Agricultural.

Rye as a Farm Crop.

This grain is little cultivated in regions well adapted to those more valuable and of more general use. It belongs more properly to cold, heavy, highlands, where Indian corn is in yearly danger from frost at both ends of the season, and grass is the main crop. If grown exclusively for the grain it is an unpleasant and somewhat expensive crop to handle, on account of the bulkiness of the straw, and the grain itself does not bring a comparatively high price in the market. But the straw is far more valuable than that of any of the cereals. The farmer has many uses for it. For thatching purposes it excels, and a roof of this material well put on, will last twenty-five or thirty years. Why should not farmers use straw roofs in preference to expensive ones, or humbugging patent rights? Rye straw is excellent for cutting and mixing with more nutritious food, and for many purposes around the farm it is convenient. It makes cheap and good protection to fruit trees. But the paper makers will pay the most money for it, and farmers will find it profitable to grow rye straw to supply their demands wherever paper mills are in operation within convenient distances. The Utica Herald gives some information respecting the value of rye straw in the central part of this state, which we copy:

"The making of white print paper from rye straw was commenced at Fort Edward, N. Y., in 1857. At that time, rye straw could not be procured in sufficient quantities to keep one mill running. It takes two tons of straw for one of paper. The farmers began to grow the crop in Washington and Saratoga counties, and now ten large mills are in operation, using in the aggregate 15,000 tons annually. The straw at these mills, for the past five years, has averaged less that $15 per ton, and $225,000 are brought into these counties for straw alone. Then there is the value of the grain. It was a poor farming district before the introduction of rye growing, and now the farmers are making good incomes. The mills at Herkimer are now using six tons of rye straw per day. Matthew Smith of Frankfort, grew last year on an acre of land and from two bushels of sowing, 47 bushels of rye, for which he got $1 20 per bushel, and two tons of straw which were sold at $24.—This makes $80 40 as the yield from one acre, which may be considered a very profitable crop. Probably the farmers of Herkimer would find it to their advantage to grow rye in connection with the dairy. The Herkimer mills are using 2,000 tons of straw annually, and are forced to get their supply from Schenectady. It comes in bales. Rye straw is worth from $24 to $30 per ton in New York city, and is of ready sale. All the mills East pay $20 per ton for it. The business is confined to the States of New York, Massachusetts, Pennsylvania, Maryland, Delaware and Illinois. Nine-tenths of the printing paper made of straw is produced in New York."

Doctoring Horses.

There are certain practices with horses that are sick, which are popular, certainly, but are just as certainly not only unfeeling but absolutely cruel. In the first place, the probability is that not more than one horse in ten would be sick in the whole course of his life, unless through some carelessness, some want of knowledge, or some cruelty of man. And yet, when sick, how often it is that some terrible dose is administered, such as a pint of gin or rum, a half pint of castor oil in spirits of turpentine, or a tremendous "ball of aloes," to say nothing of the potent caustics, such as bichloride of mercury, arsenic, nitrate of silver, sulphate of copper, &c., &c.,

"The horse's body," it is said, "does not quickly respond to opening medicine, but the action, once elicited, is not invariably easy to command. The animal's life is frequently a prey to a potent purgative. The veterinarian knows that the different creatures vary much in their capacity of swallowing amounts of aloes; that the dose which will not move one quadruped may destroy the inhabitant of the next stall. One creature will imbibe two ounces of the drug without marked effect, another will be shaken by the action of less than half an ounce of the same preparation."

This practice is all wrong, and should never be allowed by owners of horses. There can be no doubt that many valuable animals are lost by such desperate prescriptions.

Among the first evils practised is that of using the horse too soon.—Few of them are now permitted to grow until their sinews and muscles are matured. A frequent, but light and gentle use of young horses is undoubtedly good for them; but one fatigue, or strain, may affect their whole life. Too often the impatience of gain seizes the colt and subjects him to long travel or hard labor, which brings on one of the countless diseases or lamenesses to which he is liable, and from which he never fully recovers.

Because the horse can endure, and will patiently endure, a vast amount of hard labor, neglect and even cruel treatment, only a few persons reflect upon the marvelous delicacy of his construction. If they would only study this more, they would neglect, or over-drive, or overload the animal less.

Half or more of all our horses are mean in spirit and form. They come from old and diseased animals to begin with; animals loaded with quarter-cracks, spavin, bots, rheumatism, ring-bone, founder, grease, string-halt, and forty other things, and with these they possess some other faults, which makes them anything but safe and agreeable—such as stumbling, running, and shying, though the latter may be occasioned by the unnecessary and senseless use of blinders.—It is time a reformation were commenced.—N. E. Farmer.

HEARTS, the best card in the chance game of matrimony; sometimes overcome by diamonds and knaves; often won by tricks, and occasionally treated in a shuffling manner, and then cut altogether.

"THAT, madam, why do you name your old hen Macduff?" "Because, sir, I want her to lay on."

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS EXPERIENCE IN DENTISTRY.

J. M. SMITH, M. D., would respectfully inform the inhabitants of Bradford County that he is permanently located in Waverly, N. Y., where he has been in the practice of his profession for the past four years. He would say that from his long and successful practice of 25 years duration he is familiar with all the different styles of work done in any and all Dental Establishments in city or country, and is better prepared than any other Dental operator in the vicinity to do work the best adapted to the many and different cases that present themselves oftentimes to the Dentist, as he understands the art of making his own artificial teeth, and has facilities for doing the same. To those requiring under sets of teeth he would call attention to his new kind of work which consists of porcelain for both plate and teeth, and forming a continuous gum. It is more durable, more natural in appearance, and much better adapted to the gum than any other kind of work. Those in need of the same are invited to call and examine specimens. Teeth filled to last for years and oftentimes for life.—Chloroform, Ether, and "Nitrous Oxide" administered with perfect safety, as over four hundred patients within the last four years can testify.

I will be in Towanda from the 15th to 30th of every month, at the office of W. K. TAYLOR, (formerly occupied by Dr. O. H. Woodruff.)—Having made arrangements with Mr. Taylor, I am prepared to do all work in the very best style, at his office.

April 22, 1867.

DR. VANBUSKIRK, OPERATIVE AND MECHANICAL DENTIST, has opened rooms in the Beidleman Block, directly opposite the Means House, for the practice of his profession, and is prepared at all times to perform all operations belonging to Dentistry. The different kinds of Plate Work, will be recommended according to their honest merits. Natural Teeth filled and restored to their original beauty, with material the best adapted to each individual case. The greatest care and attention will be given to the correction of irregularities and the extraction of Teeth. In this Department of practice the Doctor would say he claims an amount of skill and experience equal to that possessed by any one in this or any other country. Teeth will be extracted without pain, by the use of gas, chloroform or ether, and in a manner very satisfactory to patients, as the testimony of hundreds can be shown. Please call and examine specimens of our work, and be assured of the correctness of the statements. Advice and consultation will be cheerfully and gratuitously given.

Towanda June 6. 1867.—6m.
