

Farmer's Department.

About Autumn Work in Orchards.

At this season of the year farmers are more frequently in three orchards than at any other. Judging from the replies made to some inquiries to the condition of the bark, marks of insects depredations, &c., we have some occasion to fear that many regard not the state of their trees, and can give an account only of the amount of their produce even after repeated visits to their orchards. If it should be elsewhere and everywhere as we have found it within a limited circle of observation, it will be generally true that the few who give evidence of having observed and cared for the condition of their trees, or have even taken any special pains to put or preserve them in a thrifty state, are themselves the most thriving, industrious, and intelligent of their several neighborhoods. Such men will generally be found to be among the not-large class of "very lucky fellows." So at least we have found it.

Now if the "good luck" of those thriving men who look to their ways, their crops, their trees, and everything else about them, should be connected in any way with their more than usual watchfulness of the state of their orchards or their greater than usual pains taking therewith—and "good luck" is so mysterious a matter that there is no telling, according to some, what is independent upon or connected with—then the lucky ones might easily allow the example of their more lucky and sometimes envious neighbors, at least in this one respect. They might easily, certainly, and without much of that "trouble" which many of them so greatly dread and detest, devote a few moments, when visiting their orchards to pick fruit, to observe whether their trees look healthy and thrifty or otherwise, whether the bark is rough or smooth, and whether there any signs of the presence or depredations of injurious insects. If the bark should not look clean and bright, as it should do, or if there are marks of insect depredations of any kind, then those not yet "in luck" may, perhaps, have a change of fortune if they will imitate the more lucky of their brother-farmers of the soil, and scrape and scrub and wash both in autumn and in spring, or in one of them at least, those trees whose bark and outward appearance do not look quite right. Let them imitate the example of those who have had good luck with their trees for ten, twenty, and even forty years, and wash every tree with lye made from wood ashes or potash. Even young trees will bear a lye strong enough to make an egg swim; but less strength will suffice to kill "varmin" and make the bark smooth. Those who attend to these hints may look out for visit from Good Luck at no very distant day.—X—Country Gentlemen.

SPINICH.—Spinich, or spinage, may be sown during the early part of this month for fall, and early spring use; the sowing may be continued at intervals up to at least the middle of the month. The quality of the spinich depends much upon the richness of the soil; the object should be to induce a rapid growth. Spread on and dig under a good coating of barn-yard manure; the older the better.—Sow the seed in drills about six inches apart; for the last sowing, intended to be kept over for early spring use, the drills may be only four inches apart. When the seed is well up give the plants a hoeing, as well as deslump the weeds as to encourage a rapid growth. If the seed has been sown thickly, the plants will probably need thinning out. On the approach of cold weather, cover the beds intended to be kept over winter with hay or straw. This covering is not indispensable, but its advantages are sufficiently great to warrant the trouble. The plants are not so liable to be thrown out by frost; the tops are less injured by extreme changes in the weather; and an early growth takes place in the spring. As to kinds the broad leaved Savoy is probably the best.

PIGS AND PIGGERS.—We never could conceive why some of our farmers would persist in feeding one of these long leaved, flattened sided animals unless it was for the purpose of ascertaining how much corn it would destroy. The attempt to fatten them for market with profit is insane—we know nothing that will so quickly consume a man's patrimony except it be bank and railroad stocks. Secure good stock for the farm, whether it be cattle, sheep or swine—these are the right kind of "fanciers"—they always declare honest dividends, never suffer from street panics, nor, when they are wanted, do they collapse.

Rapidity and economy are the objects which should be kept in view by those fattening swine, and every means calculated to promote these ends should be readily adopted. Experiments have frequently been made in which, the comparative effects of raw and boiled food have been tested, and the great benefits arising from the consumption of the latter sufficiently demonstrated to warrant the expenditure and trouble necessary to thus prepare it. Regularity in feeding is of paramount importance—delay will soon cause a loss equal to the good resulting from the previous meal.—The quantity should be so gauged that while none be put upon "short allowance" there will be, at the same time, nothing wasted.

The kind of food best adapted for fattening swine is well known to our readers, still, as the pig is almost an omnivorous eater—anything seeming to "tickle his palate"—variety is an essential. The Smithfield (Eng.) Club directs all exhibitors to state how their animals are fed, and from these statements it appears that barley, bean, pea-meal, peas, corn-meal, potatoes, middlings, skim-milk, whey, &c., are used, the barley and pea-meal taking the palm as the choicest food. The following mixture is highly recommended by English feeders.—"A few roots of mangold, or Swedish turnips well steamed, a little bran or meal added; or instead of those, brewers' gains or half-malted barley well boiled, and given moderate cold and in a moist state." Potatoes, with a little meal, are much used in the earlier stages of fattening, the quantity of meal being increased as the period of slaughtering approaches.—Rural New Yorker.

CIDER, CHAMPAGNE, WINE, &c.—An inquirer in the Country Gentleman of September 17, wishes information in regard to the production of champagne wine from cider. I enclose the formula of an old manufacturer and dealer (as may be found in the American E. Dispensary by J. King, M.D., which has the reputation of being equal to the best foreign.

Take of good cider 28 gallons.
Fourth-proof brandy, 1 gallon.
Genuine champagne wine, 5 gallons.
New milk, 1 pint.
Bi-tartrate of potassa, 2 a pound.
These are mixed together, allowed to stand for a time, and bottled while fermenting. Wire down the works.

CATHARTIC PILLS

A NEW and singularly successful remedy for the cure of all Biliousness, Indigestion, Jaundice, Dropsy, Rheumatism, Fevers, Gout, Hums, Nervousness, Irritability, Inflammations, Headache, Pains in the Breast, Side, Back, and Limbs, Female Complaints, &c., &c. Indeed very few are the diseases that this Cathartic does not cure. It is not more or less required, and much sickness and suffering might be prevented, if a harmless but effective Cathartic were more freely used. No person can eat or drink a codicil habit of body, or have besides it soon generates serious and often fatal diseases, which might have been avoided by the timely and judicious use of a good purgative. The pills are made of the best ingredients, and are perfectly safe. They are all taken to become or produce the deep sleep and formidable distempers which lead the hearse all over the land. Hence the great medical science, and the importance to the public health, and this Pill has been perfected with consummate skill to meet that demand. An extensive trial of its virtues by Physicians, Professors, and Patients, has shown results so surprising, and so generally heretofore known of any medicine. Cures have been effected beyond belief, were they not substantiated by reports of such exalted positions and character as to forbid the suspicion of fraud.

Among the eminent gentlemen who have testified in favor of these Pills, we may mention:
Doct. A. HAYES, Analytical Chemist of Boston, and State Assayer of Massachusetts, whose high Professional character is endorsed by the—
Hon. EDWARD EVERETT, Senator of the United States.
ROBERT C. WINTHROP, Ex-Speaker of the House of Representatives.
ABOTTE LAWRENCE, Minister Plenipotentiary to England.
JOHN B. FITZPATRICK, Catholic Bishop of Boston; also—Doct. J. R. CHILTON, Practical Chemist of New York City, concurred by Hon. W. L. MARCY, Secretary of State.
W. B. ASTOR, the richest man in America.
S. ELLAND & Co., Proprietors of the Metropolitan Hotel, and others.

Did space permit, we could give many hundred certificates from all parts where the Pills have been used, but evidence even more convincing than the experience of eminent public men, is found in their effects upon trials. These Pills, the result of long investigation and study, are offered to the public as the best and most complete cathartic the present state of medical science can afford. They are compounded not of the drugs themselves, but of the medicinal virtues only of Vegetable remedies extracted by Chemical process in a state of purity, and combined together in such a manner as to insure the best results. This system of composition for medicines has been found in Cherry Pectoral and Pills both, to produce a more efficient remedy than had hitherto been obtained by any process. The reason is perfectly obvious. While the old mode of composition, every medicine is burdened with more or less of acrimonious and injurious qualities, by which each individual virtue is lost, and the curative effect is present. All the inert and obnoxious qualities of each substance employed are left behind, the curative virtues only being retained. Hence it is self evident the effects should be more powerful and more purely remedial, and the Pills a more powerful antidote to disease than any other medicine known to the world.

As it is frequently expedient that many medicines should be taken under the counsel of an attending Physician, and as he could not properly judge of a remedy without knowing its composition, I have no hesitations in saying that the Pills are perfectly safe, and are made to the whole body of Practitioners in the United States and British American Provinces. If however there should be any one who has not received them, they will be forwarded by mail to his request.
Of all the Patent Medicines that are offered, how few would be taken if their composition was known! Their life consists in their mystery. I have no mysteries. The composition of my preparations is laid open to all men, and all who are competent to judge on the subject freely acknowledge their comparative inferiority. The Cherry Pectoral was pronounced by scientific men to be a wonderful medicine before its effects were known. Many eminent Physicians have declared the same thing of my Pills, and even more so, and are willing to certify that their anticipations were more than realized by their effects upon trial.

They operate by their powerful influence on the internal viscera to purify the blood and stimulate it to healthy action—remove the obstructions of the stomach, bowels, liver, and other organs of the body, restoring their regular action to health, and by correcting, wherever they exist, such derangements as are the first origin of disease.

We wish to call particular attention to Emery's Splendid Thresher and Cleaner. The superiority of Emery's Horse Power all others, is well known, and our farmers will be pleased to learn that they can now get an Emery's Thresher and Cleaner equaling the power itself, and which for simplicity, compactness, durability and operation is a model of all other machines in use. It requires as little power as a threshing and separator, and will thresh and clean thoroughly without wasting the grain, say from 10 to 12 bushels per hour. We have machines on hand and on the way from Albany and can fill orders at short notice.
We can also furnish Wheeler's New Cleaner, a very good machine, and warranted; as are all of our machines.
