so important for what they are as for what they will be. At present they are of but little consequence too often But farmers' boys always have been and we presume always will be the material out of which the noblest men are made. They have health and strength; they have bone and muscle; they have heart and will; they have nerve and patience; they have ambition and endurance; and these are the materials that make men. Not buckrams and broadcloth, and patent leather and beaver-fur, and kid gloves and watch-seals, are the materials of which men are made. It takes better stuff to make a man. It is not fat and flesh and swagger and self-conceit; nor yet smartness, nor flippancy, nor foppery, nor fastness. These make fools, but not men; not men such as the world wants, nor such as it will honor and bless. It is not long hair, nor much beard, nor a cane, nor a pipe, nor cigar, nor a quid of tobacco, nor an oath, nor a glass of beer or brandy, nor a dog and gun, nor a pack of cards, nor a novel, nor a vulgar book of love and murder, nor a tale of adventures, that makes a man or has anything to do with making a man. Farmers' boys ought to keep clear of all these idle foolish things. They should be employed with nobler objects. They, have yet to be men of the clear grit, honest istelligent, industrious, ambitions men, who shall love their country and their kind. With the means they possess how easy for them to be in fact the first class men. They have land and stock and tools; they have health and time and mind; they have schools and churches and papers; they have books and perseverance and the heart and hand for work. More than this they need not. Let them awake and work and read and study. It is not all work, nor yet all study, that will make them men of the right stamp. They must work intelligently and study with an earnest purpose of being benefitted, and they will become what they ought to be, the real men of the world."

DAIRY FARMING .- For the last dozen years there has been, perhaps, no branch of husbandry that has uniformly yielded to the hus bandman better or sarer profits than a judiciously managed dairy. Nothing produced upon the farms of this country meets with a more ready sale than milk, butter and cheese. especially when pure, of good quality and well put up. Calves and pork, incidental to a wellconducted dairy, also sell readily for cash and remunerative prices. It is not our purpose at this time to discuss the merits of the different breeds of cows for dairy purposes, since to do any sort of justice to that branch of the subject would occupy a much larger space than we have now at disposal. Yet it is of such importance as to demand the most careful conderation, and intimate knowledge of the different breeds of cows and their comparative merit for the several branches of dairy husbandry. As Charles L. Flint, in his recently published book upon Milch Cows and Dairy Farming, well remarks, the objects of the dairy are three-told; the production of milk for sale, mainly confined to milk dairies, and to a smaller farms in the vicinity as large towns, where a mixed husbandry is followed; the production of butter, chiefly confined to farms at a distance from cities and large towns which furnish a ready market for milk ; and the fabrication of cheese carried on under circumstances somewhat similar to the manufacture of butter, and sometimes mixed with it as an object of pursuit on the

These different objects should be kept in view in the selection of cows; for animals which would be most profitable for the milk-dairy, might be very unprofitable for the butter or cheese dairy. The best cows of the best known breeds, when improperly managed and kent upon unsuitable feed, may, and almost always do, prove upprofitable-and the same is true of all other kinds of farm stock. To make the most that can be made out of a dairy, great care, coupled with a good degree of knowledge and skill, is required. Cows should be kept in a perfectly healthy condition, and fed upon the kind of fool adapted to the production of the largest quantity of milk or butter. Another important thing is that cows should have good dry yards, with comfortable sheds in summer and warm, well ventilated stables in winter. and always plenty of the purest of water .-When all these conditions are complied with dairy farming cannot but be remunerative.

Then again, when butter and cheese is made for the market, it must be well and neatly put up, in order to command the highest price It costs no more to make a hundred pounds of butter of the finest quality, than it does to produce a very inferior article, while there is from fifty to a hundred per cent, difference in their value when brought to market. The best article always meets with a ready sale, and reflects credit upon the maker and vender, while the other is a drug at any price, and may well occasion a blush of shame upon the face of him who makes or sells it .- American Stock Jour-

When to Cut Timber .- Conversing with an intelligent farmer of large experience, upon this subject, we found he fully sustained the views heretofore expressed in the Agriculturist viz : that the best season for cutting timber is about mid-summer. His explanation was, that during the latter part of June and early in July, when the foliage is in its fullest vigor the upward draft upon the sap is so great that very little moisture is left in the the tree, consequently the timber seasons hard and sound but that during March and April there is so much water in the wood, that insects bore into it readily, thus producing "powder post" through all the sap portion, and even into the heart wood. He mentioned the instance of a neighbor who cut his timber for a house in June, but when he came to work it out in the Winter, he lacked some ribs or slats upon which to nail the long roof shingles. He cut enough to supply the deficiency during the latter part of Winter, and completed the house. After the lapse of a few years, he examined the roof, and found the slats which were cut in Summer, perfectly sound, while those cut in Winter, were badly affected by dry root and "pawder post." Our informant had also provcd the same thing himself,

CAUTION.

"To be, or not to be — hat is the question! Whether 'tis nobler in the mind to suffer The slings and arrows of outrageous opposition, Or by taking up arms against a sea of printing ink, And opposing, end them."

THE proprietor of the Argus takes o casion in adver count, the inference is that if the public bring their binding to me, they are in no danger of being defrauded. For two years I have worked for Mr. Pausons, and he has taken great pains t satisfy the public I was the "best Binder in America," as the columns of the Argus will testily. Has he been all that time "deluding the public?" If I have been engaged in a fraud, he has been the principal. But I refer to my work during that time as evidence that there has been no fraud practiced. Having served a long apprenticeship at the Bindery business, I have resumed business here on my own account, as I know of nothing which prevents me from following a legitimate and bawful calling for my support.—I shall endeavor by good work and attention to my business to give public satisfaction.
