Effects of Clover Hay on Animals.

Some late writers have taken the position that clover hay produces a most injurious effect on domestic animals, particularly horses and that to this cause the great increase of diseased horses is to be attributed. We lately heard a farmer affirm, that he believed the introduction f clover hay into general cultivation the greatest curse yet inflicted on the country, and assigned as a reason for this singular opinion, its effects on animals when used as a fodder. Late English writers have attributed to this kind of hay the prevalence of heaves in horses, and the great increase of other diseases that effect the respiratory organs. This is a most important subject, and should receive a full investigation. Clover is too important a plant to be discarded or condemned, except upon the most satisfactory evidence. Its value as a fertilizer and a preparative for wheat, to say nothing of its use for pasture and hay, would demand that it should not be condemned unheard. For ourselves, we have very little belief in the injurious properties assigned to clover. We have used it constantly for pasture and for hay, more than constantly for pasture and for hay, more than thirty years, and never, to our knowledge, has an animal suffered from it; certainly, no horse has been taken with the heaves when fed on it or while in our possession. As hay for sheep we have considered it unrivaled, and should have no fears that any of our stock would not winter well, with a supply of well of well-cur ed clover hay.

And here lies, we think, the great source of objection to clover hay. It is too often imperfectly cured. To save the leaves and the heads, which are apt to fall in handling or curing the hay is put into the barn while the large stems are full of moisture or the natural juices, and the fermentation which ensues the causes the whole mass to become damp; and if not spoiled wholly, it becomes mouldy, black, and when used raises such a dust, it is no wonder that horses and cattle are choked or their to constantly for pasture and for hay, more than thirty years, and never, to our knowledge, has an animal suffered from it; certainly, no horse, has been taken with the heaves when fed on it or while in our possession. An all greatest varies of coal and Cylinder, ever brought into Northern Pennsylvania or Southern New York; all of which we are now prepared to sell at wholesale are retail, at as low rates, and on as good Texus as can be found this side of From the fact that all der that horses and cattle are choked or their lungs destroyed. Our experience shows that clover may be perfectly cured without losing any of its valuable parts-cured so that when fed out, no more dust will be flying than from timothy or herds-grass, and we are slow to believe that from such hay any injury to animals ever ensues .- Ohio Valley Farmer.

LIME BARRELS FOR PRESERVING APPLES .-A correspondent of the New Jersey Farmer

says:
"I had occasion to overhaul some apples the other day. They were picked in the orchard, and on the same day, and were put away the same day; and some in flour barrels and some in lime barrels. Those in the flour barrels were much decayed, while those in the lime barrels were sound, and but very few showed any signs of decay. The apples were of the same variety." Under certain circumstances, it is well known that lime acts as an antiseptic, though under other circum stances it accelerates decomposition. For instance, it will preserve dry straw, but decom poses wet straw. In the above instance, the lime on the barrels probably excluded the air, and absorbed the the moisture given off by the apples, and thus counteracted two of the principal causes of decay.

We also see it stated that apples have been preserved perfectly in salt barrels. A correspondent of the Scientific American says he purchased five barrels of choice apples last Fall, from one pile and put them in his cellar. On the 1st of April he found that those in four of the barrels were mostly decayed, while those in the other were perfectly good and sound ! pon examination he found that the one barrel had contained salt, and to this fact he attributed the pseservation of the fruit. We ate perfectly sound apples on the 20th of this month (July,) which had been kept without any unusual care. Perhaps the most important part of preserving apples and other fruit, is to pick them carefully by hand from the trees and to avoid bruising them.

Ashes as Manure.-No farmer now-a-days throws away his ashes, but all do not know in what quantities to apply them to their lands. A practical correspondent of the Genessee Far mer, gives his experience briefly in the following terms: On the use of ashes, leached and unleached, I can speak with confidence, having seen very encouraging results from their use on grass. On a meadow of the aforesaid soil. which had been in grass several years and nearly run out, leached ashes were spread on in the fall at the rate about forty bushels to the acre. The next season the hay crop on that part treated with ashes was more than double what it was on the rest of the field, according to the extent; and the season following the effects of the ashes were nearly as great -the grass growing more luxuriantly, and keeping green longer than the rest. Unleached ashes were tried in smaller quantities, with similar effect. For reclaiming grass land that has been cropped for years, I think there is no manure, accessible to all farmers, that is as beneficial as wood ashes, as they contain, to a great extent, those elements, which have been exhausted from the soil by the growing plants.

Cuttings —In putting in cuttings, never leave but one bud above ground. Whether the cutting have two, three or four buds, but one should be put under the ground, and that one but just above the surface. If you put but one bud under ground and two or three above, the leaves from these above, are out of proportion with the roots from that below: they evaporate water faster than the roots can supply it; and the cutting droops and dies, upon much the same principle as when, in transplanting a tree, you deprive it of a large portion of its roots without equally diminishing the top. Whether a cutting should be placed horizontally and shallow, depends much upon the nature of the soil. If the soil is inclined to retain water, it may be shallow, but should approach a perpendicular direction, running deeply, in a soil that readily evaporates water. -Plow, Loom and Anvil.

TO KEEP SMOKED MEAT IN SUMMER .- We have preserved our hams for twenty years, in the following way, and have the first one yet to be attacked by insects or become tainted. It is simply when the warm weather approaches to have them well rubbed with clean, dry, hickory ashes, then packed down, well sprinkled with ashes, in a tight cask, and closely covered. The ashes are easily washed off and help rather than otherwise, to cleanse the meat -Ed. Tel.

Cheerfulness keeps up a kind of daylight in the mind, and fills it with a steady and perpetual serenity.

CATHARTIC PILLS

A NEW and singularly successful remedy for the cure of all Billious diseases—Costiveness, Indigestion Jaundice, Dropsy, Rheumatism, Fevers, Gout, Humors, Nervousness, Irritability, Inflamations, Headache, Pains in the Breast, Side, Back, and Limbs, Female Complaints, &c., &c. Indeed very few are the diseases in which a Purgative Medicine is not more or less required, and much sickness and suffering might be prevented, if a harmless but effectual Cathartic were more freely used. No person can feel well while a costive habit of body prevails; besides it soon generates serious and often fatal diseases. out enectual canartue were more freely used. No person can feel well while a costive habit of body prevails; besides it soon generates serious and often fatal diseases, which might have been avoided by the timely and judicious use of a good purgative. This is alike true of Colds, Feverish symptoms, and Billious derangements. They all tend to become or produce the deep seated and formidable distempers which load the hearses all over the land. Hence a reliable family physic is of the first importance to the public health, and this Pill has been perfected with consummate skill to meet that demand. An extensive trial of its virtues by Physicians, Professors, and Patients, has shown results surpassing anything hitherto known of any medicine. Cures have been effected beyond belief, were they not substantiated by persons of such exalted positions and character as to forbid the suspicion of untruth.

Among the eminent gentlemen who have testified in favor of these Pills, we may mention:

Did space permit, we could give many hundred certicates from all parts where the Pills have been used, but vidence even more convincing than the experience of neates from all parts where the Pills have been used, but evidence even more convincing than the experience of emiment public men, is found in their effects upon trial. These Pills, the result of long investigation and study, are offered to the public as the best and most complete which the present state of medical science can afford—They are compounded not of the drugs themselves, but of the medicinal virtues only of Vegetable remedies extracted by Chemical process in a state of purity, and combinated together in such a manner as to insure the best results. ed by Chemical process in a state of purity, and combined together in such a manner as to insure the best results. This system of composition for medicines has been found in Cherry Pectoral and Pills both, to produce a more efficient remedy than had hitherto been obtained by any process. The reason is perfectly obvious. While by the old mode of composition, every medicine is burdened with more or less of acrimonious and injurious qualities, by this each individual virtue only that is desired for the curative effect is present. All the inert and obnoxious qualities of each substance employed are left behind, the curative virtues only being retained. Hence it is self evident the effects should prove as they have proved, more purely remedial, and the Pills a more powerful antidote to disease than any other medicine known to the world.

As it is frequently expedient that many medicines should be taken under the counsel of an attending Physician, and as he could not properly judge of a remedy without knowing its composition, I have suppled the accurate Formulæ by which both my Pectoral and Pills are made, to the whole body of Practitioners in the United States and British American Provinces. If however there should be any one who has not received them, they will be forwarded by mail to his request.

Of all the Patent Medicines that are offered, how few would be taken it their composition was known! Their life consists in their mystery. I have no mysteries.

The composition of my preparations is laid open to all men, and all who are competent to judge on the subject freely acknowledge their convictions of their intrinsic merits. The Cherry Pectoral was pronounced by scientimerits. The Cherry Pectoral was pronounced by scienti-fic men to be a wonderful medicine before its effects were fic men to be a wonderful medicine before its effects were known. Many eminent Physicians have declared the same thing of my Pills, and even more confidently, and are willing to certify that their anticipations were more than realized by their effects upon trial. They operate by their powerful influence on the inter-nal viscera to purify the blood and stimulate it into heal-thy action—remove the obstructions of the stomach, how-els, liver, and other organs of the body, restoring their irregular action to health, and by correcting, wherever irregular action to health, and by correcting, wherever they exist, such derangements as are the first origin of

GREAT IMPROVEMENT IN WATER PIPE

CHAIN PUMP TUBING. THE subscriber having lately commenced the manufac-ture of WATER TUBING, at Wilkes-Barre, Pa. with WYCKOFF'S PATENT BORING MACHINE,

WYCKOFF'S PATENT BORING MACHINE, which produces the article so long sought after by Pump Manufacturers and others, would call the attention of Rail road Superintendents, Pump Dealers, Farmers, Village Corporations and all others in want of cheap and durable Water Conductors, to the Pipes manufactured by this process. They are made from solid Pine and other scantling from 3 to 6 inches square, according to size of bore and pressure required, in sections 8 feet long, with a socket joint accurately fitted, both air and water tight. As Wychoff's Machine bores directly through the centre every time, the timber need only be large enough to sustain the pressure wanted, as the smaller they are the more perfectly they become saturated with water, and the longer they will last when laid in the ground. It is a well-ascertained fact that while the body or thick part of a pump log is entirely decayed, the thin sharpened end will be sound; at the same time they never stop up from impurities of the water or being flattened, are free from rust or poisonous oxydes, lasting about as long as lead or iron, at only one-sixth the cost.

The above-mentioned Pipes have been extensively and thoroughly tested in most of the Northern States, for the past two years, and wherever introduced they immediately supersede all other kinds of Pipe or Chain Pump Tubing. They can be made to stand any desirable head of water, and can be shipped to any part of the country with safety and at small expense.
