[From the Peoria (Illinois) Transcript of May 18.1 Terrific Fight with a Rattlesnake.

We have hitherto supposed the day long since past for chronicling a big snake fight in the vicinity of the Central City, but such, it appears, is not the case, from a scene which recently transpired within a short drive from the court house. Some of the older residents will remember a building which formerly stood on Prospect Hill, about six miles distant from Peoria, and which was destroyed some seven years since. During the past season another house was erected near the same location, and all that has remained as relics of the old hotel was a partially filled excavaton for a cellar and two well preserved brick cisterns, which had been kept covered up. Last week, the proprietor of the place, while busy with his wife in preparing their summer flower garden found himself in the want of a few bricks for the edge of the walks. Remembering the cisterus, he uncovered one of them, and finding it dry at the bottom, and only about six feet in depth he jumped in, and commenced throwing out some of the best brick he could pick from the walls. It seems there was a piece of plank with one end partially imbedded in the earth that somewhat incommoded him; so, seizing it, with some exertion he pulled it out, and threw it to the top. What was his horror and surprise at the next moment to find that he had unearthed an enormous rattlesnake, and himself without a weapon in his hand. As the cistern was round, and only about five feet in diameter, he could not jump out, and the snake bristling with anger and rattling defiance, was ready for battle. His screams brought his wife to the scene, but she was so overcome with fright that she became powerless to render any assistance. The snake in meantime had commenced to fight, making repeated springs at him, but fortunately he managed on each occasion to hit him upon the head with his boot without receiving a bite, the snake all the time becoming more defiant and enraged .-During the whole scene, which lasted several minutes, the man did not lose his presence of mind, but watching his chance, made several frantic efforts to jump bodily from this seemingly pit of destruction. At the last trial he fortunately grasped a brick, which gave way with him, and remained in his hand as he again stood fronting his hissing enemy. After a few more kicks, and watching his opportunity, he threw it, making probably one of the best shots on record, for it struck the snake on the head, and between the one sent and the wall he became a " pretty-well-used up sarpint." Weak and exhausted, our hero, by the assistance of his wife, was enabled to climb from the pit. When once more upon the earth he fainted away, and it was some time before he could be recovered. For several succeeding days he was quite unwell. The snake was afterwards taken from the cistern when it was found to measure seven feet in length, and contained thirteen rattles. The latter have been preserved, and are placed in Shoaff's Museum for exhibition.

BOLD ATTEMPT AT MAIL ROBBERY AND MUR-DER .- On Wednesday evening, as the express train that leaves New York at 5 o'clock P. M., on the New York and Erie Railroad left Port Jervis, 88 miles from New York, a few minutes past 9 o'clock, a fellow attempted to administer chloroform to Mr. Adam Keck, the Mail Agent. A spunge well saturated was applied. but in the act, a drop fell on Mr. Keck's face which aroused him. Springing up, the person clinched the Agent by the cravat and drew a six barrel pistol. The Mail Agent seized the pistol just by the cock, and the two had a severe tussel for ten minutes or more, during which time the pistol dropped. The robber then attempted to use a slung shot, which he reported against the purchase of another lot of ground. falling on them, and the iron rods in front of man. Whereupon he was about to chastise her, but he to a stand. The robber broke away and jumped off the car before the conductor could seize that it was actually suffocating. The robber left behind him an overcoat valued at $35, the six barrel pistol, a basket containing provisions, a bottle of brandy, a bag, supposed to put the money in (if he got any), and the slung shot. No doubt he expected to kill the Express Messenger and the Mail Agent also, if they made any resistance, take the key of the safe to extract the money, of which there was $100,- | a cable to be laid across the Atlantic next year. 000 in the safe .- News.

The examination of EDWARD JACKSON, for the alleged attempt to rob the U.S. mail agent, on the 18th inst., near Port Jervis, Pa., was concluded on Friday, before U. S. Commissioner Bridgeham. The principal witness was ADAM KECK, the mail agent, who detailed the particulars of the attempt to stupify him with chloroform, and of the fight which took place in the mail car. The affair occurred into Penusylvania, and must be tried in this State. The prisoner was fully identified, and a warrant made out remitting him to Pennsylvania for trial. Great praise is awarded to Mr. KECK for the vigorous manner in which he treated the case. JACKSON, it is said, lived in New York, and had a store in Maiden-lane. He is an intelligent looking person, about 30 years of age.

GOVERNOR CHASE AT THE CLEVELAND MEET-ING .- A meeting of some six thousand persons was held in Cleveland, on the 24th instant, to denounce the Fugitive Slave Law, in view of its enforcement against the Oberlin prisoners. The published call invited all "foes of Slavery and despotism," and stigmatized the proceedings of the District Court as a "despotic usurpation of power." Joshua R. Giddings presided. Among the prominent persons present was Governor Chase, who, upon invitation, addressed the concourse. His remarks were brief and sensible. Concurring with those who heard him in dislike of the Fugitive Law he yet counseled no forcible resistance. On the contrary, his advice has to oppose it through the ballot-box alone, by energing men to Congress and the Presidency who would be did not be to Con-He did not even assail its constitutionality, left that question to the proper tribunals, State and Federal. For those who were lying in jail, within the sound of his voice, by reason of having resisted the execution of that enactment, in obedience, as they claimed, to the fighter, gives him the ge-by, and Aaron a English prize dictates of their consciences, the Governor had no word of commendation. On the contrary the tenor of his speech was eminently law-abiding .- N. Y. Times.
