NEW INVENTION IN PIANOS!

The MATHUSHEK PIANOS, recently invented by Mr. Frederick Mathushek (author of the principal improvements in planos), differ from all others in having the strings cross the frame in both directions. This equalizes the strain upon the frame, and insures greater durability and lor ger continuance in tune than can be had by any other method. The Bridge, also, runs the whole length of the sounding-board, an entirely new feature, which gives greater power and better tone than is found in any other instruments.

tirely new feature, which gives greater power and better tone than is found in any other instruments.

The smallest size square, the Colibri, four string strings and better tone than is found in any other instruments.

The smallest size square, the Colibri, four feet aine inches long, seven octaves, equals in all respects the full size of other makers; while the full size, the Orchestral, is equal to any Concert Grand.

Franz Schlouter, the eminent pianist, says.

"The Colibri I consider the chef d'ouvre in the musical world. Its tone is not equalled by the largest sized square or upright pianos of any guillided testinony to the great saperiority of the Mathushek Pianos over all others." Many other testimonials, equally strong, have been irrely given. Please call and examine, or send for descriptive circular.
