Winter Care of Colts, Calves and Lambs.

EDITORS COUNTRY GENTLEMAN—This being the season when young animals are injured by neglect so that no after care can remove the effect, it may not be amiss to say a little on weaning and the treatment of the weanlings. As the lambs have long been separated from the ewes, and calves ought to have been born early enough to have forgotten milk, I will commence with colts, more especially as they very particularly receive ill-treatment on the approach of winter.

Every colt should be brought to eat oats and bran before it is weaned, so that when the mare is taken from it the food will not be new, and by judicious choice of other food there need be no loss of condition whatever. It is altogether wrong to shut the colts up in the day time; they should run out all day when the weather is mild and be fed out of doors, for every one who has been a successful stock raiser is aware how much better food is relished in the open air. The hay, the oats and bran and the carrots should be given in such quantities as will be eaten at once, which can be soon found out, and if, while ascertaining the greatest amount which can be given to be cleared up, any be left, it should be immediately removed and a less quantity fed next time.

When the weather becomes too severe to feed outside with the carrots on account of frost, it will be well still to give hay, unless storming, and then even it can be done if there is spacious open shedding, and the colts will always have an appetite by being treated in this natural manner, for it is entirely unnatural for them to be shut up all the time. No change of food is requisite if the bran is sweet and unadulterated, and as to quantity there is no limit so that they can eat it up clean from the rack and manger, for of course the more the colts eat the faster they grow, the fatter they are, and the better they pay for the food; it would be about as wise to expect an old woman to knit a pair of stockings after robbing her of half her worsted, as to expect colts to come out fat in spring on short allowance of food.

When carrots are not grown, the best substitute is boiled flax seed, and this is one of the best descriptions of feed that can be given. Flax seed, boiled in water sufficient to make a jelly, is a wonderfully good nourishing food, and it appears extraordinary that it is not used much more extensively in this country, because the climate is adapted for the growth of flax, and for cattle feeding long on dry food it is a fine equivalent for young grass and very healthy in its effect.

Let those who please, cook old dead stems going by the name of hay, mouldy coarse corn-stalks, &c., cut into chaff; but without any wetting mix this flax-seed jelly with hay cut into chaff, and, if the hay was made from grass in blossom instead of in seed, no stock of any age but will thrive to a degree far beyond what they would with any food without the aid of this jelly.

I should feed colts with oats twice per day dry—say just before having the flax-seed and chaff—because if oats are eaten with any moist mixture they are not ground up by the teeth, and this is an objection to all sloppy food; for in addition to the imperfect mastication, there is the saliva lacking in the digestion. Animals eating hay or other dry food which is of good quality, do better than if it is wet, because the saliva is natural and the absence of it is not, the chewing is natural and the "bolting" of soppy food is not.

If colts are dropped late, it is a help to them to be allowed to suck later than others, especially if the mares are fed with milk-producing forage, etc.; and if colts are not of sufficient value to be fed well, and for the dams to be treated well, too, it is not worth while to rear such animals.

Calves need not suck a cow; they can be raised on skimmed milk. But to succeed in making them come to early maturity, roots should be grown for their winter feed; common turnips are best for the autumn, and swedish turnips for the winter and spring till grass comes. In the absence of roots, there is nothing better for them than flax-seed jelly or oil cake; but with roots I would not give flax seed, as that is very opening, and roots being so likewise, it would be better to have something more astringent. Barley and corn meal are all very well for calves, but more expensive if given to try and feed as fat as the former will force them to be.

Lambs will do better on turnips in autumn and swedes in winter, accompanied with hay and some white peas than on aught else—the extra weight of wool and carcase paying most remunerating for the extra nutriment. I noticed a New England article wherein the writer said "sheep were useful animals to be kept, as they could be made to eat up the inferior hay!" O, ye ghosts of old English farmers! Rise up and face the New England ones! Tell them you have lain in your graves half a century, and yet New England is behind your grandfathers!

G. G.

SUGAR FOR HORSES.—A gentleman in New York is the possessor of a $1,000 horse, whose organ for approbativeness is so prominently active that he can be coaxed, but rarely driven against his will. When the considerate owner enters the stable the horse greets him with a hearty whinny, his only language, which is equal to a cheerful expression of delight. He is at once treated to a lump of loaf sugar, which the beautiful and sagacious creature knows is usually carried in a vest pocket, for he rubs his nose directly in there. On returning from a drive he expects two lumps. As two are invariably forthcoming when unharnessed, it is unmistakable evidence to the horse that his conduct and efforts were satisfactory. The sight of a whip to that animal would be an insult and an outrage to his affectionate regard for one who looks carefully to his health, security and comfort. Such an instrument of barbarity does not belong to the good man's carriage, and may God speed the incoming day when they will only be seen in museums, to illustrate the conditions of countries that ultimately became christianized.

CIDER AND VINEGAR.—The best use to make of inferior fruit is to convert it into vinegar. Good cider can be made only from good fruit. Much of the stuff called cider is poor trash. If the apples are allowed to "sweat" in heaps for some time, they will lose a considerable amount of water and consequently a richer juice. It is better to put off cidermaking until the approach of cold weather, as then the fermentation goes on more gradually and a better article is the result.

FAMILY SEWING MACHINES,

Were awarded the First Prize at the Paris Exposition, 1867, over 62 other Machines.

Also, the following State Fairs of 1868 have awarded this Machine the first premium:

New York, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, Vermont, Wisconsin, and Indiana.

At the County Fairs of Madison, Onondaga, Oswego, Wayne, Orleans, Tompkins, Seneca, Monroe, Herkimer, Schuyler, Livingston, and a host of others.

Report of the Committee on Sewing Machines, at the Illinois Fair held in Rochester, fall of 1868: "Your Committee have examined the different Sewing Machines, to which their attention was called, and would recommend as the best Family Machine for all work, Miss Howe's Sewing Machine, and for the following reasons: 1st—Simplicity of construction. 2d—Regularity of tension on both upper and lower threads. 3d—Ease of management. 4th—Great range of work upon all materials. 5th—The perfect attachments to this Machine for felling, hemming, tucking, braiding, quilting, binding and cording, and the ease with which they are applied. 6th—The durability of the Machine, it being made of hardened steel, and adjusted in the bearings. We recommend a needle!"

New style Hemmer, Braider, Tucker, Quilter, Corder, Embroiderer, Binder, Feller and Improved Tuck Marker.

It will use any and every kind of thread, from the finest to the coarsest, with a much smaller needle than other machines. Be sure and examine before you purchase. Price from $50 to $75; every machine warranted. The real value of our machine for Tailors, Boot, Shoe, Harness and Carriage Makers, is too well known to require comment. Don't fail to call and see them.

F. S. M. & CO.

115 MAIN STREET, TOWANDA, PA.

The undersigned, encouraged by the success which has thus far attended their new enterprise, desire to make acknowledgment for the very liberal patronage they have received, by giving their customers the advantage of their years' experience together with the benefit of their greatly increased facilities for doing business.

They keep constantly on hand a very large and complete assortment of everything in their line, and are daily receiving such additions to their stock as the wants of their trade requires.

They have now in store, Sugar, Syrup, Molasses, Coffee, Rice, Tobacco, Fish, Salt, Cheese, Fruits, Crackers, Candy, Matches, Brooms, Wrapping Paper and Twine, Flour Sacks, Seeds, and a great variety of other goods, which have been recently bought at the lowest point in the market, and are offered at wholesale, at rates to correspond.

They desire to call especial attention to their large stock of Fine Teas, which they are selling at New York Jobbing prices,—guaranteeing the quality in all cases.

Have also on hand a good assortment of Flour, Pork, and Kerosene Oil.

They still continue to have the benefit of a resident Partner in New York, who is constantly in the market, and prepared to turn to our advantage any favorable changes in the price of goods.

NEW PLANING MILL.

The undersigned having built a large and commodious Mill in the Borough of Towanda, and filled it with the most modern and improved machinery, for the manufacture of

WINDOW SASH AND BLINDS,

Are prepared to fill orders, whether large or small, upon the shortest notice. We have also a large variety of MOULDINGS, of the latest style and pattern, which we can furnish much cheaper than they can be worked by hand.

PLANING, TONGUEING, GROOVING, AND SCROLL SAWING,

And all other work pertaining to Joinery, will be done to suit our customers.

Persons building, and not living more than twelve to fourteen miles distant, will find it to their interest to buy of us, or bring their lumber and have it worked by our machinery. Bring your grist of Flouring, or other lumber, and while your team is feeding, have it ground out and take it home with you.

We still pay CASH for PINE AND HEMLOCK LUMBER delivered at our lumber yard. Come and see us, or if you can't come, write.
