

millions of bonds, on which they can raise money sufficient to build the road and put the rolling stock upon it. Lastly, the bill places a check upon the company, so that they cannot squander the money but will be obliged to apply it legitimately to the purposes of the road. If it would not be betraying confidence, I would throw out here, in a whisper, that I consulted with the head of the department, and said he, "as a man of honor, that money will be applied rightly." This is all we propose to do.

If we pass the bill, what will be the result? The first result will be that the company can raise money and complete its road; the second result will be that the funds will be legitimately applied—no squandering, no profligacy. The people will never have it to say we put money into the hands of these men which went to make them individually rich. The third result will be, that the section of the State through which the road runs will be developed.

Now, sir, what is the glory of a Commonwealth? What is the wealth of a State?—What is the progressive prosperity of an empire like Pennsylvania? Why, sir, it is the development of her people, intellectually, morally and physically, for mean, undeveloped people will damn any land. There after you have developed the people, you must develop those resources, agricultural or mineral, which the great God has lodged in the bosom of your soil. Here is a vast section of country lying off towards the setting sun, clothed with rich forests, underlaid with strata of coal; and as if the God of creation wished to pour all the treasures of wealth into the bosom of Pennsylvania, He has lodged there an inexhaustible and a perennial fountain of oil. You have the lumber; you have the coal; you have the oil; and I do not know what other sources of wealth you will discover ultimately. What is the wealth of Pennsylvania? It is to develop those resources; to bring them out and throw them into the market, to change them into gold and silver—into current money, circulating from hand to hand. There is the farmer; he needs a market for his produce.—There is the lumberman; he needs a market for his lumber. There is the coal digger; he wants a market for his coal. There is the man who is boring for oil; he wants a market for his oil. All these men want the means to get their productions to a market. Construct this road and you furnish that means.

What under heavens is the use of talking and sparring upon the question whether two millions or four millions are needed? Pass this bill authorizing the issuing of bonds to the amount of five millions; put them in the keeping of the Secretary of State, and tell these men to go to work and stretch their iron thread through that part of the Commonwealth—to harness the horse of steam and fire and start him upon his course. Let this part of the Commonwealth be developed; let the people have access to the commercial world.

Do you not know sir, and do I not know that it is these internal improvements that give value to land and everything else? Why, Mr. Speaker, when the New York and Erie Railroad, which runs about twenty miles from my own residence, was first put in operation, land on the line of the road could be bought at a certain price. In six years from that time, every square acre of land had doubled in its value. Complete this road through the section in which it is projected, and the poor man who now has one hundred acres of land and cannot get to market grain enough to raise the money to pay his taxes, will have a cash market for all his products; and not only will he pay his taxes, but the land will be valued twice as high as it is now; twice as much revenue will come into the treasury from that section of the State. Thus will that section of country be developed. It is the glory of a Legislature to do what it can for the development of the State.

There is another point to which I would have you look. If we pass this bill, the securities of the Commonwealth will be, to say the least, in as good a condition as they are now. How is it now? There are $1,600,000 ahead of the State lien; and if the State does not force a sale she gets nothing, while if she forces a sale she gets nothing. That is the value of the State securities now. Pass this bill, and it is true there will be six millions ahead of the State. But the present claim is upon an unfinished, unproductive road.

Pass this bill, and it will be upon a finished and operative road; and I say, with the little financial experience that I have, I would prefer the lien of the State, with six millions ahead of it, upon a finished and operative road to a claim of three and a half millions, with $1,600,000 ahead of it, upon an unfinished and unproductive road. Sir, in my judgment the securities of the State will not be worth anything if invalidated at all. They are worth nothing now, and they cannot be worth less.

In the next place, by the passage of this bill, you will relieve a large number of involved contractors. Mr. Speaker, there is a man living within my county who went to work upon a section of this very road. He told me he cleared twenty acres of land in a dense green forest—cut away the trees and tore out the stumps and graded the track. He went on, expecting that funds would come to his hand as he needed them. He invested in the work, more or less of his own means. The result was, that he was obliged to discontinue his contract.—That man said to me, "if you can do anything to relieve us, I hope you will do it. I do not want you to sacrifice yourself; but there must be a sacrifice somewhere." As near as I can learn, there is a whole company of men in the same dilemma. If we pass this bill, we put it within the ability of the company to raise funds. They go to work upon the railroad; these contractors finish their jobs; they receive their pay, and are relieved and disencumbered. This is another argument in favor of the bill.

Returning thanks to the Senate for its indulgence, I will now merely recapitulate the points and reasons which will induce me to vote for this bill. First, this measure was recommended by the retiring Governor and also the incoming Governor; and, if instructions from high quarters are of any consequence, then we have the benefit of that argument. I shall vote for the bill, because it will enable the Company to raise funds to go on and complete the road. I shall vote for the bill, because this provision for relief is so guarded in the last section, that the Company cannot squander these funds. I shall vote for the bill because it will secure the development of a vast section of our great State, thus adding to our general and industrial wealth. I shall vote for the bill, because it does not in the least impair the securities of the Commonwealth. I shall vote for the bill because it brings relief to a large number of high-minded and energetic men, who are now involved in consequence of undertaking these contracts upon the road. I shall vote for the bill, Mr. Speaker, standing upon my own responsibility; and, if any one of my constituents should call me to account for it, I shall give that account which honest purposes and a general understanding of the subject will enable me to give.

Instrumental Music will not, as heretofore, be taught in the Institute, but by special arrangement—a class will be held in a hall in the grounds of the Institute, by the Teacher of Vocal Music.

This arrangement has been adopted for the past term, and experience has proved it to be eminently superior to the plan pursued heretofore. Special pains will be taken to secure the greatest progress of those wishing to take lessons in this branch. Terms will be as heretofore: Tuition on Piano Forte, per term..... $10 00
Use of instrument on which to take lessons..... 2 00
Board in the Institute, per week..... 2 00

Pupils boarding in the Hall will furnish their own towels, &c., and the table silver as their option. It is desirable that they also furnish their own bed and bedding when it is convenient, but when otherwise, these will be furnished at a slight extra charge.

Normal Department.—Special exercises are arranged without extra charge for those preparing themselves as Teachers of Schools. Prof. CHARLES R. COBURN, is able and well known Superintendent of Common Schools in the county, has kindly consented to organize the Teacher's class, and direct the course to be pursued.

It is also proposed to conduct these exercises as often as practicable, and will deliver frequent lectures on the Theory and Practice of Teaching, as also on other subjects connected with Normal training.

Those persons desiring to engage in teaching for the winter, will find it greatly to their advantage to be present during the Fall term.

Prof. COBURN's connection with the Institute is not confined to its many interests with the discharge of the regular duties of his office.

No pains will be spared, on the part of the Faculty and Trustees in sustaining the high reputation of the Institute, and in rendering it more worthy of future patronage and support.

The Argus Book bindery Again in Full Operation!

WE have the gratification of announcing to our friends, customers, and the public, that we are now prepared to do in all its Branches in the latest and most approved styles, and on the most favorable terms.

Having secured, permanently, the services of Mr. H. C. WHITEKAR, a finished workman from Philadelphia, and having added extensively to the fixtures of the concern—giving greater facility than formerly—we can present to the public the most positive assurance of our ability to please our patrons.

Our Customers should be particular to remember that the "Argus Bindery," is in the Argus Building, as formerly, (over the building north of the Ward House) and is connected with our Book and Stationery Store and Printing Office, where all work should be delivered.

CAUTION.—We are compelled in justice to ourselves, and our old customers, as well as to prevent an imposition upon the public generally, to caution them against a sort of concern that lately holds out to the public that it is the Argus Bindery. This fraud is practiced, no doubt, with a hope of deluding the Public. Against this bold and deliberate attempt to deceive, they are hereby cautioned.

Particular attention paid to re-binding. All work guaranteed. Country Produce of all kinds taken in payment for work.

Having made complete arrangements, we are prepared to Re-bind and Blank Books to any style or pattern, at prices as low as elsewhere.
