praise and thanksgiving, for His mercies, and let us unite in the prayer, that peace and happiness may be speedily restored to our country by the defeat and dispersion of DRESS GOODS, the rebels and traitors who are now arrayed against us. Indeed the events of the past six months conclusively show the whole tendency of the contest to be in favor of the Union and against the rebels.

The following is an extract from a private letter written by a young man formerly of this place -now a member of the 23d New York Regiment. It was not written for publication, but as it contains some items of interest to our readers, we make the following extract:

HEADQUARTERS 22d Reg., Co. E., Camp Upton Hill, Nov. 17, 1861. The weather here has been quite cold for the last week, while " semi occasionally" we have had ne of those cool " refreshing" rains characteristic to this climate. It would seem rather queer to those unaccus tomed to it, to live five months without having a good warm stove to go to when it rains, yet we will say noth. ing about going to bed on the ground, with your knap-bed since the 2d of July. I never enjoyed myself better in my life.

The works on the different fortifications at this point are completed, and the whole army of the Potomac seem to be awaiting forther orders from headquarters. We have been been described by the property of the propert have but very little duty to do, with the exception of drilling. Occasionally we go out on the enemy's lines foraging. Last night we received news that a foraging party, in the vicinity of Alexandria were taken prisoners from our legiment. They were taken while doing picket duty—they were surrounded by about twenty-five cavalrymen, who took them without much trouble.

Last Sunday I attended church in a very ancient build ing-one in which George Washington used to worship It has been repaired on the inside somewhat, but afer the same style of the original-the seats and speaker's stand being very high. In the wall is a large stone slab whose scription states that the brick of which the church is built, were brought from England in 1708. In the cemetry adjacent to the church are graves which were dug in 1702-3. There were also new made graves of Rebelsoldiers, two of which were killed by us at the time our company had the skirmish on Hall's Hill. This we learn ed from the inscription upon the board that marked their resting place. * * * * * * * We took with us our arms when we went to church.—
