PLASTER FOR GRASS AND OTHER CROPS.

The following article is from the Utica Herald: Plaster may be sown on meadows and pastures during May. It should have been sown, however, in April, but where it has been neglected, good results will follow by spreading it upon the land now. We suppose in this enlightened age there are few farmers that object to the use of plaster as a top-dressing on grass lands. Occasionally we find persons who do not like to use it, and who are afraid that it exhausts the soil, and will soon run out the farm. Such persons do not read the agricultural papers; they don't believe that any good can come out of plastered meadows, and when statements are made to that effect they are viewed with an incredulous distrust which says, "these are the stories of the agricultural papers and book farmers." Well, the tax gatherer is going to visit these old-fashioned farmers and present an argument that will be likely to be remembered. A kind of waking up argument to produce more grass, more milk, and larger crops. When one finds an absolute necessity of strengthening the face, he begins to look around for means to meet it, and so, perhaps, our increased taxes will serve a good purpose after all, in making us better farmers—in teaching us the necessity of getting better returns, and pushing us forward to devise ways and means to obtain these ends.

Several years ago we remember hearing an old dairy farmer argue the plaster question in this wise. He had a good upland farm, and was well noted for his hay, a large stock, and getting a heavy yield of cheese from his herd. He sowed plaster liberally on meadows and pastures, but was not thoroughly convinced that this top-dressing was an important element in his success. He was inclined to believe that he was wasting money and labor, and so for some years he abandoned the use of plaster on his farm, but the result was very unsatisfactory. His herd dropped off in their product 100 pounds of cheese per cow. The meadows did not yield sufficient hay for wintering stock, and fodder had to be purchased. In fine, said he, I found I had been an old fool, and was glad to get back again in my old tracks.

Now, perhaps, the same result could not be had on all farms, nor in all we have said do we wish to be understood that the farmer to place his whole reliance upon plaster, or that by its use he can get along without other manures, for plaster properly is not a manure in the fullest sense of the word. It does not contain phosphorus, and induces plants to better appropriate fertilizing material, and prevents the waste of matter that can be made available in the processes of vegetation. The action of plaster is not fully understood. It acts partly as a manure, feeding the plants with its sulphuric acid and lime, and partly as a stimulant, hastening by its lime the decay of vegetable matter in the soil. Its constituents are in 100 parts, as follows:—Water, 21; lime, 23; sulphuric acid, 46. It attracts ammonia from the atmosphere, and retains it for the use of vegetation.—This fact is put to a practical use by some observing farmers. We remember hearing at a club meeting of farmers, one of the members remark that he knew of a very shrewd operator in his neighborhood, who, when his neighbors chanced to be spreading manure in fields adjoining his own, always commented on the fact, and in this way was actually benefitted at his neighbor's expense. He said he had frequently noted the effect of such sowings, and it was a convincing argument to him to use plaster immediately after top-dressing his grass lands, since he did not care to be at the labor and expense of enriching his neighbor's fields, by allowing the better portions of the manure to be evaporated and carried in the atmosphere for the use of somebody else.

The effect of plaster on large leaved plants is more marked than on others, hence potatoes, corn, and vines, etc., are greatly benefited by its use. Its influence on the clover is extremely favorable to the growth of that plant, and it is on this account, therefore, which renders it so valuable on dairy farms for the production of milk. In the application of plaster to grass lands there is a difference of opinion among farmers whether it should be applied annually, or every alternate season, or some follow one practice, and some the other. When applied annually, of course a lighter coating can be used. The quantity per acre will depend on the land; if a considerable portion is already in the soil, a less quantity is needed, and the soil may contain so much as not to be affected by its use. It is applied with good results at the rate of a bushel per acre. Some use considerably more, and soon learn to adapt the quality to the particular location so as to produce the best results. We have always found the best results from plaster on grass lands when applied early in the season, so as to get all the benefit of the spring rains, or before grass starts in the spring. When used later it is always best to sow just before a rain.

Some farmers say that its application late on pasture lands, and at a time when it is not followed by rains, but remains on the grass to be partly consumed by stock, is injurious to milk cows. They claim that it induces a complaint known among dairymen as "the milk rot," or a gradual stoppage of the milk, every alternate season, and of course destroying that portion of the bag. We have been accused by dairymen whose herds have been badly afflicted with this trouble, and we do claim to have given the matter special attention, that it was plainly traced to this cause. We give the suggestion for what it is worth without endorsing it, but it would be well to be cautious about sowing plaster at such times, since its consumption by stock can do no good, and may possibly be of injury in the way alluded to.

REMEDY FOR CRACKED HOOPS.—Take a piece of copper four inches long, two inches wide, and drill eight holes, four in each end, so as not to interfere with the crack, and screw it fast to the hoop, crosswise of the crack; then take a hot iron with a sharp edge, and burn the crack at the edge of the hoop, till it goes through to the quick. After this let the hoop run on pasture, and it will begin to heal up in a few weeks.—This remedy I have tried, and it did the work complete, and I worked the horse all the time. Care should be taken to close the crack tight before the plate is fastened on. So says a practical farmer of Pleasant Valley, O.

THEORY OF LAND DRAINAGE

A plant, though spreading its roots to a certain distance all around it in the soil, is stationary, and must have its food brought to it. That is the first main fact on which the need depends for a current of water through the land. Water, a powerful solvent, brings substances out of the air which plants require as food, and these substances increase its power as a solvent of other matters in the soil which the plant also needs as food. Moreover, water brings from the air materials of use in the soil in manufacturing food for the use of plants. On all these grounds, then, it is of importance that water should go through the soil after going through the air. It becomes laden with vegetable food by passing through the air, and it becomes still more laden with vegetable food by passing through the soil, till, when traversing the soil, it passes stationary roots and enters them, and feeds the plants to which they belong. And there are special reasons why rain water should be induced to pass through the soil rather than stagnant on it. In the latter case it is not only useless to the plant, but it is directly mischievous. By evaporation it cools the surface, whereas by percolation through the land it carries the warmer temperature of the surface into the sub-soil; and of what value this is to the growth of crops may be gathered from the experience of the last autumn, which has been so productive of growth in our pastures to us unusually late a season—not so much from the increased temperature of the air during November and December, which has been only about 2 deg. or 3 deg. above the average of the last 30 years, as from the increased temperature of the soil and subsoil at one and two feet deep, which has been 5 deg. and 6 deg. above the average of the past 13 years, during which observations have been kept in London. And not only is it of importance that rain, by passing through the land, should carry the temperature of the surface, warmed by the direct rays of the sun, downwards, rather than, by evaporating from the surface, it should carry the heat away and cool the soil; but the percolation rather than the stagnation of the water is desirable, because in the one case air is made to permeate the land, in the other it is not. The changes which air produces on and in the soil are desirable, and result in the preparation of useful food for plants; while by its exclusion, substances of a poisonous nature, especially where iron and vegetable matter exist together in the soil, are formed.—Morton's Farmer's Calendar.

FOOT ROT IN SHEEP.—A correspondent of the Genesee Farmer, writes to give his own best method of curing foot rot in sheep. John Johnson, to whom we sent the inquiry, kindly replies as follows: "Foot rot in sheep can be thoroughly cured by thorough paring of all the hoof from the diseased part, and applying a salve made of pulverized blue vitriol mixed with lard, butter, or any other grease. If hot weather a little tar added to the mixture is an improvement. Those sheep that are diseased must be separated from the sound at the first dressing, but the sound must have salve applied to their feet, also, some of them will become lame in a short time. The diseased ones should be dressed over again in a few days, say three or four, every foot being closely examined. See that no part of the hoof has been left covering the sore. The sound ones should be dressed over again in about a week from the first dressing, or sooner if any are seen lame. About three dressings in that way will generally effect a cure, if the paring has been thorough. It requires thorough work to eradicate disease, but I know from experience that it can be done in the way I state. But if the land is wet where they pasture, or land that retains water, or near the surface for days after it rains, it is very difficult to keep the sheep sound in the feet."

Mr. Johnson has had some experience in this matter, and we are glad to publish his method of curing this disease. Those who do not preserve the Farmer, should keep this article for further reference.

HILLING POTATOES.—A diversity of opinion exists on this subject, but if cultivators would look at the results, they would doubtless become satisfied as to its propriety and the best time to perform the work. Potatoes when planted, should not be buried so deep as to prevent the young shoots from readily reaching the surface. Yet some depth is required in order that the young tubers may form in the soil, and not on or very near the surface, when they become small and bitter by exposure to the light. Plant, therefore, in rather deep furrows, and cover moderately. In cultivating the soil will work into these furrows and somewhat deepen the covering. The young tubers will form and grow without disturbance. If the earth is now hilled much, new and later tubers will form higher or above the first, producing too many, and irregular in size. The best way is to cover the soil merely flat till the middle or latter part of summer, when the potatoes begin to assume considerable size, and to protrude towards the surface. Now is the time for hilling—which is, in effect, nothing more than making the roots to protect them from light, and to prevent them from becoming green.

We recommend cultivators to try this treatment, the present being a proper time for the first part of the process, namely, the continuance of the flat cultivation.

ARTIFICIAL COMB FOR BEES.—A Swiss invention has been introduced into this country, to aid bees in the formation of the comb. Narrow sheets of wax are impregnated by machinery, so as exactly to represent the dividing wall of comb between the cells. These strips are attached to the top of the empty hive, before the new swarm is put in, thus enabling the bees to go immediately to work, and also in guiding them in making the sheets of comb in the proper direction.

MANURE.—The American Agriculturist says: "Manure is like money. No farmer ever had too much of it who appreciates in what his wealth lies." And it may also be added that like money, the more a man has the easier it is to get more.

HENS EATING EGGS.—Hens may be cured of eating their eggs, by blowing out of the contents of an egg, and filling it with mustard made into a paste. Make a hole in each end, blow the contents out, and when filled paste paper over the hole. One taste of the mustard effects a cure.
