THE PEOPLE'S FIZZLE.

The Convention of the Peoples' party met at this place on Tuesday evening of last week. If the attendance and spirit manifested, is any indication, the concern is on its last legs.

It was reasonable to expect that in thus starting a new party, the movers would set forth the principles which govern and the motives which actuated them, in breaking loose from their former party associations.

That the men who control the Peoples' party of this County, care nothing about the Tonnage question, except as a hobby to effect political ends, he must be very verdant who for a moment believes.

The resolutions declare that this bolting, democratic-embracing, movement, is the simple pure Union party of the County, and of course its delegates the only ones entitled to a seat in the Pittsburg Convention.

The resolutions declare that this bolting, democratic-embracing, movement, is the simple pure Union party of the County, and of course its delegates the only ones entitled to a seat in the Pittsburg Convention.

Any other course would be simply absurd. The Republican delegates present themselves at Pittsburg representing the voters of this County who expect to support the nominations of that Convention.

The proceedings as published say that Mr. Tracy endorsed the Convention at length very eloquently and ably. We cannot ascertain that Mr. Tracy defined his position to the satisfaction of any one—though perhaps we may have more satisfactory information when the search for the unfortunate individual who heard his speech entire, is successful.

We give in another column, a letter from Col. MADILL, and a list of killed, wounded and missing in the 141st Regiment. The list of casualties speaks more eloquently than words of the bravery of this regiment.

The officers, field and line, distinguished themselves by their coolness and bravery. One half of their number suffered. We shall take occasion hereafter to speak more particularly of them, as they deserve.

The long list of casualties which we publish brings sorrow and gloom to many a hearth in this county. Anxious relatives and friends will find there the name they dread to see.

We have had an opportunity, during the past week, of conversing with many Republicans, and of ascertaining the feeling throughout the County. We are pleased to see the disposition manifested to uphold the standard of Republican principles against the attacks of our opponents.

The Argus twits us with having in time gone by, acted with Pioler & Co.,—the gentlemen whom it and the clique surrounding it now so cordially embrace and act with.

We have not the slightest idea they will offer us any sympathy or support, until like the Argus we shall apostatize from our principles and sell ourselves to a course which shall aid the Democracy.

The leaders of the Peoples' party are in a great dilemma. The Republicans in the organization have no idea of aiding the Democracy, while the Democrats are already threatening to bolt, if Republican principles and the War is endorsed.

The meeting of the Peoples' Convention, called to town, on Tuesday, the usual and inevitable number of Democratic leaders, whose conferences with those engineering the bolting machine were frequent and cordial.

Since the recrossing of the Rappahannock, by Hooker's army, a thousand rumors have been flying through the country. The fact is, that the army is now occupying the camps they left when the forward movement commenced, and no portion of the army had again crossed the Rappahannock.

The telegraph brings as a report that the Court in Vallandigham's case, found that arch-traitor guilty, and sentenced him to two years labor on the Tortugas, Florida, which finding had been approved by Gen. Burnside.

Gen. "Stonewall" Jackson died on Sunday last from the effects of the amputation of his arm and an attack of pneumonia, which followed it.

Letter from Col. Madill.

HEADQUARTERS 141ST REG. P.A. VOLS., May 7, 1863.

DEAR SIR:—It is with a sad heart that I attempt, this evening, to write you a few lines relative to the affairs of the Regiment.

We went into the fight at Chancellorsville on Sunday morning, May 3, at half after six o'clock, with four hundred and nineteen men and twenty-four commissioned officers.

I need say nothing to you of the bravery of my men and officers. The annexed list of killed, wounded and missing, but too eloquently tells how nobly they have done their duty.

Poor WATKINS fell while gallantly encouraging the men to hold the position, an extremely dangerous one, as he occupied the right of the line of battle, and the enemy on our flank.

The wound the Colonel received is not necessarily a fatal one, and with care he will recover. He was taken from the field by one of the officers of the Regiment, and left in a hospital near the "Chancellor Mansion."

Colonel WATKINS needs nothing said by me to establish his efficiency as an officer, or his bravery as a soldier. He has given that evidence which his blood.

The men reported as missing in the annexed list, are, I fear, either killed or wounded, and in the hands of the enemy.

It is a sad task for me to send this list for publication, but I feel that it is my duty to inform the friends of those brave men, and the condition of those that are near and dear to them.

The following, taken from the correspondence of the Misonri Democrat, written from Capt. Girardeau, April 26, 1863, contains an account of the wounding of Captain STEPHEN V. SHIPMAN, formerly of this place, now in the 1st Wisconsin Cavalry.

Yesterday a flag of truce was sent in from the rebels with Capt. Shipman of the 1st Wisconsin Cavalry, whom they had badly wounded in a fight at the White Water river, where he, with a company of fifty men, were guarding a bridge, about sixteen miles from this place.

The present condition of the country demands that we should be united in supporting the Government. That we have the political cooperation of all those who are ready to support these candidates, as calculated to advance the best interests of the country.

Washington, Tuesday, May 12, 1863. The recovery of the bodies of our slain. Gentlemen recently arrived here and proceeded to the Rappahannock to recover the bodies of their friends, who fell in the recent battles.

A report was current yesterday that the enemy had left their formidable position along the heights, but a close observation last evening discloses the fact that the numbers there had not been diminished.

Several mistakes having occurred in the proceedings of the Republican Convention, published last week, we republish them in this week's paper. From the list of delegates some names may possibly be omitted, as no list was furnished us, and this is made up from the credentials, so far as we could find them.

Col. Kilpatrick's official report of his share of the man's grand cavalry raid is published. He commanded the forces that did most of the work, the column marching down by Richmond to the York river. He lost one officer and 37 men, and captured and paroled over 300.

Republican County Convention.

The Republican County Convention met at the Court House in Towanda, May 4, 1863, and was called to order by electing L. P. STAFFORD, President, and JOHN BEARDSLEE and A. G. MATTHEWS, Secretaries.

Williams, Tuscarora—Hiram Taylor, Harri Appleby, Elster—Morris Clair, W. H. Plowman, Warren—Wm. Howell, John Beardslee, Wildham—Wm. Warren, George W. Blackman, Wyalusing—L. P. Stafford, James Fee.

On motion, the Convention proceeded to nominate candidates for Delegates to the State Convention to be held at Pittsburg, July 1, 1863.

Geo. Landon, John A. Coddling, M. C. Mercor, and Dummer Lilly, were nominated. On calling names of Delegates, M. C. MERCOR and GEO. LANDON, receiving a majority of all the votes, was duly declared elected as Delegates to the State Convention.

On motion, James Fee, P. H. Back, John A. Coddling, L. P. Stafford, and James H. Webb, were elected, by acclamation, Conferees for the Senatorial District, with instructions to support Hon. G. A. Grow, as Senatorial Delegate.

On motion, J. B. Hines, E. R. DeLong, Cyrus Cook, F. C. Overton, and G. D. Montagne were appointed a Committee to prepare and report Resolutions.

The following resolutions were reported by the Committee:— Resolved, That we look upon the leading measures of the National Administration, as embodied in the President's Reconstruction and the legislation of Congress, as eminently wise and proper and adapted to meet the great and pressing emergencies of the times.

Resolved, That we believe the success of the candidates to be placed in nomination at Pittsburg, on the 1st of July, will be of the highest importance, in sustaining the Government. That we invite the political cooperation of all those who are ready to support these candidates, as calculated to advance the best interests of the country.

Resolved, That our brave soldiers in the field are worthy of a nation's highest gratitude and respect. That we tender our hearty sympathies to those who remain home after shedding their blood for their country, or who languish from disease contracted in the service.— The dead, who

The Casualties in the 57th P. V.

LETTER FROM CAPTAIN DARLING. CAMP FIFTY-SEVENTH P. V., May 7, 1863.

DEAR SIR:—I herewith send you a list of the casualties in my company during the first six days of May, and the names of the brave men of Old Bradford who gave their noble cause. "All honor to the brave."

KILLED—MAY 3, 1863. 1st Lieut. Joseph Brady, Co. H., of Sheshnegin, Corporal Ezra Spaulding, Franklin, Private Henry Owens, Milan, Private George Shores, Sheshnegin.

WOUNDED. Capt. J. M. Darling, Hip, slight piece of shell. Corporal Henry Fortis, side, slight. Private Henry Armstrong, severe, foot amputated. Elie Hudson, Breast, slight, minnie ball. Martin Horton, Breast, slight, piece of shell. William Smith, leg, slight, minnie ball. Erastus Green, Hip, slight, minnie shell.

MISSING IN BATTLE. Corporal William Drake—Rome. Private John O'Connor—Milan.

You can imagine the fierceness of the contest and how nobly our men disputed every inch of ground, by the overwhelming losses of our (Birney's) Division.

I sincerely regret the loss of 1st Lieutenant BRADY, he being an officer risen from the ranks by his own merits; brave, cool and calculating in time of danger, and gentlemanly in his conduct everywhere.

Corporal Ezra Spaulding is well known in our town as an upright honorable man and a true Patriot and soldier. His friends have lost a good neighbor and the service of a brave soldier.

Our regiment lost 89 killed, wounded and missing, out of 200 we took into action. The loss of the 141st is very large.

We are now quietly resting in our old camp awaiting orders.

I remain Yours, O. M. DARLING, Captain Commanding Co. H., 57th P. V.

One week ago General Hooker issued a general order (which has just got into print) congratulating his army upon the achievements of the preceding seven days. The reasons for the recrossing of the river were of a character not to be foreseen or prevented by human sagacity or resources; and the withdrawal without a general battle was an evidence of the implicit confidence of the army in itself and of fidelity to the principles it represents.

The Army of the Potomac will be the guardian of its own history—by its recent movement it has added new laurels to its former renown; it has made long marches, crossed rivers, surprised the enemy in his marches, crossed rivers, surprised the enemy in his intrenchments, and inflicted heavier wounds than it has received.

It has taken 5,000 prisoners, 15 colors, 7 pieces of artillery, disabled 18,000 of the enemy, destroyed his depots, stores, communications, captured prisoners within his capital, and filled his country with consternation; and the officers and soldiers have no other regret than for the loss of their brave companions, who have fallen in the best cause ever submitted to arbitration of battle.
