Farm Implements and Machinery.

Within the past thirty years there has been a great improvement in the construc-tion of farm implements and machinery.— New machines have been invented, all farm implements greatly improved, and there is now no excuse for farmers to be without a good set of tools and all necessary machinery with which to conduct their business. But farmers, as a class, are very slow to avail themselves of the aid afforded by machinery, and here may be found one reason for their want of success. The manufacturer, who should have all his work performed by hand, would at once fall far behind one who used improved machinery-he could not compete with him even for a single month. In a less degree, the same is true of the farmer. It is only the man who seizes upon all the aids afforded by machinery, and placed within his reach, that can stand high and find the greatest amount of pleasure and profit in his department of labor. Machinery costs something to be sure, but its use enables the farmer to perform his work easier and better, and either saves the employment of much hired help, or enables him to conduct a much larger business. But it is not only important to have machinery, but also to get the best in the mar-There is so many different patterns of all kinds of machines, that it is often difficult to tell which will give the best satisfaction. It will pay to inquire of farmers who have used machines, how they like them, and also to examine their work. On no account, buy what you know, or have good reason to believe, is a second rate machine, even though you can buy it cheap. Get those machines, and only those which are likely not only to do the work well, but roots just above the surface, which go out and anchor it all around. I have seen a also to prove durable. If you need any machines this season, we

When it is hilled it will tern that suits you, and that has a good reputation. If you do this you will be sure of having your machines when you want to ing rots but neither the first nor the sec use them, while if you wait to find out which is the successful competitors, there will be such a demand for them you may in the such a demand for them you may fail to obtain one. Next in importance of obtaining good implements comes the proper care of them. We know farmers who let their plows, wagons, horse-rakes and mowing machines stand out doors all win This not only looks slovenly, but is decidedly unprofitable. A wagon or ma-chine is not injured as much by decent use in three years as by standing out in the storms of one winter. When not in use, all horse learns the greater part of his good, or farming tools ought to be kept under cover. farming tools ought to be kept under cover.

They should be repaired as soon as they for this reason, he should be well broke beget out of order; a little attention at the fore he arrives at that age. At the age of right time is cheaper and pleasanter than a one month, put on a leather, or web halter, break down when you are in a hurry. Mow-without the hitching strap, and let it remain break down when you are in a hurry. Mowing machines, wagons and carts, when used ought to be often oiled, and always kept from the rain. And now, if you have, or buy good tools, and take good care of them, you will be in a condition to make your labor easy, pleasant and profitable.

The Farmers Mutual Fire Insurance Company of Middle Pennsylvania was incorporated by the Pennsylvania Legislature, in the year 1859, for the Mutual Insurance of Country property only, and immediately thereafter commenced its operations on that principle, which has been strictly adhered to since.

All losses have been promptly paid out of the Premisms collected on application for insurance without making any assessments.

The Insurance of Country property only, the low rates are deemed a sufficient recommendation of the Parmers Mutual Fire Insurance, and the prompt payment of losses are deemed a sufficient recommendation of the Parmers Mutual Fire Insurance Company of Middle Penns, Ivania, to all owners of sale class country property.
