Abstract of Congressional Proceedings

WEDNESDAY, February 23, 1859.

The Kansas question, in all its aspects and bearings, was reopened in the SENATE, growing out of the discussion of Mr. Hale's proposed amendment to the Legislative, Executive, and Judicial Appropriation bill, repealing the restriction clause in the act providing for the admission of Kansas. The debate assumed a col loquial shape, in which Mr. Douglas took the principal part. He went over the whole ground. from the passage of the Kansas-Nebraska act to the present time, fully defining his position, and answering all questions freely. Mr. Brown, of Mississippi made a speech addressed to the Northern Democrats. The debate was also participated in by Messrs, Davis, of Mississippi GREEN, of Missouri, HUNTER, of Virginia, GWIN and BRODERICK, of California, STUART, of Michigan, and others-principally, however,

The SENATE adjourned exactly at midnight. In the House, the first thing was an unsuccessful motion to suspend the rules for the iutroduction of a Tariff bill. The Post-office Appropriation bill being under consideration in Committee of the Whole Mr. MONTGOMERY, of Pennsylvania, attempted to tack on a Tariff bill as an amendment, but the House would not consent to it. The subject of the Butterfield contract for carrying the Overland Mail occasioned a long debate, and an ameridment was adopted abrogating the contract. The bill was reported to the House, but none of the

THURSDAY, February 24, 1859.

The post-routes bill occupied the attention of the SENATE. Mr. Yulee spoke in favor of abolishing the franking privilege, and increas ing the rates of postage from three to five cents under three thousand miles, and ten cents for over that distance. After several amendments being made to the bill, the SENATE adjourned, with the understanding that the vote on the bill be taken to morrow without debate

The Post Office appropriation bill was taken up in the House, and the motion to allow the Butterfield company to choose their own route for the overland and Pacific mail was lost by n vote of 110 to 99. The proposition to pub lish advertisements for mail-route proposals in but two papers in each State, and these two to be the papers having the largest circulation was also rejected by a majority of thirteen .--The amendment appropriating $30,000 for printing blanks (to be given to the lowest bidder) was adopted. A vote was then taken on the bill itself, and it was rejected -- yeas 86, sented a report from the majority; and a minority report from the same committee was presented by Mr. Sherman. Both reports agree reform, and that great frauds are perpetrated by those having the agency for buying coal for the navy. Both documents should be read by all. A general debate took place in Committee of the Whole on the naval appropriaage laws, being the principal subjects discus-

SATURDAY, February 26, 1859.

In the SENATE, the most important motion was the withdrawal, by Mr. SLIDELL, for the present session, of the Cuban bill. He gave it on the first day of the next session, and stated that his motive for the withdrawal now was, to save the Appropriation bills, and thus prevent the necessity for an extra session. though he was satisfied that the feeling of the SENATE was clearly in favor of the principles of the bill. The Army Appropriation bill was then taken up, and passed after several hours' debate, by a vote of 24 to 15.

In the House, a bill was reported from the Committee on Military Affairs, and passed, which provides for a fine of $500 and one year's imprisoment, for cutting timber on the Military reservations. A partial report was made from the Special Committee appointed to examine the accounts of the late Superintendent of Public Printing, which implicates PETER S. adelphia. The Post-Office Appropriation bill was passed by four majority, in the same shape in which it was before rejected. Mr. PHELPS, of Missouri, again made an attempt to obtain a suspension of the rules for the introduction of a tariff measure, but the effort was again unsuccessful. The President's expected veto of the Agricultural Colleges bill was received. The veto is based principally on constitutional grounds, and the bill failed to pass over it .-The Naval Appropriation bill was then considered in Committee of the Whole, but was and is a competent trustworthy man. finally laid aside, and the Senate's amendments to the other appropriation bills were acted

[Correspondence of the Bradford Reporter.] HARRISBURG, Feb. 25, 1859.

MR. E. O. GOODRICH-Resolutions against an increase of the present rate of postage, introduced by Mr. Kinney early in the session, came up in their order a few days ago. Goepp (Democrat) opposed instructions upon any subject, and upon this in particular. Mr. Wooding also spoke against them and moved their indefinite postponement. Nill, Williston, Rose and Kinney urged their passage. Mr Rose read the remarks of Mr. Buchanan in 1838 in favor of instructions, in which the following passage occurs :-- "Ever since I was capable of forming an opinion upon this subject. I have believed that the Legislatures of the several States had a right to instruct their Senators." This had a very quieting effect on the question of instructions. Mr. Kinney said the position of the National Administration on this subject presented quite an anomaly, and would be regarded with astonishment were ished at anything that administration saw fit to do. There is a capital article on "Charles Lamb and Sidney Smith;" which is quite Lamb-like in its humor, entitled " A Plea Breakfast Table." which, if more sober, is not less charmng than the previous chapters. The serial articles are well sustained, and the poetry is excellent.

add, with absolute surprise. At 2 1-2 o'clock to-day, Mr. PHILIP BAR-TON KEY, the United States Attorney for the District of Columbia, was talking with Mr. BUTTERWORTH, of New York, at the corner of the Hon. D. E. Of this the full confession of the other party to the crime leaves no doubt. Their intimacy had continued for monthsnearly a year-and was carried on with every conceivable circumstance of aggravation. It seems that it came to the knowledge of Mr Sickles on Friday: that he took measures to render himself perfectly certain of the truth; and that under the frenzy and excitement consequent upon his wife's confession, he shot the man who had injured him dead upon the street Mr. S. surrendered himself to the officers of the law, and was committed to prison to await his examination, which takes place to-day.

WASHINGTON, Monday, Feb. 28. Application will be made by Mr. Sickles for a writ of habeas corpus, with a view to procure his release on bail to await his trial. His wife exonerates him from all blame and he has the general sympathy of the community In the Circuit Court, this morning, Mr. Cas LISLE announced the death of Mr. KEY, the late District Attorney for the District of Columbia. While enlogizing the deceased as a courteous, frank, openhearted gentleman, he forbore to speak of the cause which led to his death, as that was a subject for judicial investigation. The Court paid a similar compli ment, and as a token of respect to the deceased adjourned till Thursday.

A BUSHWHACKER PETITION .- The editor of the Mauch Chunk Gazette, in his correspon dence from Harrisburg, gives the following as a "true copy" of a petitical presented to the Legislature, last week, from Columbia coun-

'Know all men by the pressend that all who sine this pittisshun go in fur to through out the superintend of schoolls witness our hants and seels." The Legislature doubtless considered the source, and threw the petition under the table.

ROUGH AND READY .- We are informed that 200 tons of rails were made last week at the Rough and Ready Rolling Mill, in this place; which is the largest amount ever turned out in a single week by that establishment. Rough and Ready never surrendered to the hard times but has steadily kept in motion, through

A party of Gipsies have been encamped on the Williamsport road, about seven miles above Muncy, for some time past. Several week, and drove a pretty brisk trade, telling fortunes at $1 and $2 a head. Evidently, the "dances are not all dead yet."
