Autumn Hints.

The autumn is the best time for draining. Waste and useless ground can now be drained, which, if left until the spring, would be unavoidable for another year. Many have been astonished at their own success in this work. Two years since a farmer near this city drained an ugly swamp, thinking it might answer for willows the following spring; but failing to obtain cuttings, the land became so dry the last of May, he was induced to try corn, and raised an excellent crop. Digging stumps, grading and all out-door jobs of this nature can done now better than at any other season .-Our springs are short, unsettled, and generally very unpleasant. Our autumns are gloriousall foreign travellers agree that the beauty of the American autumn is unequalled. Let it be well improved.

Hogs for early killing should now receive attention, and be put on full rations. This matter is delayed generally too long, The fine weather in the fall is the very best time for making pork cheap. It will cost less to manufacture it now than during the cold weather of early winter, when the pigs will have all they can do to keep warm.

This is the best time for sowing timothy, and it is a question worthy of consideration, whether the growing of timothy and clover seed might not be made profitable in the "Genesce country," now that our great staple, wheat, has failed.

Manure is much more easily made in the fall and winter than in the warm weather of summer, and the quality is better. Decomposition takes place more slowly and irregularly, and the valuable gasses are more easily obtained. Then there is less danger of loss by burning or becoming "fire-fanged," as this burning is generally termed. Muck from the swamps, the remains old straw stacks, all refuse and coarse stuff that cannot be made available for feed, should be gathered together, with the view of turning it into manure by spring. Many farmers in some sections of our country spend hundreds of dollars for guano, and other fertilizers, that they might save if they would give more attention to making manure at home. In these parts, little guano is used, but many crops are starved down to half their natural proportions for want of proper feeding.

Above all things, save fodder. Let nothing be wasted that will help the stock through the winter. Don't sell anything in the fall that you may have to buy back again in the spring at double the price you obtained for it.

If you have too much stock for your feed, procure more at once, or sell off part of the stock. A small number well fed will be more profitable than a large number badly provided for. During the first part of the winter feed well but not lavishly, and improve as the spring approaches .- Rural New Yorker.

OCTOBER. - Work to be Done. - Make compost industriously; use those made in August on your clayey lands, ridging and backfurrowing them, running the sub-soil plough in the bottom of the open furrows. By this system the manures will occupy the centre of the ridges, and thus their grasses during decomposition will be absorbed, instead of passing off in the atmosphere. The sub-soiling between ridges will prevent the ridges from compact ing by rains, and the sub-soil will be rendered fit for sustaining plants another year from receiving the atmosphere and the carbonic acid and ammonia carried in by the rains. The frequent freezings and thawings during winter will render the ridges pulverulent by spring, and suitable for early culture. Do not plow sandy lands in the fall.

Rake up leaves from the woods as they fall, and put them in the compost heaps. Cart headlands to the manure shed. Have a good supply of materials suitable for bedding, near the stables. Do not attempt to fatten more cattle than you can fully supply with food, or they will not flourish well even if fully supplied.—Young cattle cannot be brought up in flesh at Young cattle cannot be brought up in flesh at the will not flourish will not flourish well even if such to the will not flourish will not flourish will even if fully supplied.—Young cattle cannot be brought up in flesh at the will not flourish w an outlay which will pay, if neglected early.

Skin old woods of the surface soil, and replace half its value as manure with lime and ashes in the woods, and both farm and woodland will gain in the exchange. Get all the night-soil you can, and mix it with head-land, &c., for the compost heaps. Wet the compost heaps with salt lye from the soap boiler's, if you can get it. Use half a bushel of refuse salt to every cord of compost, to prevent the re-germination of weeds, grubs, &c. Do not forget that corn is more valuable when changed to fat, than when found in the hog manure ; and to secure the first condition, cook it before feeding to hogs, or your manure will be very rich, at too high a cost. Mr. Ellsworth has satisfactorially proved, that one pound of cooked corn, will make more pork than two pounds grow till Winter, keep the beds free from weed's and thinning them out a very little. When Winter comes, cover them over with a good coat of coarse litter. Further south, the covering may be lighter. You may thus have the onions for use to March or next year.—

They will be excellent then, if you like onions. Sow a bed of lettuce in the same way, at the same time or latter, and protect in the time of the same time or latter, and protect in the time of the same time or latter, and protect in the time of the world.

As it is frequently expedient that many medicines should be taken under the counsel of an attending Physician, and as he could not properly judge of a remedy without knowing its composition, I have supplied the accurate Formulae by which both my Pectoral and Pills are made, to the whole body of Practitioners in the United States and British American Provinces. If however there should be any one who has not received them, they will be forwarded by mail to his request.

A NEW KIND OF FORAGE .- Prince Schartzenberg has lately made successful experiments in some of his farms for converting the leaves of the ash tree into forage for cows. About 50 lbs., of the leaves were, in October last, arranged in a tub with alternative layers of salt, and kept covered until the beginning of March when they were taken out, mixed with chopped rye-straw, and given to the cows. This new food appeared so palatable to them, that they would select the leaves with the greatest avidity, leaving the straw untouched. The leaves were then given to them without any mixture, and were eaten with the same rel-

CATHARTIC PILLS

A NEW and singularly successful remedy for the cure of all Billious diseases—Costiveness, Indigestion Jaundice, Propsy, Rheumatism, Fevers Gout, Humors, Nervo isness, Irritability, Inflamations, Headache, Pains in the Breast, Side, Back, and Limbs, Female Complaints, &c., &c. Indeed very few are the diseases in which a Pargative Medicine is not more or less required, and much sickness and suffering might be prevented, if a harmless but effectual Cathartic were more freely used. No person can feel well while a costive habit of body prevails; besides it soon generates serious and often fatal diseases, besides it soon generates serious and often fatal diseases, which might have been avoided by the timely and judicious use of a good purgative. This is allie true of Colds. Feverish symptoms, and Billious derangements. They all tend to become or produce the deep seated and formidable distempers which load the hearses all over the land. Hence a reliable family physic is of the first imsons of such exalted positions and character as to forbid the suspicion of untruth.

Among the eminent gentlemen who have testified in favor of these Pills, we may mention:

Doct. A. A. HAYES, Analytical Chemist of Boston, and State Assayer of Massachusetts, whose high Professional character is endorsed by the—

Hon. EDWARD EVERETT, Senator of the United States.

ROBERT C. WINTHROP, Ex-Speaker of the House of Representatives.

Did space permit, we could give many hundred certificates from all parts where the Pills have been used, but evidence even more convincing than the experience of eminent public men, is found in their effects upon trial. These Pills, the result of long investigation and study, are offered to the public as the best and most complete red corn, will make more pork than two pounds fed in the raw state.
