In those localities where animals may be turned to pasture during the last of this month, let the change from dry feed to grass be made with care, and gradually, to avoid the injurious effects of scours.

Growing Corn-

Each locality has its own method of growing corn. The prairies have theirs as distinguished from the East. A few principles which the East has de monstrated and established are these: Plant three and a half to four feet apart, both ways, according to size of corn. Do not scatter, but plant close in the Drop from four to five kernels in a hill.

Thin out to three or four plants. Never hoe or hill corn. Only work out the grass and weeds, and stir the soil. Plow in the Spring, when dry enough and plow sod, always, if possible.

When the corn is planted, drop a handfull of dry hen-manure upon each hill. And now for the reasons for doing all this: Sod turned down will form a rich bed for the corn when the heats of midsummer arrive. By that time it will be manure, or working into manure, heating and enriching the ground.

The fertilizing dust (hen manure) will give the corn a start, which it needs on the raw undersoil of the sod turned up. Besides, it will drive away insects. The sod below, also, will occupy the insects.

Corn close together will grow spindling and tall, but will have few and small ears. A large crop of corn was never known from two and a half feet between hills; and nothing beyond a moderate crop from three feet. Three and a half is the least that corn should be planted, and then the smaller kinds .-Four feet in the rule for large corn. Then four to five stalks can be left in a hill. For, remember that the more and the larger ears will grow if there is plenty of space, not between the stalks, but the hill. Last sum-

Old Orchards.

If there is anything that calls forth an anathema on its owner, it is an old orchard going to decay, and no young trees to suplpy the places of those about to be consignraising a crop of barley, oats, rye, or spring see scores of such orchards, that were ed to oblivion. Here in Onedia county we planted 50 years ago, and now show unmistakable signs of soon passing to that pomological bourne, whence no fruit trees ever returns.

The owners of such orchards generally profess to be men of ordinary common sense; and some of them are considered "sharp" in their dealings, saving every penny that can be secured on honest principles; yet they are so blind to their interests, to the interests of their children -to posterity, as to go down into their cow loses in April, will be equal to the actual loss of so many pounds of butter next summer.

PRUNING TREES.—It is a practice with many farmers to prune their trees during the winter, or in early spring months, and many probably do not stop to consider the results. A little study of tree philosophy will show the cutting away of limbs during the season of repose will give the tree an excess of growth during the coming season, because of the less number of butls to be the season of the less number of butls to be the because of the less number of butls to be supplied early in the season, and therefore their more rapid development and elongation of wood during early summer or the tion of wood during early summer, or the growing season. Trees, therefore, that are wanted to be kept in a vigorous, growing state, it is well to prune at this season; but if bringing em into bearing is the object sought, then the pruning should be delayed until July when the evaporation is great, and the tree is formed its increased size of limb, and storing up food in the bud for mother sea If the water shoots, crossing trunks, son. &c., are taken out, the remaining buds are supplied with food that would have been partially absorbed by those branches cut away; and, hence, are more perfectly ripened and brought to maturity or bearing condition. Cutting away large branches should never be done in the winter season because the wood so left hardens all next to the outer bark, and prevents the forma tion of new layers to cover and shield it. which, if the cut is made early in July, it will do, and in a few years present no ap-between the stalks, but the hill. Last summer we had occasion to tell a man (our neighbor Champion) that he would get a good crop of fodder but no corn. He laughed us in the face; he was going to show us the biggest crop of corn we had ever seen. He had a piece of carrot ground, deep, black and rich. It was unsurpassed; and raised great crops of roots every year. And now he was going to outdo everything in corn. He planted with the rows two feet apart, and the hills fifteen inches. He had the tallest, thickest standing corn we ever saw, but all fodder, no ears.

In having the stalks close in the hill there will be just as much corn and just as much.

IN DENTISTRY.—J. S. SMITH, M. D., would respectfully inform the inhabitants of Bradford County that he is permanantly located in Waverly, N.Y., where he has been in the practice of his profession for the past four years. He would say that from his long and successful practice of 25 years duration, he is familiar with all the different styles of work done in any and all Dental establishments in city or country, and is better prepared than any other Dental operator in the vicinity to do work the best adapted to the many and different cases that present themselves oftentimes to the Dentist, as he understands the art of making his own artificial teeth, and has facilities for doing the same. To those requiring under sets of teeth he would call attention to his new kind of work which consists of porcelain for both plate and teeth, and forming a continuous gam. It is more durable, more natural in appearance, and much better adapted to the gum than any other kind of work. Those in need of the same are invited to call and examine specimens. Teeth filled to last for years and often times for life. Chlorojovn, cther, and "Nutrous oxide" administered with perfect salety, as over four hundred patients within the last four years can testify.
