After con-siderable altercation AcLa alleged that he had pa-pers to clear him from arrest, which were in his hest at his house. The young men consented reactantly to go with him and they all started to the house. A part of the house is occupied by ACLA and a part by his mother. ACLA proceeded to his part as if to hunt for his papers, and was immedipart as if to hunt for his papers, and was immedi-ately followed by OwEN FINLAN. He proceeded to a bedroom and commenced to search in a chest.— OWEN'S suspicions were aroused that ACLA was searching for a pistol and immediately caught hold of him and pulled him away from the chest and began to examine it himself. At this time the old woman had come into the bedroom. OWEN was clinched by ACLA and his Mother and a severe struggle took place, OWEN trying all the time to struggle took place, OWEN trying all the time to struggle took place, OWEN trying all the time to dwas severely beaten upon the head and face by the old women with a stick of wood, and kicked and old women with a stick of wood, and kicked and ounded by ACLA so that he was overpowered and s pistol taken from him. It appears from the ridence of the man VANDERPOOL, who remained the front room, or the old women's part, The root room, or the old women's part, horoughout the whole affair, that JOHN FINLAN and ACLA'S wife followed ACLA and his mother and OWEN atto the back room or kitchen; that while the con-est was going on between OWEN, ACLA, and his mother, he saw JOHN trying to go to assist OWEN, and ACLA'S wife trying to go to assist OWEN, and ACLA'S wife trying to go to assist OWEN, and ACLA's wife trying to prevent him, that, he oon saw John and Acla's wife in a clinch coming through the door of the backroom into the front-00m where he was, that she rushed him out with apparent ease and threw him out of the front door to the road and shut the door, that John in a moment or two broke into the room again, and oon after went out ; that he did not discover that JOHN was hurt about the head or bleeding; that when he came out of the back room with ACLA's wife he had no pistol in his hand, that he did not ee her strike JOHN. Soon after JOHN was put out Owen got loose and hurried out to find John, and discovered him standing in the road a short dis-tance from the house; that he made inquiry of JOHN about his pistol, and about his injuries, as he was bleeding profusely from a wound or wounds in the fore part of his head. He answered that the men that got his pistol struck him. Soon after he told Owen that the women that got his pistol
