SENATORIAL CONFERENCE.

NOMINATION OF GEO. LANDON!

"From the nettle danger has been plucked the flower safety." The Republican Senatorial Conference which convened, according to adjournment, at Camptown on Monday last, has concluded its deliberations in a manuer which will be hailed with joy by the Republicans of the District. On the two hundred and thirty third ballot, Rev. GEORGE LANDON, of the County, having a majority of all the votes, and was declared the nominee by the unanimous vote of the Conference.

The struggle for a nomination at this Con ference has been the most protracted and unexampled in the history of our Party. For four days the Conferees had endeavored to bring about a nomination, but with little prospect of reaching that result. As is well known each County of the District presented a candidate, and pertinaciously adhered to bim, hoping that circumstances might bring about his nomination. Meanwhile public anxiety had deepened, and apprehensions were entertained that irreconcilable interests in the Conference would bring about division and disaster. On Tuesday morning after balloting for Mr MyER some two hundred and twenty-five times, the Conferees from this County, acting upon his request, withdrew his name. For this act, too much credit cannot be awarded to Mr Myer. He had been almost unanimously presented by a County which casts a large majori ty of the Republican votes of the District .-He was also the choice of Sullivan, and supported by her Conferee. Appearances indicated, that pertinacionsly adhered to, his nomition was certain. But the long-protracted struggle had engendered feelings which threat ened to affect the prosperity of the party, and called for a sacrifice of feeling and interests on his part. He cheerfully and manfully gave way to the substitution of other candidates who had not been involved in the contest, and whose nomination was calculated to promote the harmony and advance the interests of the Republican party. The nominations were opened, and the names of several gentlemen in Brad ord and Susquehanna placed before the Conference .-Upon the 233d ballot, Mr. LANDON had 7 votes. Mr. JESSUP 4 votes and Mr. SMITH I vote .-Mr. CARMALT, of Susquehanna, moved that the nomination be made unanimous, which was seconded by Mr. Ross of Wyoming, and adopt ed unanimously.

Of the nominee of the Conference, GEORGE Landon, it is almost a work of supererogation to speak. He is known throughout the District as well as in this County. The popular heart will enthusiastically beat in response to his nomination. He is emphatically of, and from, the people. There are few who have not listened to him with admiration as he eloquently advocated the cause of Republicanism, or boldly and fearlessly denounced the "sum of all villianies." If the Republican party of this District owes as a debt of pre-eminence to any man for sowing the seed of Truth, and correct principles, that man is GEORGE LANDON. Eloquent, talented, "lively or severe" as the case may demand, the wrong has no quarters at his hands, whenever, in his judgment, the occasion demands its stern rebuke. To those who only know him as an orator, it will be gratifying to learn that he is eminently a practical man, of great prudence and foresight; one who unites the attributes of the orator with the necessary qualifications of the legislator and the statesman. GEO. LANDON'S abilities, his labor in the cause, and his reputation are too wide for a single County, and the District will hail his nomination without regard to County lines or individual interests, and confirm the choice of the controversies which, for some time past the Conference by a vote which will show the popular estimation

The Conference appointed a Committee to inform Mr. LANDON of his nomination, which walted upon him, and reported his acceptance. Sherwood's is the next place of meeting.

On the 17th of June, Admiral Hope, with the conjoined fleet of large vessels, and of gun-boats, the latter designed for conducting the Plenipotentaries to Pekin, arrived at the mouth of the Peiho; and prepared to enter. After seeking in vain to communicate with the authorities on shore; and after satisfying himself that although the For Attorney General-Charles F. Meyers, Taku forts had been rebuilt and strengthened, they were neither armed nor manned, he ordered the squadron of gun-boats to advance .--Their advance was very soon obstructed by a formidable boom stretched across the stream : and as they drew up along it, a murderous fire was opened from the forts on either side, which suddenly swarmed with troops and bristled with heavy artillery. After a gallant, but hopless struggle, the boats hauled off, the American steamers in company assisting to save them ; but not before three of the boats were destroyed, and nearly five hundred men had been killed, wounded or drowned. A large number of men, including the Admiral, were in the category of wounded. In view of this unexpected disaster, the French and English envoys had returned to Shanghae. Mr. WARD, the American Minister, in the meantime had met at Pekin with a gracious reception, a distinction which the English press bitterly resents. The affair causes the utmost excitement in England.

The satisfaction produced by the favorable issue of the Senatorial Conference is not participated in by our Democratic friends. They have been waiting in Macawber-like patience and anxiety for something to "turn up," and are not in an amiable mood. They must have patience, and perhaps bye-and-bye the sky may fall, and then they will have a scramble for the larks.

The State Convention of the Republicans of Massachusetts, for the nomination of candidates for State officers, assembled at gates was very large, and the proceedings were nomination was made unanimous.

PASSAGE OF THE DAMAGE BILL AND COL.

MR. E. O. GOODRICH-SIR: I have been informed that Col V. E. PIOLETT, and others of much as differing once in our course or vote.-

the bill again came back to the House, Mr. SMEAD moved to concur in the action of the Senate; and briefly stated that he thought it unnecessary and imprudent for the House to stand out any longer upon a point which he considered immaterial; as he did not think that sec. could in any manner affect the rights of the parties. Such action might result in defeating the bill entirely. I stated that I was not prepared to act that time-that I desired to take counsel upon the point at issue—that the former month. if by striking out the sec. the claimants would be deprived of all damages over six years old, the bill would be worthless, and I would preter none. Mr. Jackson opposed concurring with the Senate. Upon the question to insist the yeas and nays were called, and the House nsisted on its amendment by a vote of 55 to 24. Mr. Jackson and myself voting to insist;

Mr. SMEAD not voting. On my motion a committee of conference was appointed, consisting of Messrs. Jackson, WILLISTON and myself. Mr. Jackson telegraphed to Mr. LITTLE of Tunkhannock for his opinion on the sec. and advice how to act in the, remises, and immediately left for Philadelcounsel of several lawyers in the House, and lawyers in the State, and at the present time State Reporter to the Supreme Court. They concurred in the opinion that the Canal Co., could not set up the statute as a defence to those claims, and if they could, it was a right which accrued to them at the purchase of the tion, deprive them of that right, or fix upon them a liability which they did not then assume. They regarded the section as immateri-

Mr. WILLISTON and myself met the Senate port : "That the Committee recommend that the House recede from it amendment non-con curred in by the Senate."

Upon Mr. Jackson's return from Philadelphia, he found a letter from Mr. LITTLE, awaiting him, in which he expressed substantially the opinion I had obtained from M. CASEY, and others, and he urged Mr. Jackson not to let that point of difference defeat the bill -Thereupon Mr. J., expressed himself satisfied and signed the report with Mr. Williston and myself. The report was taken up twice, read and adopted without a dissenting vote. If Mr. J., did not vote for his own report, he is the only man that knows the fact. Certain it is, no man voted against it.

In spreading these facts before the public at this time, I do not wish to do Mr. J. the slightest injury, politically or otherwise. On the contrary, I am free to say that his conduct throughout was open, manly and honorable, and he ought to be sustained by every democrat in his district. Mr. SMEAD counseled, and acted with us from first to last, never differing in his action from us except in the above instance, and the sequel shows his views to have been correct, for we had to come to them in the end. We were counseled and urged to the course we pursued by those of our constituents who were distinctly and personally interested in damage claims, some of whom are as good democrats as Col. PIOLETT, unless abusing members of the legislature for obeying their constituents adds very materially to one's democracy. Their names can be had when required.

I suspect our great offending consisted in passing a bill at all. Had that remained an open question, that feathered songster, Col. PIOLETT, would have sung some most melancholy changes this fall, and added some half dozen to his now almost deserted democratic Yours for the truth,

LOCAL AND GENERAL.

EDITOR OF THE REPORTER-SIR: The authorship of a certain Dialogue between Dave, &c., lately published in the Herald, having been ascribed to me, permit me, through your paper, to relieve myself of that honor. I am not the author of that Dialogue, nor have I claimed to be. I wish that impression removed from the minds of the community for several reasons: I am indebted to the gentleman so wittily abused. for many personal favors, such as few, if any man in this county Democrats or Republicans, could bestow. Moreover, I have some respect for the Judge as well as esteem for the man. It seems to me that we are fighting the great battles of Principles, not Men: and I am forcibly reminded of certain savage tribes, who reviled their enemies before the fight began, with the foulest words of abuse; but ran away as soon as the first arrow fell among them. In my view, the ideas of Democracy are too grand and pure to be defended by personalities. I am anxious to have the honor of the Dialogue authorship removed from my poor shoulders, because I find it pretty generally ascribed to me throughout the county, and it is very unpleasant to he insulted by one's friends. RULES FOR AWARDING PREMIUMS.

The Judges on animals will have regard to symmetry, arly maturity and general qualities characteristic of the breeds-making due allowances for the age, feeding and other circumstances connected with the age and condition of the animal. They will be careful in their report, to distinguish clearly the pedigree, whether full blood, grade or native. They will bear in mind that the great object is to encourage the production of good stock of each description for breeding.

The Judges on Agricultural productions will have regard to quality and perfection as well as size and quantity produced. In no case should they award a premium for an article of forced and unnatural growth, when the same has been produced at the sacrifice of every desirable quality, the object being to give encourage such productions as are most perfect in quality, or size and quantity.

The judges on agricultural and mechanical implements and manufactures, should have regard solely to the superior adaption, durability and general utility of all articles presented to them. No premium should be awarded for articles merely for the superior workmanship exhibited in their construction, when the same does not possess the requisite qualities for utility and general usefulness.

It will be the duty of the judges on articles not enumerated in the list, to award commendations and diplomas when in their judgment the extraordinary character or superior quality of the same shall merit; and when such articles, coming within the rules of the society, shall merit cash premiums they will recommend the same in their report to the Executive Committee, who will fix the amounts of such premiums. The judges will be expected in all cases in making their eports, to give a statement of the reasons which influenced their decision, pointing out the superior qualities of the animals or articles to which the premiums are awarded. In no case will they award a premium when the animal is not worthy, though there be no competition. And when there is but one competitor, although he may show several animals in a class, or sub-division, only one premium will be awarded; that to be the first or otherwise as the animal or article may be adjudged to merit. NOTICE TO COMPETITORS AND EXHIBITORS. It is very desirable that persons who intend to become mpetitors or exhibitors to this fair, give early notice o the Secretary of their intentions-stating the kind of animal or article they wish to enter; so that ample preparations may be made for the same. The committee are nxious that the arrangements shall be full and complete so that each department will have its full space, and each nimal or article be properly exhibited.

Every precaution and care will be taken that no article owever costly or delicate in texture or manufacture, shall be in the least injured. Officers, in sufficient num bers, will be on the grounds, whose duty it will be to look to the safety of everything on exhibition. Water and hay will be furnished on the grounds free f expense, to competitors and exhibitors. Persons to whom premiums are awarded will receive the certificates of the same from the Secretary at any time after the close of the Fair. The diplomas and com mendations of the society, will be given to those entitled to them upon application to the Secretary. Members of the Society will be admitted with their ladies and children under age, to all the privileges of the exhibition. The annual address will be delivered at 2 o'clock on the afternoon of the second day.

Tickets admitting one person during the exhibition 0 cents, single admittance, 25 cents.
