A Burring March—a correspondent relates the following laughable story:
 I knew a darkey once, who, like the most of his race, was industrious and economical. The result was that he owned a "house and lot," near a little village in western Pennsylvania. He concluded that it would do him no harm to have some animals on it and determined to "stock" it. His first acquisition was an old sheep of the male persuasion which he was very fond of. He spent many leisure moments playing with the animal, and teaching it various tricks. His chief amusement was to get down on all fours and nod defiance at the animal. Seeing which, the latter would make a savage plunge at him, and attempt to try whose head was the hardest. (It was a question.) But as the savage creature came forward like a battering ram, the darkey would incline his head suddenly and drop his face upon the earth. The consequence was, that the sheep, missing his mark, would tumble over a rod of two. One day the fellow called a couple of passing neighbors to witness his achievement. They came to the fence and looked over with big eyes down on his hands and knees as usual, and began to nod at his property. The sheep did not seem to see him at first, but presently raised its head from the grass on which it was grazing, and frowned upon him.
 "Oh, jee, watch him now!" said Sambo, with a grin.
 "Old bucky made a rush, as was his wont, and Sambo suddenly dropped his face to the ground. But as the fiend would have it, his flat nose came in contact with a small sharp snag he had not observed before, and he was jerked back just in time to receive the full shock of the sheep's head between his own nose and the wool. There was such a rolling and tumbling over and over for the next quarter of a minute, that the neighbors could not tell which was the sheep and which was the darkey. They soon got separated, though, and the darkey got slowly up, grinning foolishly, and said:
 "Pon my word, he nebber done dat afore! Gitting too smart for dis nigger! I see gwine to stop foolin' wid sich a fellow as dat!"
 There was plenty of mutton in the neighborhood now, but the sheep was never seen again.
