every one who desires successfully to cultivate this valuable fruit. Grape-vines have been common in all parts of our country for many years, but it is only a short time since they have been cultivated so as to produce well ripened fruit. No one can imagine the difference in the fruit of the same vine neglected, and the same highly cultivated, unless he has seen the experiment made. Then who ever contemplates 1, following ; one sends a sample of the arsetting grape-vines time spring with the hope of perfecting good fruit, should resolve to make the necessary preparation of over six pounds of washing soda (sal soda) the soil. It will not do to dig a small pit and 3 pounds of unslacked lime. Stir the in an out of the way place, crowding the mixture well, and let it settle until it is perroots together with no chance to grow and spread. The soil should be made mellow and rich for two feet deep and four to six put 6 pounds of fat with it and boil for two feet wide. The roots of the grape run hours, stirring it most of the time. If it deep and spread as far as the vine runs if the soil is mellow. Dig deep, but set shal-drain off, and add as is wanted to the boil-proctain if the soil is mellow. Dig deep, but set shal-drain off, and add as is wanted to the boillow, is a good rule; but if the land is nat- ing mixture. Its thickness can be tried by urally cold and wet, new land should be prenared. This may be made by well rot-cool. Stir in a handful of salt just before prepared. This may be made by well rotted turf, decayed leaves, or any decomposed matter.
