DERRIE was a darling and affectional daughter, an idolized sister and a beloved friend. Her generous sympathies, winsome ways, and great maturity of judgment, had endeared her to a large circle of friends, whose grief at her sudden and wholly unexpected death would be inconsolable but for the peculiar glory of chris- customers in giving them as heretotian triumph which attended her last moments, giving assurance that what to them is bitter loss, to her is unspeakable gain. After distributing some little keepsakes and taking most affectionate leave of mother, sister, brother, pastor, and friendsberself the only tearless person in the house—she sweetly fell asleep in Jesus, joyously and distinctly uttering such words as these: "I love you all-I love every body-I love Jesus, yes, I do-I see him sitting on his Father's throne—Jesus smiles and loves me too. Hallelujah! I see papa (who went to glory Aug. 5, 1859,) reaching out his arms for me. Good bye! Good bye!" Good bye, precious one, till the norning of the first resurrection.

They are more early understood and used, and less liable to derangement, than other machines.
They are capable of executing perfect, without change of adjustment, a much greater variety of work than other machines.
The stitch made by these machines is much more firm, elistic, and durable, especially upon articles which require to be washed and brosed, than any other stitch.
This stitch, owing to the manner in which the under thread is unwrought, is much the most plump and beautiful in use, and retains this plumpness and beauty, even upon articles frequently washed and ironed, until they are worn out. worn out.
