Whear Crop of 1868.—The monthly report of the Department of Agriculture for the months of August and September, contains the following interesting statements respecting the wheet crop of the present season.

The corespondence of August and September has been very voluminous and indefinite concerning wheat furand indefinite concerning wheat fur- wit: nishing numerous and contradictory elements in a calculation of quantity. Statements of disappointed expectations in threshing are sufficiently abundant in the South, in Wisconsin and other parts of the West, to jurnish themes for agricultural croakers : a little rust here and there, the chinch bug, and other causes of failure are found; the grasshopper at certain points in the distant west has been a burden to wheat-growers. On the other hand, cases are mentioned of a three-fold acreage with half an average yield, giving a fifty per cent. aggregate increase notwithstanding the loss; numerous returns declare the present the largest crop in many years; and the majority, in view of the general increase in acreage, show a better result than that of last, year, after accounting for losses in the yield. It may be stated, however, that the average yield per acre of the whole country is scarcely equal to that of 1867, but the increased area sown will secure an aggregate somewhat larger than the product of that year.

BAD LUCK OF THE WICONSIN HOP Growers.—The hop crop in Wisconsin has proved a bad failure. One half of the crop is destroyed by mold and lice; more than balf the remainder is saved in a damaged condition: prices are reduced from sixty cents in 1867 to 1868; the growers refuse to sell prime hops, and the buyers refuse to purchase poor. The high prices of 1867 led the farmers to enter largely into hop cultivation, and it is estimated that about 15.000 acres were devoted to the crop this year. In fact hop growing became a mania, and among a large number of farmers every other interest gave way to hops. More land was bought, new buildings were put up, and othor expenses incurred in the expectation of reaping large profits from hop many farmers are nearly ruined and dent and Vice-President of the United culture. The consequence is that many farmers are nearly ruined and great distress prevails, the traders, who were obliged to sell to farmers on credit, being included in the gent eral disaster. Hundreds of farmers have not raised sufficient wheat to supply their families, and have no money to buy with; and there are numerous instances of men who with their surplus thousands realized last year bought adjoining farms and yards at high prices, paying part down and giving mortgages to scure the remainder, who are now compromising by returning the lands with a loss of payments made.

CLEANSING CASES, BOTLES, ETC.—The inquiry is often made of us by farmers, brewers, beef and pork packers, etc., regarding the best method of the united States.

A Good Fertilizer.—A gentleman in Massachusetts, a professor in one of the colleges there gives the following receipt for manufacturing "one of the very best fertilizers used upon our farms for all the cereal and root

Take one barrel of pure finely ground bone and mix it with a barrel of good wood ashes; during the mixing, add gradually about three pailfuls of water. The heap may be made on the floor of an outbuilding, or upon the barn floor; and, by the use of a hoe, the bone and ashes may be thoroughly blended together. The water added is just sufficient to liberate the caustic alkalics—potash and soda—and these re-act upon the gellatine of the bone, dissolving these little atoms, forming a kind of soap, and fitting it for a plant aliment. In this way the most valuable constituents of bones can be made immidiately available, and the addition of potash and soda aids in the formation of a fertilizer of inestimable value. The water added is not sufficient to make a pasty mass, difficult to dry but is enough to liberate the strong alkalies from the ashes."

course to be pursued with an old neglected or chard, which has become covered with a dense sed of grass, and this often of an inferior character, and full of disagreeable weeds. Or chards that have been widely planted, and which have gaps from the decay of trees, especially when these have been trimmed up with stems and long, naked branches do not cast sufficient shade upon the ground to prevent the growth of grass and weeds. These intruders occupy the surface soil to the disadvantage of the rocts of the fruit trees, and we may wonderfully improve the health of such or chards by plonghing the ground, and at the same time severely pruning the branches and cleaning the bark of these old trees. These good results may be continued by shallow culture of the soil, with suitable applications of manure when inceded. By giving a dose of lime, or or Bradford, will be at the Control of Bradford, will be at the Control of Bradford, will be at the Control of the county of the several counties of this form and the lections, receiving such unlawful ballots, or ballots.

By an act of Assembly of March 30, 1866, entitled an Act regulating the mode of voting at all elections, in the case of this Commonwealth, it is enacted as follows:

Scarios 1. Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsuleania in General Assembly met, and it is hereoy enacted by the authority of the same, that the qualified voters of the several counties of the 'Commonwealth, at alligeneral counties of the 'Commonwealth, able applications of manure when new-life and growth and productivenew-life and growth and productive at 1 o'clock, p. m. ness that will astonish and delight us, and reward us for our labors and outlay.

It may be urged as an objection to breaking up the sod, that the most careful ploughman will unavoidably damage the roots that approach the surface; but this is an injury that must be submitted to; and after all, it is not such a serious affair, and is overbalanced by the advantages of renewing the sproductiveness of the exhausted orchard.

A blind beggar had a brother who went to sea and was drowned. Now the man who was drowned had no brother.—What relation was the blind beggar to the man that was drowned.
