The report of the State Librarian will inform you of the progress made in the catalogue authorized by the Legislature, and the general condition of the Libarary, which has grown to Lecompton Constitution, made for them by be an institution that deserves your fostering care. It would commend to your attention the suggestions of the Librarian.

The report of the Attorney General, which will be laid before you, will exhibit the operations of the Law Department of the government, for the past year. The act of the 21st of April, 1857, which requires the Attorney General to keep an office at Harrisburg, and which provides that all debts due to the Commonwealth, shall be collected by that officer, has proved to be a highly beneficial enactment. Under its provisions large sums are saved, which were formerly paid for commissions and counsel fees. And the improved state of our finances is in no inconsiderable degree owing to the prompt manner in which outstand-

The militia law of 1858, has not been fully tested; but it is believed to be, in the main an improvement on the laws in force at the time of its passage. One of its best features, and one that should be strictly enforced, is that the system is self-supporting In no con tingency should that department be a charge upon the public Treasury, in time of peace.

In referring the attention of the Legislature to the elaborate reports of the Auditor General and State Treasurer, relating to the finances of the State, which will be laid before you, 1 cannot refrain from giving expression to my views on the importance of a change in the mode of keeping and disbursing the public moneys

The State Treasurer receives and disburses between four and five millions of dollars annuala balance in the Treasury exceeding one million single advantage to the of dollars. The bond of the Treasurer is but single right of the south for eighty thousand dollars He deposits the money of the State wherever he pleases, and doctrine of popular sovereignty in its broadest it is paid exclusively on his own check. The monthly settlements with the Auditor General | Congressional intervention, as understood and afford some security that the funds of the Commonwealth will not be misapplied; but it is By popular sovereignty, I mean no violation entirely inadequate to the complete protection of the public interests

Until the State shall adopt a different system for the collection, safe keeping and disburse- gard the doctrine as the embodiment of the ment of her revenues, the money on hand must be kept either in the Treasury vault or deposited with the banking institutions in the State. For many years the latter mode has been adopted. I respectfully recommend the provision be made by law that no money shall be deposited in any bank by the state Treasurer the Commonwealth, for the re-payment of the state Trensurer shall be countersigned by the Auditor General, before they are used-and that daily accounts of the moneys received and the criminal code of this Commonwealth, are progressing with the duties of their appointment, and will report the revised code before the adjournment of the Legislature.

The various charitable and reformatory institutions, which have heretofore received pecuniary assistance from the state, such as the state Lunatic hospital, at Harrisburg-the Western Pennsylvania hospital, at Pittsburg-the Houses of Refuge, at Philadelphia and Pittsidiotic and feeble-minded children-the asylums phia-the Northern Home for friendless children, at Philadelphia-I recommend to your exhibiting a detail of the operations of these noble and excellent charities, during the past year, will be laid before you. I cannot recommend appropriations to charitable associations of a purely local character, however praiseworthy the objects and motives of their founders and supporters, or however useful they may be to their particular localities. The present condition of the revenues of the General Government, demonstrates the urgent necessity of increased duties upon foreign importations. The people of Pennsylvania have ever taken a lively interest in the proper adjustment of a tariff; and they have, with singular unanimity, at all times, favored such an assessment of duties, as would not only produce revenue, but furnish the largest incidental protection to the great mineral, manufacturing, and industrial interests of the country. Had their voice hitherto been more potential in the councils of the nation, it is no longer problematical that much of the pecuniary distress, lately experienced by all classes and conditions of business men, might have been to a great extent averted. The necessities of the government and the people now, alike, demand a change an increase of duties and I take should be fearlessly held out to our citizens, great pleasure in endorsing the views of the President of the United States as expressed in his last annual message, relative to the change proposed. His advocacy of specific duties on commodities which are usually sold by weight, or by measure, and which from their conclude without congranlating you upon the nature are of equal or of nearly equal value, such as iron, of different classes, raw sugar, and foregin wines and spirits," has met with a hearty response from the great body of the your attention. ernatorial chair, nearly one year ago, in defereuce to public opinion, my own feelings, after a rapid review of events in Kansas. I stated, and burdensome taxes-a fame and a credit that "to the people of Pennsylvania the ad-untarnished-a free and popular educational mission of a new state into the Union-into system-and an industrious and loyal people that Co federacy of which she is a membermust be at all times a subject of high interest. And I believe I express their sentiments, as well as my own, in declaring that all the qualified electors of a Territory should have a full and fair opportunity to participate in selecting delegates to form a Constitution preparatory to admission as a state, and, if desired by them they should also be allowed an unqualified right to vote upon such Constitution after framed."

Subsequent events have confirmed me i these sentiments. The deplorable disputes in the first session of the present Congress, the popular excitement resulting from those disputes, together with other proceedings in nature totel and alarming, would all have been averted, had the people been secured in "the unqualified right" to vote upon their domestic institutions. I regret to be compelled to say, that, under various pretences, this sacred franchise has been virtually withheld from them. When they refused to accept the delegates representing the minority, they were explicitly denied the privilege of making their own Constitution, unless upon a condition not previously exacted If they accepted the Lecompton Constitution, they entered the sisterhood of states at once, with a population less than one half of the existing ratio of Congressional representation; but, if they refused that Constitution, they would not be admitted into the Union, with the Constitution of their choice, until they were ready to show, by a formal census, that they had attained a population equal to that ratio. The results have become historical.

The last expressive vote of the people of Kansas against the act of Congress, commonly known as the English bill, has for a time aring claims are collected and paid into the state rested Congressional intervention. Peace has resulted alone from the votes of the people, not from the suggestion of outside influences. But, during the angry feelings which this controversy has aroused, the theory has been started, and insisted upon, that it will henceforward Legislature to the recommendations of that be the duty of Congress to protect slavery in the territories, if the people of the territories shall fail to do so. The warrant for this extraordinary assumption is alleged to exist in the decision of the Supreme Court of the United States, in the case of Dred Scott. Entertaining, as I do, profound reverence for the decisions of that august tribunal, and standing ready to obey them, whenever they are enunciated, I have yet to be convinced that any such construction can be fairly given to their action in the case referred to. Such a doctrine, no matter how sanctioned, or supported, will shake the pillars of our constitutional fabric. It would compel every territory to elevate property in slaves above every other description of property-and to establish a slave code in its early municipal regulations; or else it would convert the Congress into a theatre of crimination and confusion, and fill the whole country ly; and it not frequently happens that there is with strife. And all this, without securing a single advantage to the north, or protecting a

On the contrary, I repopular will in states and Territories, as the conservator of the rights and the equality of states and people-and as the only means by which a vexed and dangerous agitation will be satisfactorily and perpetually "settled." A theory equally heretical has been advanced in another portion of the Union. It has without requiring security to be first given to been held that this government, divided into free and slave states, as it was framed by our sums deposited-that all checks issued by the Revolutionary Fathers, cannot endure-that all must become free, or all become slave .-When such a doctrine shall be enforced, the Constitution will have been subverted-state paid shall be kept in the office of the Auditor sovereignty prostrated-states rights disregard-General, as well as in the Treasury Depart. ed, and the liberty of the people destroyed .-It should meet an indignant rebake from every The commissioners appointed to revise the lover of his country, and the blood-bought right the people and the states to self-government Under the various amendments to the Constitution of Pennsylvania, the influence of the Executive has been greatly reduced by the transfer of patronage from the Governor to the people. This is an accordance with the Great Western Insurance Co. - Philadelphia principles of self government, but it must be acknowledged that in relieving the Executive from many serious responsibilities, it has diminished his ability to maintain the rights of the burg-the Pennsylvania Training school for state against Federal and other encroachments and has thrown a greater share of responsibilifor the blind and deaf and dumb, at Philadel- ty upon the people. The extensive patronage of the Federal Government, and the large salaries paid to its officers, in comparison with fostering aid and care. The annual reports those of the state, present constant inducements to our citizens to overlook the state in the pursuit of more lucrative employments under the United states. It is, therefore, the more necessary that the people should guard the sovereignty of the state with increasing watchfulness. The Constitution of the United states contains the great fundamental principle which should govern its construction on every question respecting the extent of the federal power .-The powers not delegated to the United States by the Constitution, nor prohibited by it to the states, are reserved to the states respectively, or to the people."

It is on this broad platform that every claim of federal power not granted by the Constitution, should be sternly resisted. The tendency to centralization is so great, and the overshadowing influence of patronage and power so seductive, that liberty cannot long be preserved without the exercise of sleepless vigilance in enforcing a strict construction of the federal compact. The doctrine of State rights is the doctrine of true liberty. Popular sovereignty is the life-blood of our free institutions, and the palladium of our safety. Every patriotic itducement to sustain those great principles and every authorized assumption of power should be resisted with unceasing energy and by all constitutional means.
