About Hired Men.

We have had frequent occasion to notice the different "luck," as they called it, which employers have had with their hired belp. We know a Mr. P. who was for ever in hot water with his men. They couldn't be trusted out of sight. They would idle away haif their time, slight their work, abuse the horses and cattle, and waste more than their help was worth-such was the frequent complaint of them and to them. On the other hand they unhesitatingly declared, that there never was such a driving, miserly, surly, and altogether contemptible man as their employer From early sammer until their employment ceased in the fall, there seemed to be a continual strife between them each aggravating the other, each apparently studying to find the limit of human endurance, and it sometimes happened that actual violence was resorted to, a hand-to-hand encounter with one or more of the men, followed by prosecutions, law-suits, and costs to pay.

But neighbor G never appeared to have s Cı difficulty. He frequently hered the same men employed by Mr. P. the previous season, yet all went smoothly. His work was done in season, and well done; although they were often away from his observation, there was no disposition shown to take advantage of his absence, and used to speak with pleasure of his "excellent hands." Yet he never was heard to scold, but often to praise, and if fault was found, the offender alone knew of it. This we apprehend was one secret of his success. He remembered that they were men as well as "help "-and as a man he knew that appreciation is one of the highest stimulants of exertion and that fault-finding in presence of others, sours the feelings and disheartens from effort. The man who tokes as much pains to find points to commend in those in his employ, as he does to discover their defects, will soon see the benefit, in cheerful readiness to work and endeavors to please. Scolding never did any good. A man will listen if you tell him his faults, however plainly, if it be done with mildness and in

Too many men pay but little regard to the kept on the coarsest, sometimes the meanest fare. They are sent to sleep two or three in a room often in the unfinished chamber of an outbuilding, and on beds fit only to do penance upon. Then too, the men are not only kept at their work "from early dawn till set of sun," but one furrow more must be turned, or one swath more mowed after the full time of a day's work is completed. Men are easily affected by what touches physical feelings. Generous fare-it need not be expensive-comfortable lodging rooms, ample noon rests, and prompt "turning out" from the field at night, will be more than repaid by the cheerful spirit and "working with a will," which will be given in

A nother cause of much difficulty will be found in the whiskey jug or cider pitcher carried into the field. Although the men may for a time seem to do more by the use of this extra steam experience has many times proved that strictly temperate men can better endure the severe labors of farm life; while seven-eighths of the quarrels and collisions, with disgrace too many, otherwise peaceful, communities, originate from the use of alcoholic stimulants.

can be brought to feel an interest in the success of the farm. Sometimes a good way to pro-cure this, would be the offer of extra pay provided the amount of the crops could be brought beyond the average yield, so that each would feel a personal interest in doing his work well. It would take very little calculation to show tnat several bushels per acre might be added to the product of each field, by better plowing corn or other crops. The subject is certainly worthy of careful consideration, for most farmers are, to quite an extent, dependent upon the labor of others.

CUT FEED FOR STOCK .- Much has been written on this subject : the argument in favor of catting up feed for stock may be stated in a few words. If a farmer has no todder to be disposed of, except fine, "merchantable hay, there will be little need of cutting it, But most persons have cornstalks, and hay and straw a little damaged, which if fed out unprepared would be much wasted. Now, let this be runt brough a straw-cutter, then mixed with a little meal and moistened, and it will be a vastly more palatable dish, little or none will COAL OIL. SPERM OIL AND OIL FOR MACHINES! be wasted, and what is eaten will be well digested.

Our good house wives hash up odds and ends of meat, to save them, and to make them more acceptable to their families : why should not the same principle of economy rule in the farmer's barn? Besides, if cornstalks are not cut up, they find their way into the manureheap in a rough state, they are very slow to decay, and are troublesome in the sheveling of objections are obviated.

CULTURE OF INDIAN CORN .- The grand points in the culture of corn, are good ground deeply and thoroughly plowed and well prepar-ed, seasonable and careful planting, early and thorough cultivation and hoeing, and eradication of weeds and grass until the crop is grown.

I have succeeded, some four or five times, in raising from eighty to one hundred and two bushels of shelled corn per acre, by manure, in a region where thirty bushels is probably a full average crop. My course has been to break a sward, say about seven or eight inches deep or to highly manure and thoroughly plow other land; prepare well, and plant in good season -that is, when I think the weather is such as corn is sufficiently large to see the rows, we commence with the cultivator and hand-hoe, loosen the surface and clean the hills of weeds, and carefully place a small quantity of loose mold around the stalks; after which endeavor to keep the surface loose and clean during the season, particularly keeping the hill clean, and occasionally adding a little fresh loose mold.

MULES AND HORSES .- Which is the most profitable animal to raise, the horse or the mule? 1st. An average lot of two-year-old mules will sell for as much as an average lot of threeyear-old colts, and perhaps more. 2d. It does not require the same amount of food for a mule as for the horse. 31. The mule is less liable to disease and unsoundness. 4. The mule lives to a much greater age than the horse. 5th. The mule will perform more labor, according to his size, on feed on which a horse would starve.-X. Y.

RADISHES .- Sow as lettuce, among and between other vegetables.

THESE MACHINES sew from two spools. THESE MACHINES sew from two spools, as purchased from the store, requiring no re-winding of thread; they Hem, Fell, Gather, and Stich in a superior style, finishing each seam by their own operation, without recourse to the hand-needle, as is required by other machines. As evidence of the unquestioned superiority of their Machines, the Grover & Baker Sewing Machine Company beg leave to respectfully refer to the following TESTIMONIALS.

" Having had one of Grover & Baker's Machines in my family for nearly a year and a half, I take pleasure in commending it as every way reliable for the purpose for which it is designed—Family Sewing,"—Mrs. Joshua Leavitt, wife of Rev. Dr. Leavit, Editor of N. Y. Indevendent

"I confess myself delighted with your Sewing Machine "I concess myself deligned with your sewing Machine, which has been in my family for several months. Extract of a letter from Thos. R. Leavitt, an American gentleman, now resident in Sydney, New South Wales, dated January 12, 1858:

"I had a tent made in Melbourne, in 1853, in which there were over three thousand yards of sewing done with one of Grover & Baker's Machines, and a single seam of that has outstood all the double seams sewed by sailors with a needle and twine."

"If Homer could be called up from his murky bades he would sing the advent of Grover & Baker as a more benignant miracle of art than was ever Vulcan's smithy. He would denounce midnight shirt-making as "the direful spring of woes unnumbered."—Prof. North.
