A writer in the Scientific American recommends to the ladies a very simple arrangement for keeping butter nice and cool in the hottest weather. Procure a large new flowerpot, of sufficient size to cover the butter-plate, and also a saucer large enough for the flowerpot to rest in upside down ; place a trivet or meat stand (such as is sent to the oven when a joint is baked) in the saucer, and put on this trivet the plate of butter ; now fill the saucer with water, and turn the flowerpot over the butter, so that its edges will be below the water. The hole in the flower-pot must be filled with a cork ; the butter will then be in what we may call an air tight chamber. Let the whole of the outside of the flower-pot be then thoroughly drenched with water and place as you can. If this be over night the butter will be as "firm as a rock" at breakfast time , or, if placed there in the morning the butter will be quite hard for use at tea hour. The reason of this is, that when water evaporates, it produces cold ; the porus pot draws up the water which in warm weather quickly evaporates from the sides, and thus cools it, and as no warm air can now get at the butter it becomes firm and cool in the hottest day.

Squashes.—Many persons fail to get good squashes in consequence of the bugs making such havoc with the young and tender plants, what they do not eat being so mutilated and poisoned as to prevent their growth. Various modes have been resorted to, to prevent these ravages, but with little effect. The squash is a strong feeder, and needs a rich and warm soil, and when it has these, and can be kept out of the way of the bugs, there is no difficulty in procuring a good crop. The best preventative however, of the bugs, is to plant late—say from the 12th to the 20th of June ; the plants come thick at that season, if the soil is suitable and go on with a rapid and uninterrupted growth—Maine Farmer.

Facts for the Farmer.—Fence posts should never be set in the soil till seasoned although wood is known to be more durable in wet ground, if the degree of moisture is regularly kept up. Constant wetness promotes rather than decreases the durability of posts ; still the fermentations of the natural sap will induce rot. We ought to mention in connection with this, the fact that all timber used in the lower and more exposed parts of buildings, ought to be thoroughly seasoned before it is used. When it is necesary to put in new sills, seasoned timber ought invariably to be selected. A sill or sleeper that is perfectly dry, if not placed too near the surface of the ground will last much longer than a stick of the same size freshly cut and hewn. The higher a building sets above the surface, the longer the sills last. Carpenters and other observing men assert, that wood cut in the shortest days of winter, does not prove durable as that cut in June. Wood partially seasoned, is also preferable, in many respects for fuel, to that which is thoroughly dry. It is a mistake to suppose that the entire mass of fluid contained in wood, is mere water. Like the blood of the human system it is a compound liquid, of which pure aqueous particles constitute the base ; but in both cases chemistry has developed the presence of numerous other substances. In wood partially dry, the water is in a great measure absent, and all that is combustible, in the fluid, is left in the pores.

Preparation of Seeds.—Some seeds are so slow of germination that weeds grow in advance of them, and thus render their cultivation more difficult. Many of these, such as the carrot, parsnip, &c., may be buried in a bag in the soil a few days before use, and thus swell materially, by the humidity and other necessary conditions found in the soil, before final use. This mode of treatment, in many cases, will do away with the necesaiy for steeps, and render early germination quite certain. Care should be taken not to have them buried long enough to cause material sprouting, as the new sprout might be broken off or injured during planting.—Ohio Valley Farmer.

CATHARTIC PILLS

A NEW and singularly successful remedy for the cure of all Billious diseases—Costiveness, Indigestion Jaundice, Dropsy, Rheumatism, Fevers, Gout, Humors, Nervousness, Irritability, Inflamations, Headache, Pains in the Breast, Side, Back, and Limbs, Female Complaints, &c., &c. Indeed very few are the diseases in which a Purgative Medicine is not more or less required, and much sickness and suffering might be prevented, if a harmless but effectual Cathartic were more freely used. No person can feel well while a costive habit of body prevails ; besides it soon generates serious and often fatal diseases, which might have been avoided by the timely and judicious use of a good purgative. This is alike true of Colds, Feverish symptoms, and Billious derangements. They all tend to become or produce the deep seated and formidable distempers which load the hearses all over the land. Hence a reliable family physic is of the first importance to the public health, and this Pill has been perfected with consummate skill to meet that demand. An extensive trial of its virtues by Physicians, Professors, and Patients, has shown results surpassing anything hrtherto known of any medicine. Cures have been effected beyond belief, were they not substantiated by persons of such exalted positions and character as to forbid the suspicion of untruth.

Among the eminent gentlemen who have testified in favor of these Pills, we may mention :

Doct. A. A. HAYES, Analytical Chemist of Boston, and State Assayer of Massachusetts, whose high Professional character is endorsed by the—

Hon. EDWARD EVERETT, Senator of the United States.

ROBERT C. WINTHROP, Ex-Speaker of the House of Representatives.

ABBOTT LAWRENCE, Minister Plen. to England.

†JOHN B. FITZPATRICK, Catholic Bishop of Boston; also

Dr. J. R. CHILTON, Practical Chemist of New York City, endorsed by

Hon. W. L. MARCY, Secretary of State.

WM. B. ASTOR, the richest man in America.

S. EELAND & Co., Proprietors of the Metropolitan Hotel, and others.

Did space permit, we could give many hundred certificates from all parts where the Pills have been used, but evidence even more convincing than the experience of eminent public men, is found in their effects upon trial.

These Pills, the result of long investigation and study, are offered to the public as the best and most complete which the present state of medical science can afford.—They are compounded not of the drugs themselves, but of the medicinal virtues only of Vegetable remedies extracted by Chemical process in a state of purity, and combined together in such a manner as to insure the best results. This system of composition for medicines has been found in Cherry Pectoral and Pills both, to produce a more efficient remedy than had hitherto been obtained by any process. The reason is perfectly obvious. While by the old mode of composition, every medicine is burdened with more or less of acrimonious and injurious qualities, by this each individual virtue only that is desired for the curative effect is present. All the inert and obnoxious qualities of each substance employed are left behind, the curative virtues only being retained. Hence it is self evident the effects should prove as they have proved, more purely remedial, and the Pills a more powerful antidote to disease than any other medicine known to the world.

As it is frequently expedient that many medicines should be taken under the counsel of an attending Physician, and as he could not properly judge of a remedy without knowing its composition, I have suppled the accurate Formulæ by which both my Pectoral and Pills are made, to the whole body of Practitioners in the United States and British American Provinces. If however there should be any one who has not received them, they will be forwarded by mail to his request.

Of all the Patent Medicines that are offered, how few would be taken it their composition was known ! Their life consists in their mystery. I have no mysteries.

The composition of my preparations is laid open to all men, and all who are competent to judge on the subject freely acknowledge their convictions of their intrinsic merits. The Cherry Pectoral was pronounced by scientific men to be a wonderful medicine before its effects were known. Many eminent Physicians have declared the same thing of my Pills, and even more confidently, and are willing to certify that their anticipations were more than realized by their effects upon trial.

They operate by their powerful influence on the internal viscera to purify the blood and stimulate it into healthy action—remove the obstructions of the stomach, bowels, liver, and other organs of the body, restoring their irregular action to health, and by correcting, wherever they exist, such derangements as are the first origin of disease.

Prepared by Dr. Jas. C. Ayer, Practical and Analytical Chemist, Lowell, Mass.
