Foster and the Canvass.

The Democratic candidate for Governor broke the silence which he has heretofore so studiously maintained, by addressing the people of Greensburg, his residence, some two weeks since. A report of his speech was forwarded to the Philadelphia Press. It represented Gen. Foster as planting himself squarely upon the Douglas platform. Week before last, however, the General was in the city of Philadelphia. His Breckenridge friends got at him, and there appeared in the Pennsylvanian a flat-footed denial of the report in the Press on the authority, as was alleged, of Gen. Foster himself. The Press gives the name of its reporter, inquires whether or not Gen. Foster authorized the denial of the Pennsylvanian, and concludes a spirited editorial in the following preguant words:

"But we will not permit any man, not even Gen. Foster, to place us in the attitude of misrepresenting his opinions by fabricating reports of his speeches. We have not forced our doctrines upon him. We have not demanded of Democratic candidate for President. We have only demanded that he should not lend himself to a plot by which the suffrages of the Democrats of the State should should be tradan impudent and irregular nomination.

Now, as we have said, the article in the Custom-House paper derives significance from the fact that paper is the mere reflection of a few men in office, with whom General Foster is in daily communion, and it also assumes a certain importance in connection with the rumor, unhappily too well authenticated, that he favors a fusion electoral ticket, which appointed upon the moral obligation to support the regular Democratic candidate for President, is A. The earnest friends of Judge Douglas, however they may deplore Gen. Foster's weakness in constantly consulting with the enemies of that illustrious Statesman, gladly greeted his Somerset speech in favor of the great principle of self government; and they stood and stand, ready to vote for him upon that avowal. But there must be no marked cards, in this great game. General Foster cannot run upon two platforms. He cannot make a speech in Somerset and disavow it in Philadelphia. He can- Maj. His silence might have carried him through; but when he will talk it must be with no forked tongue. That is the question. He must answer it, or the people will do it for him in October.

Free Speech in Philadelphia.

The city of Philadelphia last Wednesday evening was the scene of an outrageous attack upon the rights of free speech. After the meeting at National Hall John Sherman was serenaded by the Republican Invincibles, and called upon for a speech. This desire did not accord with the wishes of his opponents, and as soon as he appeared on the balcony he was interrupted by a disgraceful demonstration of the Bell Everett party, assisted by the democrats. Mr. Sherman, at length, was allowed to proceed, but the noise and confusion continued through his speech and at one time the mob attacked the Invincibles, who were obliged to clear the square of the most refractory

Mr. Sherman's speech was a manly vindication of the right of free speech, which he claimed for himself in Philadelphia and elsewhere.

Letter from Col. M'Kean.

TO THE EDITORS OF THE BRADFORD ARGUS-GENTLEMEN: Having been strongly urged by a large and respectable number of my Repubican friends of the County, to permit my name to be used as a candidate for the office I now hold, at the ensuing election, I take this occasion to say to my Republican friends, and my fellow-citizens, that I am not a candidate. I am always willing to comply with all reasonable and proper requests which may be made by my friends, but I believe that after a proper time, and after due reflection, they will readily coincide with me in the wisdom of my onclusion. Were I a candidate, it is but too obvious and plain, that a state of things would exist which might be disastrous, and much to be deplored; and whether the result would terminate in my favor or against me, the organization of the Republican party in this County would suffer, and that most severely.

It is, therefore, in view of these things, that after this lapse of time, and after mature deliberation, I have taken upon myself the reonsibility of announcing my determination. I have, as is well known, been strongly urged and solicited by many good and warm friends. to permit my name to be used at this time for the purpose of correcting certain alleged abuses and wrongs committed in choosing delegates, and complaints made against the action of the Convention. I am what may be termed a charter-member of the Republican party in Old Bradford, and will go as far as any of my Less than three weeks now intervene before friends, in any reasonable and proper manner

I assure them I am grateful for their favors and support, and I shall carry with me so long as time with me kindness to me, and their aid in my behalf.
