It is hardly to be expected that all farmers will be able to write for the Press, or to speak in public assemblies. With some, their early education has, perhaps, been so deficient as to forbid it; and with others, their incesssant and toilsome labors make it almost impossible for them to give time and thought to such things. Every man who labors hard daily in any calling, knows that when night overtakes him his body is wearied, and his mind sympathizes with it and craves rest. And the difficulty of writing grows with the disuse of it. Hence it comes to pass that some of our best farmers seldom put pen to paper for the sake of writing agricultural essays. And it must be confessed on the other hand, that some farmers who drive the quill for the papers, hold the plow with a very slack hand.

It is said that a certain eminent statesman of Pennsylvania, who wrote many valuable papers on agriculture, was often called upon by his admiring readers, expecting to see on his own lands a practical exemplification of his writings. What was their surprise to see gates with broken hinges, plows, harrows and hoes laying about in disorder, and barns and fences out of repair. They made bold to express their retouishment to the learned former, when his so long desired to find.

TIOGA-POINT THRESHER AND CLEANER, Just finished, will, we are confident, prove itself to be the BEST COMBINED THRESHER AND WINNOWER in market. Just finished, will, we are confident, prove itself to be the server over, nor waste grain; and will thresh and clean fit for market as much grain per day, with the same power, as any Thresher with Separator will thresh. It is admirably adapted for two and four horse powers. Job threshers will find it to be just the machine they have astonishment to the learned farmer, when his Honor replied :

"Why, gentlemen, do you expect me to write and work !" And so, it can hardly be expected that practical farmers should do much | periority. in the way of writing for publication. Few men can do more than one thing thoroughly.

human knowledge. Every intelligent farmer is an observer. He sees something almost every day, that is worthy of putting on record for He learns something both by success and ill fortune, which ought not be lost. Should not this habit of observation be cultivated? Would it not add much of interest to the routine of farm-life? And if all farm-life? And if all cannot prepare their notes of observation in finished style for the Press, let them communicate their knowledge orally in Farmers' Clubs and let them send extracts from their journals to the editors of agricultural papers, who would make good use of their observations.

And let us add in behalf of the editorial fraternity, that we always desire to have plain straight-forward details of practice. If well written, with the main facts stated in condensed, clear style, it is labor saved to us, but this is not essential. No matter how ungrammatically written, this is all straightened out before the type setters get hold of a letter, and errors in communications are known only to the edi-

How to Make Good Cider. To the Editor of the American Agriculturist :- There is hardly a tithe of cider made now as compared with forty years ago. Many of the old orchards have died out, and the temperance reform has prevented their renewal. The market for fine fruits has greatly expanded, and nearly all the trees now planted are for the production of market apples. It took eight bushels of apples to make a barrel of cider, and the barrel sold for only a dollar. Apples now bring every year from fifty cents to a dollar a bushel. Fruit growers can hardly be expected to lament the change that is so much for their pecuniary interest.

some for vinegar, and still more for the beverage. When bottled and properly handled, it is as palatable, and much more wholesome. Mr. CANFIELD DAYTON, Steward. than most of the wines of commerce. In affections of the kidneys it is an excellent remedy, and should have a place in every well appointed cellar. It is a matter of some importance, that what cider is made, should be made in the best manner.

The apples should be well ripened, but not in the least decayed. Every apple with the least speck of rot in it should by removed, if you wish a first rate beverage. The decayed and inferior apples may be reserved for making vinegar. Perfect cleanliness should be observed in the grinding process which should be performed two days before pressing, and the pomace be permitted to stand and mellow in the vat. until it assumes a deep red color .-Clean dry straw should be used in forming the cheese. If the straw be musty, the flavor will be communicated to the juice. If water be added, it will make it hard and unpleasant to the taste. The casks, also, in which it is put for fermentation, should be thoroughly cleansed, and finished off with a tumigation of brimstone. This is done by burning inside the barrel a few strips of canvas, dipped in melted brimstone. The fumes will penetrate all the pores and destroy the most and correct and sourness .-After the fermentation is over, draw off into clean arrels, band clarify it. This can be done by mixing a quart of clean white sand with the whites of half a dozen eggs, and a pint of mustard seed, and pouring it into the barrel. It may stand in the barrel, or, if a nice article is wanted, it should be put into quart bottles Ed corl (d.

This cider will be fit to drink in case of sickness, and will always bear a good price in market. It retails at twenty-five cents a bottle and would bring at least two dollars a dozen, by the quantity. This is much better business than to make a poor article from decayed apples, in a slovenly manuer, and sell it for two dollars a barrel.

SETTING OUT FRUIT TREES .- A correspondent of the New England Farmer, writes :-"While in the West, two years since, an old nurseryman told me he had been setting out fruit trees for fifteen years, and those he set in the fall bore annually, while those he set in the GEO. H. BUNTING, spring were indifferent bearers. My experience spring were indifferent bearers. My experience and observation satisfy me that fall setting is much the best, aside from this consideration. They should be well mulched the first winter to protect the roots from frost, and the next summer to guard against drought."

length and breadth of the Union are settling there. It is an important business place, on account of its being in the midst of a great market. Every article raised upon this land finds an immediate sale. The water is excellent, and no such thing as fever is known. The soil is a sandy or clay loam, with a clay bottom and retentive of manures. It is free of stones and easily worked. It abounds largely in the phosphates, and such its fertility that, from the cross produced both upon worked. It abounds largely in the phosphates, and such is its fertility that from the crops produced both upon this land and the large area adjoining under cultivation, it will be found not to be excelled anywhere in the production of crops most adapted to its market.

The reader may be well aware that the carliest and the best fruits and vegetables come from New Jersey, which are annually exported to the amount of millions of dollars. The land, besides being accessible in every way for fortilizers has an abundant suntly of the best quality of fertilizers, has an abundant supply of the best quality of ber and building materials can be had on the spot Lumber and building materials can be had on the spot at a cheap price, from the mills. Other mils are now being opened, and brickyards being started on the ground. A person can put up a frame tenement for present convenience for one hundred dollars. On account of the extensive emigration, this is the best course to in order to get a place to live in at first. Carpenters and builders
