

News from all Nations. —August, Ga., is to have an open house.

Bradford Reporter. Towanda, Thursday, April 15, 1899. In accordance with a partial arrangement made by Mr. Goussard...

THE RESOLUTION IN FAVOR OF CHEAP POSTAGE. The resolution in favor of cheap postage recently submitted to the Senate...

LETTER FROM NEBRASKA. The town of Fremont, Neb., is on the line of the Union Pacific R. R....

WASHINGTON. Representative Chamberlain introduced in the Senate an act to amend the act...

Depression of the Market. The U. S. Senate convened in extra session in accordance with the Proclamation of the President...

TO THE SCHOOL DIRECTORS OF A BRADFORD COUNTY. The school directors of Bradford County are hereby notified to meet in convention...

TO THE LADIES. At Miss Gimp's Millinery Store are all the latest styles in hats and bonnets...

TO THE LADIES. At Miss Gimp's Millinery Store are all the latest styles in hats and bonnets. Also, Choice Yoke Shirts, French Yoke Shirts, and various other goods.

—Thieves steal the silver plates from coffins in the Wilmington, N. C., cemetery.

—The occupation of the fortresses of Ulm and Brest by Prussian troops is again meditated at Berlin.

—Another remarkable egg has been laid by a Tennessee hen. It has the figures 100 plainly visible upon it.

—A man in Georgia has a nine rights old son who weighs sixty pounds and has six fingers and six toes.

—There were 405 fires in Chicago last year; losses $560,000, and insurances $34,000,000.

—The annual rental of pews in the new Grace (Episcopal) church in Chicago, amounts to $100,000.

—A Portland druggist has this cheerful invitation in his show window: "Come in and get twelve remedies for one dollar."

—A new town, called Griswold, has sprung up on the branch line of the Ohio and Mississippi Railroad, a few miles from Lexington, Ill.

—Fine Kentucky stock has just been bought by a New Yorker—the celebrated "Wolfhound" sire, for $4,000; three blood mares for $3,000; and a pair of carriage horses.

—Rev. J. J. Sine, the Cambridge look thief, has been released from prison and sent into banishment under two thousand dollar bonds for his future correct behavior.

—A teacher in Princeton College, Ill., was severely stabbed by a pupil last week while he was punishing him for some violation of the rules. The wound will not prove fatal.

—A valuable library of six hundred volumes, belonging to the estate of a gentleman who died recently in Lewis county, Ky., was sold by public auction the other day for $35,250.

—Ambitious amateur actors at Manchester, N. H., lately introduced a real pig into a fair scene, and scattered their audiences by a sudden escape of the animal from among them.

—Some of the citizens of Covington, Ky., have gone to the tobacco manufacturing business at Frankfort, employing convicts in the Kentucky penitentiary as laborers at sixty cents per day.

—A young ropewalker, while practicing near the steamboat wharf in New Haven, Ct., last week, got under such headway that he could not stop, and both bicycle and rider rode off the dock into the waters of the harbor.

—The two paper mills in Hampton, Me., now manufacture daily two tons of book paper, employing ten engines and two fourdrinier machines. These mills have been in constant operation for twenty-five years.

—George W. Cook was tried before a jury in Danville, Va., recently for violation of the liquor law, and though his guilt was clearly proven, he was discharged because the jury could not fix upon the actual number of offenses committed.

—An attempt to starve three small children, the oldest six years of age, was discovered in Cairo, Ill., last week. The father had locked them in a vacant room several days before, and had refused them all nourishment.

—Hon. Hamilton Fish, Secretary of the Treasury, has resigned the presidency of the New York Historical Society.

—First game of base-ball of the season played at New York on Monday, between two teams of the Atlantic Club.

—The New York Commercial Advertiser says the Broadway Theatre will terminate its existence on the 1st of May next.

—Asa M. Hart, for many years a prominent merchant of Beading, died on Wednesday night, from a paralytic stroke.

—Twenty lives have been lost in the Wolf river region in Wisconsin this winter.

—The Germans have opened a theatre at Des Moines, Iowa, and have built a new independent school.

—A Gibson man in Indiana sixty years old, has married a girl of eighteen, and insured his life for $10,000.

—Des Moines, Iowa, has fifty lawyers and twenty-two doctors, and claims to give employment to all of them.

—George Lunt has been requested to deliver a course of three lectures in Boston, on "New England, Past and Present."