HOW A PIONEER ESTABLISHED AN ORCHARD. Mr. I. W. Rollins removed from New England to Minnesota, in 1855. At that time the locality where he settled was entirely new, there being no land under cultivation in his neighborhood. He did not wait until he could afford to invest in fruit trees before he provided for an orchard, but sowed apple seeds the first spring. In three years he had trees ready to plant in the orchard. and in four years more gathered his first and in four years more gathered his first fruit. He has now a healthy, thrifty or-chard of 300 trees just coming into bear-ing. SALTING STOCK .- A correspondent of the Germantown Telegraph says : "I have used salt for stock a good many years, and have pretty much made up my mind not to give my cattle any more. I have been feeding a little less and less for the past four or five years, and it seems to be a waste of money, inasmuch as my stock is quite as fat and sleek as when I fed salt. I have also been told that salt fed to milch cows would cause butter to churn easier and quicker, but I cannot see the benefit in this case either. "I spoiled a stack of clover by salting

I tried putting it up without salt, and it was much better. "Such is my experience for a good many
