President Johnson has sent into the from the office of Secretary of War. than we have been accustomed to explausible, ingenious and able. We are free to say that in some respects it damages Mr. Stanton's case, and unire an explanation We will refer to two points in illustration of what we mean. The President says that when the Tenure of Office bill was before the Cabinet, Mr. STANTON officially advised him that it was unconstitutional, and that it was his "duty to defend the power of the President from usurpation and veto the bill." He did so, and yet under the very terms of this act Stanton refused to resign his office when called upon to do so. To be sure, he had the right commenced in Richmond. Virginia, on the to do it, but we do not exactly understand the justification of his action. Again, the President says that the reconstruction policy for which his administration has been so vehemently assailed was not of his framing: that he did not originate it; that he found it awaiting his action when he ncceeded to the Presidency, having been prepared for Mr. Lincoln by Mr. STANTON, who has since testified before a Congressional committee that he had no doubt of the President's Pacifid Railroad, is a subject of much interright and power to carry it out. It est, and additional legislation in reference is impossible to read this without being again puzzled to understand Mr. STANTON'S COURSE. It is true that after the plan had been seen in its practical workings, and the persistent malignity of the rebels had so completely perverted it into an engine of oppression, he may have changed his

From Washington:

Special Correspondence of the REPORTER WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 20, 1867.

Since I wrote, two weeks ago, many im portant measures have been introduced and naterial interest have passed both Houses and are in the hands of the President. On Monday, the 9th inst., Senate Bill No. the laws relating to the District of Columbia or in the charter or ordinances of the cities of Washington and Georgetown, and operates as a limitation on the right of any elector to hold any office and to be selected and to serve as a juror, be repealed; and it is declared unlawful for any person or officer fertile, growing, populous district, of to enforce or attempt to enforce such limieasy access, by railway, from every tation after the passage of this act. The her councils. The Hon. G. A. Grow seems part of the State, and that Bradford President's veto of this bill is expected to to be preferred by most Pennsylvania Remorrow, when the bill will be passed by both become a law.

The House on the 7th inst. passed House Bill No. 213, as reported by Gen. SCHENCE, Chairman of the Ways and Means Committiee, "An act to suspend the further reducobjection to its being the site of such cessible from the south as though it 12, 1866, as authorizes "the Secretary of entirely free from these entangling alliances, were more southern, and will be more the Treasury to retire United States notes is pointed to as the most available candidate narily disposed of, a majority of the Republican members who cast their vote, voting with the democrats against impeachment. The views of these Republicans are represented by the minority report of the chairman of the Judiciary Committee, Mr. James F. Wilson, while the views of the democrats are represented by the minority report of Manuall and Eldridge. The majority report submitted by Mr. Boutwell, repre sents the views of the fifty-seven republicans who voted in favor of impeachment In this connection it is worthy of note that Hon. Geo. W. Woodward, late Chief. his position, but without effect. Upon the question of reconstruction, see no disposition on the part of the republican majority to recede from their position. The question of finance is the all-absorbing question. Retrenchment is the watchword. Legislation looking to the curtailment of expenditures in every department of the government, will be pushed through during the present session.

The House by a Resolution has ordered the Committee of Ways and Means to prepare and have printed, one thousand copies of the loan laws, giving the several acts creating the several loans, bound in one cover, which will be a great convenience to persons wishing to become familiar with horribly mutilated bodies still remain those laws.

The Committee of Ways and Means, learn, instructed Mr. Hoopen, of Mass., yesterday, to report a bill, as follows: "Be it exected itc., That all United States otes and National Bank notes shall be sub-ect to taxation by or under State authority,

Great men are sometimes mistaken; notwithstanding the proposition was denounced as "absurd and ridiculous," by one of the greatest Senators of that age, the early completion of the road is destined to become a fixed fact, and the Atlantic and

Pacific States are to be bound by bands of iron within the next three years. The correspondence sent to the House yesterday by General GRANT, in response their utmost capacity, and since it referred to the appropriate Committees, in to a resolution of inquiry, contains the both branches of Congress, and several of letter of General Gaurt to the President; of Aug. 1, 1867, upon the subject of the re-moval of Secretary Szanzon, and General PHIL SHERIDAN, marked [Private.] The 141, "An act for the better security of equal reading, of this noble and manly protest rights in the District of Columbia," was pas- against the infliction of a great wrong sed finally and sent to the President on the about to be committed by President Jour-10th, but he still holds it. Mr. Grow being accessible from the cast and west, by to an amount not exceeding $4,000,000 in to be presented by Pennsylvania. When will Pennsylvania Republicans learn that the honor of securing this nomination for one of her own citizens, can only be secured by united action? In casting about to find a candidate to run as the nominee of the democracy against General Grant, the democratic leaders are making an effort to sufficiently demoralize General HANCOCK to make him answer their purpose. He may be taken as their standard-bearer, in which case, it would be wise for the Republicans to take a Pennsylvanian for the Vice-Presidency, in order that Pennsylvania may be certain for the republican

For myself, I have no doubt that the dem ocratic leaders will drop General HANCOCK when they come to remember that he sat as one of the military commission which tried and convicted the assassination conspirators, for the death of President Lincoln. Very Respectfully,
