

News from all Nations.

There were never so many Indians at the Hardings (Pa.) hospital as now, and they continue to come at the rate of one a day.

A party of illicit distillers in East Tennessee caught a United States soldier the other day and hung him.

The New Orleans' Republican prints a huge carpet-hat at the head of its columns. It is not afraid of the term.

The farmers in Montana are taking buffalo calves, with the expectation of training them to do the work of oxen.

The harvest in Morocco is a failure and the people are dying of hunger. The situation is even worse than that of Algeria.

The discovery of a new rifle ball, "warranted to pierce through any defense at present known," is announced in Paris.

It is reported that an alarming deficit will be shown in the Post Office Department, for the fiscal year which ended June 30th, no less than $6,000,000. These figures are startling.

Mr. Jay Gould was, on Thursday last, elected President of the Erie Railway Company, in place of John E. Ridgely, resigned.

The Miller patent for making paper from wood has been extended seven years.

Ex Governor Cox, of Ohio, still refuses to accept the office of commissioner of internal revenue.

The owner of the Granite Mills, at Baltimore, says his loss by the flood is $250,000.

A gold fish measuring 13 inches in length and 7 in breadth was recently caught in the Schuylkill near Philadelphia.

A seven years old boy at Bellows Falls, Vt., fell into a well and was rescued after being seventeen minutes in the water.

Chas. E. Breker, keeper of a Zoological Garden, Philadelphia, was, on Tuesday last, bitten by one of his rattle snakes and died in 30 minutes notwithstanding the application of remedies.

Mr. Johnson Gillam, Jr., was murdered in Shrewsbury, Vt., on Saturday last. Murders are very rare in Vermont, and they do not hang people there.

Hector Schaefer, a German, has been arrested at Pateron, New York, charged with the murder of his master and his son, and is held in Hope Dornstadt, while in their employ.

The locomotive, Augusta, exploded at Georgetown, destroying the engine house and mortally wounding a man at work in an adjoining field.

General Howard, of the Freedmen's Bureau, addressed a large meeting at Richmond, on the 4th instant.

Judge William Dock, a prominent and much respected citizen of Harrisburg, died on Tuesday evening.

Wendell Phillips wants legislative bodies made larger in order to prevent corruption. We think he is right.

Mrs. Elizabeth Garman, of New York, went to sleep in a bed close to a second story window. She rolled over, rolled out and was badly hurt.

The Atlantic cable, of 1866, has ceased to work. It is supposed to have been injured by an iceberg near Newfoundland.

It is estimated that $4,000,000 worth of lumber has been consumed by fire in the Canada forests this season.

One of the teachers in Lowell, Mass., has been over thirty years in the service, and another twenty-six.

During the storm in Chicago on Thursday last, three persons in different parts of the city were killed by lightning. Several buildings were struck.

The Senate of Georgia sit in secret session and no reporter is admitted, neither is a member allowed to divulge the business of the body!

Efforts have been renewed to raise the British sleep-of-war Hescher, which sank in Long Island Sound in November, 1780, with 900,000 guineas and 80 American prisoners on board.

There is a very ill feeling between the people and the police of Atlanta. The people are rebel, the police Union.

The Legislature of Georgia defeated a resolution to authorize the committee to employ female clerks.

The National Temperance Convention passed strong resolutions in favor of entire prohibition of the liquor traffic.

The steamer Virginia, Glyde, built as a steamship, was started during the war, has been sold for $10,000.

The President has officially proclaimed the ratification of the treaty between this country and Prussia, relating to citizens.

The Republican National Executive Committee, and Republican Central Committee are in session at the Fifth Avenue Hotel.

Two and a-half million of acres more of corn this year, than last, have been planted in the rebel States, and the condition is generally good.

Wheat turns out over an average crop, except in Vermont, Connecticut, Georgia, Alabama, Mississippi, Florida, Texas and Nebraska.

Texas has 33 per cent more of cotton acreage this year than last. The other cotton states fell behind last year.

A destructive fire visited Oil City on Friday, destroying both sides of Main street from the post office to the national hotel. Two hotels were destroyed. Damage $150,000.

The residence, barns, a valuable horse, twenty tons of hay, farming implements, etc., of A. L. Wait, were burned at Lowell, Mass., on the 23rd inst. Loss $150,000; insured $40,000.

A dwelling house on Walnut street, Rochester, owned and occupied by a man named Thomas Hammond, was destroyed by fire Monday night, and a son of Mr. Hammond, aged six years, perished in the flames.

Mary Wetmore, of Frankfort, Kentucky, N. Y., was shot on the canal boat C. E. Daniels, at Buffalo, on Wednesday evening by her husband, Miford H. Wetmore, from whom she had applied for a divorce. Mr. Wetmore has been committed for trial for assault with intent to kill. The woman will probably recover.

General Grant has recommended the remission of the remainder of the sentences and the release from imprisonment of all persons now in confinement under sentences of military commissions, arranged under the reconstruction acts of Congress in the State in which said acts have been committed for trial for assault with intent to kill. The woman will probably recover.

Gen. Rosencrans is in Chicago, and says he "makes his hands of the Democratic Convention."

Bradford Reporter.

Towanda, Thursday, Aug. 13, 1868.

National Republican Nomination.

FOR PRESIDENT

GEN. ULYSSES S. GRANT.

FOR VICE PRESIDENT

HON. SCHUYLER COLFAX.

FOR AMERICAN GENERAL

John F. Hartwick, of Montgomery Co.

FOR CONFEDERATE GENERAL

Col. Jacob M. Campbell, of Cambria Co.

DEATH OF HON. THADDEUS STEVENS.

Hon. Thaddeus Stevens died at his residence on Capitol Hill, Washington, Tuesday evening, at 12 o'clock.

The telegram announcing his decease says that he passed away quietly and calmly, as though falling asleep.

The death of Mr. Stevens, though for some time past, will strike the country with profound grief. He has occupied a prominent position, and by his ability and fearlessness has commanded the respect of all parties. His views on the bond question has raised up considerable opposition to him in Lancaster county, but he would unquestionably have been returned to Congress. In his death, the Radical party loses an able and eloquent advocate.

SEYMOUR'S LETTER OF ACCEPTANCE.

The Miller patent for making paper from wood has been extended seven years.

Ex Governor Cox, of Ohio, still refuses to accept the office of commissioner of internal revenue.

The owner of the Granite Mills, at Baltimore, says his loss by the flood is $250,000.

A gold fish measuring 13 inches in length and 7 in breadth was recently caught in the Schuylkill near Philadelphia.

A seven years old boy at Bellows Falls, Vt., fell into a well and was rescued after being seventeen minutes in the water.

Chas. E. Breker, keeper of a Zoological Garden, Philadelphia, was, on Tuesday last, bitten by one of his rattle snakes and died in 30 minutes notwithstanding the application of remedies.

Mr. Johnson Gillam, Jr., was murdered in Shrewsbury, Vt., on Saturday last. Murders are very rare in Vermont, and they do not hang people there.

Hector Schaefer, a German, has been arrested at Pateron, New York, charged with the murder of his master and his son, and is held in Hope Dornstadt, while in their employ.

The locomotive, Augusta, exploded at Georgetown, destroying the engine house and mortally wounding a man at work in an adjoining field.

General Howard, of the Freedmen's Bureau, addressed a large meeting at Richmond, on the 4th instant.

Judge William Dock, a prominent and much respected citizen of Harrisburg, died on Tuesday evening.

Wendell Phillips wants legislative bodies made larger in order to prevent corruption. We think he is right.

Mrs. Elizabeth Garman, of New York, went to sleep in a bed close to a second story window. She rolled over, rolled out and was badly hurt.

The Atlantic cable, of 1866, has ceased to work. It is supposed to have been injured by an iceberg near Newfoundland.

It is estimated that $4,000,000 worth of lumber has been consumed by fire in the Canada forests this season.

One of the teachers in Lowell, Mass., has been over thirty years in the service, and another twenty-six.

During the storm in Chicago on Thursday last, three persons in different parts of the city were killed by lightning. Several buildings were struck.

The Senate of Georgia sit in secret session and no reporter is admitted, neither is a member allowed to divulge the business of the body!

Efforts have been renewed to raise the British sleep-of-war Hescher, which sank in Long Island Sound in November, 1780, with 900,000 guineas and 80 American prisoners on board.

There is a very ill feeling between the people and the police of Atlanta. The people are rebel, the police Union.

The Legislature of Georgia defeated a resolution to authorize the committee to employ female clerks.

The National Temperance Convention passed strong resolutions in favor of entire prohibition of the liquor traffic.

The steamer Virginia, Glyde, built as a steamship, was started during the war, has been sold for $10,000.

The President has officially proclaimed the ratification of the treaty between this country and Prussia, relating to citizens.

The Republican National Executive Committee, and Republican Central Committee are in session at the Fifth Avenue Hotel.

Two and a-half million of acres more of corn this year, than last, have been planted in the rebel States, and the condition is generally good.

Wheat turns out over an average crop, except in Vermont, Connecticut, Georgia, Alabama, Mississippi, Florida, Texas and Nebraska.

Texas has 33 per cent more of cotton acreage this year than last. The other cotton states fell behind last year.

A destructive fire visited Oil City on Friday, destroying both sides of Main street from the post office to the national hotel. Two hotels were destroyed. Damage $150,000.

The residence, barns, a valuable horse, twenty tons of hay, farming implements, etc., of A. L. Wait, were burned at Lowell, Mass., on the 23rd inst. Loss $150,000; insured $40,000.

A dwelling house on Walnut street, Rochester, owned and occupied by a man named Thomas Hammond, was destroyed by fire Monday night, and a son of Mr. Hammond, aged six years, perished in the flames.

Mary Wetmore, of Frankfort, Kentucky, N. Y., was shot on the canal boat C. E. Daniels, at Buffalo, on Wednesday evening by her husband, Miford H. Wetmore, from whom she had applied for a divorce. Mr. Wetmore has been committed for trial for assault with intent to kill. The woman will probably recover.

General Grant has recommended the remission of the remainder of the sentences and the release from imprisonment of all persons now in confinement under sentences of military commissions, arranged under the reconstruction acts of Congress in the State in which said acts have been committed for trial for assault with intent to kill. The woman will probably recover.

Gen. Rosencrans is in Chicago, and says he "makes his hands of the Democratic Convention."

own candidates. Nor can he find time to remember that down to the enactment of the reconstruction laws, the people of the South were prevented by the Federal government from voting. The Federal government, however, has not yet given up the idea of giving every fair-minded man a

"While we have not the remotest idea of mixing in the local nominations for candidates for Senators and Representatives in the several counties of this State, yet we deem it our duty to enter our solemn protest against the means used to effect and maintain the Radical representation of the people by the election of white and black members of Congress.

But then there is some difficulty in the way of doing it. Blair, who demands peace, order and the return to industrial pursuits, and says so in his own letter. But he was anticipated by Grant, when he wrote "Let us have peace," and after vain efforts by the Democratic press to ridicule this phrase, Seymour has deemed it advisable to appropriate the sentiments of the Radical party.

But then there is some difficulty in the way of doing it. Blair, who demands peace, order and the return to industrial pursuits, and says so in his own letter. But he was anticipated by Grant, when he wrote "Let us have peace," and after vain efforts by the Democratic press to ridicule this phrase, Seymour has deemed it advisable to appropriate the sentiments of the Radical party.

But then there is some difficulty in the way of doing it. Blair, who demands peace, order and the return to industrial pursuits, and says so in his own letter. But he was anticipated by Grant, when he wrote "Let us have peace," and after vain efforts by the Democratic press to ridicule this phrase, Seymour has deemed it advisable to appropriate the sentiments of the Radical party.

But then there is some difficulty in the way of doing it. Blair, who demands peace, order and the return to industrial pursuits, and says so in his own letter. But he was anticipated by Grant, when he wrote "Let us have peace," and after vain efforts by the Democratic press to ridicule this phrase, Seymour has deemed it advisable to appropriate the sentiments of the Radical party.

But then there is some difficulty in the way of doing it. Blair, who demands peace, order and the return to industrial pursuits, and says so in his own letter. But he was anticipated by Grant, when he wrote "Let us have peace," and after vain efforts by the Democratic press to ridicule this phrase, Seymour has deemed it advisable to appropriate the sentiments of the Radical party.

But then there is some difficulty in the way of doing it. Blair, who demands peace, order and the return to industrial pursuits, and says so in his own letter. But he was anticipated by Grant, when he wrote "Let us have peace," and after vain efforts by the Democratic press to ridicule this phrase, Seymour has deemed it advisable to appropriate the sentiments of the Radical party.

But then there is some difficulty in the way of doing it. Blair, who demands peace, order and the return to industrial pursuits, and says so in his own letter. But he was anticipated by Grant, when he wrote "Let us have peace," and after vain efforts by the Democratic press to ridicule this phrase, Seymour has deemed it advisable to appropriate the sentiments of the Radical party.

But then there is some difficulty in the way of doing it. Blair, who demands peace, order and the return to industrial pursuits, and says so in his own letter. But he was anticipated by Grant, when he wrote "Let us have peace," and after vain efforts by the Democratic press to ridicule this phrase, Seymour has deemed it advisable to appropriate the sentiments of the Radical party.

But then there is some difficulty in the way of doing it. Blair, who demands peace, order and the return to industrial pursuits, and says so in his own letter. But he was anticipated by Grant, when he wrote "Let us have peace," and after vain efforts by the Democratic press to ridicule this phrase, Seymour has deemed it advisable to appropriate the sentiments of the Radical party.

But then there is some difficulty in the way of doing it. Blair, who demands peace, order and the return to industrial pursuits, and says so in his own letter. But he was anticipated by Grant, when he wrote "Let us have peace," and after vain efforts by the Democratic press to ridicule this phrase, Seymour has deemed it advisable to appropriate the sentiments of the Radical party.

But then there is some difficulty in the way of doing it. Blair, who demands peace, order and the return to industrial pursuits, and says so in his own letter. But he was anticipated by Grant, when he wrote "Let us have peace," and after vain efforts by the Democratic press to ridicule this phrase, Seymour has deemed it advisable to appropriate the sentiments of the Radical party.

But then there is some difficulty in the way of doing it. Blair, who demands peace, order and the return to industrial pursuits, and says so in his own letter. But he was anticipated by Grant, when he wrote "Let us have peace," and after vain efforts by the Democratic press to ridicule this phrase, Seymour has deemed it advisable to appropriate the sentiments of the Radical party.

But then there is some difficulty in the way of doing it. Blair, who demands peace, order and the return to industrial pursuits, and says so in his own letter. But he was anticipated by Grant, when he wrote "Let us have peace," and after vain efforts by the Democratic press to ridicule this phrase, Seymour has deemed it advisable to appropriate the sentiments of the Radical party.

But then there is some difficulty in the way of doing it. Blair, who demands peace, order and the return to industrial pursuits, and says so in his own letter. But he was anticipated by Grant, when he wrote "Let us have peace," and after vain efforts by the Democratic press to ridicule this phrase, Seymour has deemed it advisable to appropriate the sentiments of the Radical party.

But then there is some difficulty in the way of doing it. Blair, who demands peace, order and the return to industrial pursuits, and says so in his own letter. But he was anticipated by Grant, when he wrote "Let us have peace," and after vain efforts by the Democratic press to ridicule this phrase, Seymour has deemed it advisable to appropriate the sentiments of the Radical party.

But then there is some difficulty in the way of doing it. Blair, who demands peace, order and the return to industrial pursuits, and says so in his own letter. But he was anticipated by Grant, when he wrote "Let us have peace," and after vain efforts by the Democratic press to ridicule this phrase, Seymour has deemed it advisable to appropriate the sentiments of the Radical party.

But then there is some difficulty in the way of doing it. Blair, who demands peace, order and the return to industrial pursuits, and says so in his own letter. But he was anticipated by Grant, when he wrote "Let us have peace," and after vain efforts by the Democratic press to ridicule this phrase, Seymour has deemed it advisable to appropriate the sentiments of the Radical party.

But then there is some difficulty in the way of doing it. Blair, who demands peace, order and the return to industrial pursuits, and says so in his own letter. But he was anticipated by Grant, when he wrote "Let us have peace," and after vain efforts by the Democratic press