Farmer's Department.

Work for the Month.

Among the important things needing present care and attention is the management of Cattle which require warm quarters under cover, at night, and during storms. Feed them in and around the barns rather than at a stack-yard half a mile off. Provide racks for out door feeding. For graziers who are constantly feeding cattle for market, a one or two horse-power corn and cob mill, and a straw cutter are almost indispensable appendages. A straw cutter of some kind should be in every barn.

CORN FOR SEED .- If not saved, as it should have been, at the time of harvest, select the best ears and now put them away unshelled until planting time.

FENCES .- Procure timber from the frozen swamps and split out the yearly supply of rails and stakes. Make posts, working in holes or pinning two small pieces together. The hemlock logs peeled last summer should now be taken to the mill to be sawed for fencing and timber. Make gates to take the place of the less convenient bars.

GRAIN .--- Look out for mice and rats on unthreshed stacks or mows. Keep stock of all kinds from fields not covered with snow .--During thaws look to the drains and see that no water is allowed to stand on the fields.

Hogs -If not fattened and killed last month hasten along. Unless waiting for a market it is far better to fatten early. Keep well bedded at night and supply manure materials for them to work over. Look to the future increase, and provide a healthy male of improved stock.

HORSES AND MULES .- Give ground feed with cut hay or straw, moistened with water. Mix a few cut carrots with their feed occasionally

ICE Houses .- Fill with the first firm ice of the season, packing it in closely and covering with plenty of straw.

MANURES .- Keep up the manufacturing at all times, mixing in the muck and leaves stored under cover last Fall. If the manure is not covered in the yard, cart it to the fields Bring home on wheels or runners all manures purchased at a distance and also muck from the swamps.

Marketing is a part of the thrifty farmer's business, and the beginner has much to learn. It is best to take only good produce to market. Large fruit sells better than inferior kinds .---By sorting potatoes the farmer gets many bushcis of small ones for his hogs, while the large measure just as much without them, and bring a better price. Clean, plump wheat sells readily at an advanced price for seed. So with stock and other produce.

POULTRY .--- Warm quarters on a ground floor, will usually secure a good supply of eggs in Winter. Chopped cabbage is a good substitute for the green food of the milder seasons. Keep roosts clean, carefully saving the contents.

ROADS .- Let pride and love of order, to say nothing of convenience, stimulate those in charge to keep the highways always passable. Roads left blocked up with snow indicate a slovenly neighborhood.

Schools-Have good ones and send your children to them punctually and constantly .--Avoid keeping the older boys at home occasionally. They have a right to an education and a considerate parent will not weigh his boy's work against his intelligence. Visit the schools to encourage both teacher and pupils.

SHEEP .--- Look to an increase of improved stock by introducing a choice buck. Let salt be accessible, or feed salt hay occasionally .--Shelter from storms, of course.
