THE STATE COMMITTEE AND THE

The Address of the Union State Central Committee will be found on our outside. We commend its state ments to the attention of every can currences of the past few years have shown how vitally important it is to the welfare of the country to have pon the bench men imbued with the oftiest patriotism, and devoted wholly and disinterestedly to the interests of the Nation. The record of Judge SHARSWOOD, here spread before the public, proves him to be an unsafe man for the high position for which he has been named, because he entertains political views dangerous in their teachings, and calculated in their practical operations to hazard for good, in the national Legislature." the peace of the country, and the statility of our institutions.

In this connection, we feel called upon to express our disapprobation of an article in the New York Tribune, North Carolina have considerable difficulty commenting upon the address of the Republican State Committee. We have had so much occasion, lately, to find fault with the manifestoes and comments of the Tribune. that it is with reluctance that we notice its dncalled-for interference in the politics noment, except as it develops the

Yet this is what the Tribune demands of the Republicans of Pennsylvania. We hold that a Judge is "accountable to a political party for his construction of the law" if such an accountability can possibly exist—but particularly is he accountable to the people, when his decisions are framed for the purpose of subverting the government. The people of Pennsylvania will not tolerate disloyalty upon the bench, and they will hold Judges responsible for their decisions, when those decisions are idverse to the interests and safety of the country, despite the advice of the Tribune. That journal will find pion and apologist for Traitors. REPRESENTATIVES IN CONGRESS. The Montour American has an able article upon the subject of continuing Representa tives in Congress, in which is correctly stated the preponderating influence exerted by those States and Districts which have sent able men to Congress and kept them there until their experience and influence became valuable. The people of this district have for some time appreciated and acted upon this fact, by re-electing Judge WILMOT and Hon. G. A. GROW, term after term, until the XIIth District acquired a wider and better field for its labors

than its role of becoming the cham-

If he possessed the elements of statesmanship, the time was too short for their development. And thus, no sooner had he began to gather some of the power, and to wield some of the inuence that belongs to the position, than he must give place to a novice; because others are supposed to have local or personal claims, under the rule of "rotation in office." Just as the growing statesman, by application and more enlarged experince, reaches the threshold of usefulness, he must step aside for a new man, who ha all to learn; and even if he has capacity, he too, in a short time, must yield to an SOUTH OREEK—Geo Dunham jr., H C Fast other apprentice. How are these inexperithe veterans who are familiar with all that pertains to national legislation, and who wield a corresponding power, not only in Congress, but throughout the country and the world? Let those who have given proof of the requisite qualifications, be returned again and again, until they ripen into the full stature of American statesmen; not for their benefit, but for the public good. By so doing, the South has been enabled through a handful of men, to wield a political power, more potent than all the hosts of the North. Not on account of any natural superiority, as they vainly assume; but because the North-has never been aroused, or has been paralyzed as soon as aroused, through the specious fallacy of "rotation in office," and perhaps the morbid dread of an official aristocracy. . If, therefore, we would have such national legislation, as will foster the interests of Pennsylvania, and if we would contribute our full share to the political power and influence of the nation, it is time for us to did and unprejudiced voter.
