

Farmer's Department. Native Grapes.

The following article we take from the Cincinnati Commercial. It was written by N. Longworth.

In raising plants from the seed of the Catawba, grapes of great value may be produced, and varieties without number. But the greater portion will go back to its grandfather, the Fox; and many of them of great beauty of color, and being of large size. The Fox Grape is readily distinguished by its extreme white color of the leaf on the under side; and where a full blooded Fox, when well covered with a hairy down. Where there is a down, the plant should be thrown aside as soon as the stem shows it. Where the stem is smooth, if the leaf is white, it may produce a good fruit. Where the under side of the leaf has less, or not more of the Fox character than the Catawba, a plant of value may be expected. The common Fox Grape, as the skin is thick, and the pulp hard, yields but little must, and most of them not as much sugar, and therefore are not valuable as wine grapes. Where wine is made from them, I should put 12 ounces of loaf sugar to the gallon. If a sweet wine is desired, 26 ounces. It will have a good aroma and flavor.

I find grapes from the North, generally, when cultivated here, to possess less sugar than those from a warmer region, and in making wine North, an addition of sugar before fermentation will ensure a good wine. Even here, persons profess to have wine kept sweet, and all fermentation prevented, by a charm. I am satisfied that no grape will make a sweet wine without the addition of sugar, unless the grapes are dried, or the must boiled. Fermentation is easily prevented by drugs, but are highly injurious to wine, and I regret to see such wines lauded by persons who make or sell them. It is to the moderate latitudes we must look generally for our best wine and table grapes. Thus far, North Carolina stands ahead of all other states. I have a new variety from that state on trial, that I deem may be of great value as a wine grape, but fear it will require a more southern latitude than ours. In another year, if it equals my expectation, I shall bring it to public notice.

Increased grape culture will hereafter enable us to buy all the wine we want of a superior quality by paying an extra price; and I believe our Still Catawba, when of proper age, will rival the best pure wines of Europe. If my life is spared, I shall try to prove it. To manufacture wine of the best quality, requires great neatness and care only, and is as easy as to make good butter. The Northern parts of Georgia and South Carolina will produce good wines, but like the Sherry, Port and Madeira wines, require some spirit to be added. Deep, arched cellars may be all that is necessary; but they must not expect the wild visions now existing there to be realized. One of their vineyards says "an average crop will be from 2,000 to 2,500 gallons per acre." This would be six times the average crop of the wine districts of Europe and of our vineyards.

VALUE OF SHEEP TO THE FARMER.—It is of more importance to the Farmer than is generally supposed, that a certain proportion of his farm stock should consist of sheep. Speaking on this point, R. S. Fay, of Lynn, recently remarked at an Agricultural meeting in Boston (as reported in the N. E. Farmer) "Sheep are gleaners after other stock, and will help keep the cattle pastured in good condition by being turned into them occasionally, to eat the coarser plants which have been left. They will enrich the land. There is no manure so fertilizing as that of sheep, and it does not so readily waste by exposure as that of other animals. Sheep may be made exceedingly useful in helping to prepare land for a crop. A German agriculturalist has calculated that the droppings from one thousand sheep during a single night would manure an acre sufficiently. By that rule a farmer may determine how long to keep any given number of sheep on a particular piece of land. Mr. Fay said he was accustomed to fold his sheep upon land which he designed for corn and other crops; and in so doing he shut them upon half an acre at a time, keeping them there by a wire fence, which was easily moved from place to place. In this way his land was very well manured without the labor of shoveling and carting." These ideas are worth reading by the farmer. We believe any farm will bear a certain number of sheep, in proportion to the other stock, not only without loss to the amount of grazing which it will yield to the cattle and horses, but to the increase of the same. Mr. Fay, by his management makes the lambs and manure pay for keeping the sheep, and the wool is clear profit.

EFFECTS OF DRAINAGE.—All the rain that falls upon our fields must be carried away either by natural or artificial drainage, or, having thoroughly saturated the soil on which it falls, be left on the surface to be carried off by evaporation. Now, every gallon of water thus carried off by evaporation, requires as much heat as would raise five and a half gallons from the freezing to the boiling point! Without going to extreme cases, the great effects of the heat thus lost upon vegetation cannot fail to be striking, and I have frequently found the soil of a field well drained, higher in temperature from 10 to 15 deg. than that of another field which has been drained, though in every other respect the soils were similar. I have observed the effects of this on growing crops, and I have seen not only a much inferior crop on the undrained field, but that crop harvested full three weeks after the other, and owing to this circumstance, and the setting in of unsettled weather, I have seen that crop deteriorated fully 10 per cent in value.

DEPTH FOR PLANTING SEEDS.—Minute seeds whose powers of growth must be feeble in proportion to their size, will bear only slight covering; while those of a larger size and more vigor, will be capable, when their vital powers are once put in action, of upheaving considerable weights of soil. The judicious gardener will take care to employ, for a covering, no more earth than is really necessary to preserve around his seeds the requisite degree of darkness and moisture. A seed, when it begins to grow, plunges its roots downwards, and throws its stem upwards from a common point, which is the seed itself; and consequently, all the space that intervenes between the surface of the soil and the seed is occupied by the base of the stem, and not by the roots.—Lundy.

AYER'S CATHARTIC PILLS

A NEW and singularly successful remedy for the cure of all Bilious diseases—Costiveness, Indigestion, Headache, Dizziness, Rheumatism, Dropsy, Hemorrhoids, Nervousness, Irritability, Inflammation, Headache, Pain in the Breast, Side, Back, and Limbs, Female Complaints, &c. &c. Induced very few are the diseases in which a Purgative Medicine is not more or less required, and such sickness and suffering might be prevented, if a harmless but effectual Cathartic were more freely used. No person can feel well while a costive habit of body prevails; besides it soon generates serious and often fatal diseases, which might have been avoided by the timely and judicious use of a good purgative. This is alike true of Colds, Feverish symptoms, and Bilious Disorders. They all tend to become or produce the disease and are formidable distempers which load the bowels all over the land. Hence a reliable family physic of the first importance to the public health, and one that has been perfected with consummate skill to meet that demand. An extensive trial of its virtues by Physicians, Professors, and Artists, has shown results surpassing anything hitherto known of any medicine. Cures have been effected beyond belief, were they not substantiated by persons of such exalted positions and character as to forbid the suspicion of a natural cure.

WYCKOFF'S PATENT PORTING MACHINE, which produces the article so long sought after by Pump Manufacturers and others, would call the attention of Railroad Superintendents, Pump Dealers, Farmers, Village Corporations and all others in want of cheap and durable Water Cylinders, or the Pipes manufactured by this process. They are made from solid Pine and other scantling from 3 to 6 inches square, according to size of bore and pressure required, in sections 8 feet long, with a socket accurately fitted, both air and water tight. As Wyckoff's Machine bores directly through the centre every time, the timber need only be large enough to sustain the pressure, and, as the smaller they are the more perfectly they become saturated with water, and the longer they will last when laid in the ground. It is a well-established fact that while the body or thick part of a pump log is being bored, the water or steam, which is being pumped, is at the same time they never stop from impurities of the water or air, flattened, are free from rust or poisonous oxides, lasting about as long as lead or iron, at only one-third the cost.

The above-mentioned Pipes have been extensively and thoroughly tested in most of the Northern States, for the past two years, and wherever introduced they immediately superseded the old mode of boring Pipe Cylinders. They can be made to stand any desirable head of water, and can be shipped to any part of the country with the greatest ease.

Orders solicited and filled with dispatch. Address E. S. GOODRICH, or A. LAWTON, Agent. June 22, 1857. Wilkes-Barre, Pa.
