Dr. Clark examines and explains your disease without asking any questions. If he understands your case you know it; and cannot be deceived. It he cannot tell your disease and how you feel without asking questions, he does not consider himself consectent to treat your case. This is the criterion to go by, and patients should not be astisfied with any other. This is the only direct and positive oriented or of my ability as a scientific physician, and by this stundard I am willing to be judged.

Dr. Clark treats no cases unless conscienciously of the opinion that it can be cured or permanently benefitted. Dr. Clark treats no case unless he can describe th can explain its character to the complete and perfect satisfaction of the patient examined. And the Dr. would here most positively state, that he desires no patient to take treatments from him; unless they are would here most positively state, that he deares no patient to take treatments from him; unless they are fully and completely satisfied with his consultations and examinations, which are made free from charge. Dr. Clark bases his practice upon the incontrovertible law of Nature. First—That every cause has an effect. Second—That diseases are causes producing offects or symptoms, and that every disease has its own poculiar effects or symptoms, which if properly or theroughly understood by the examing Physician, can be clearly pointed out to the complete satisfaction of the patient examined.

Dr. Clark's method of diagnosing or explaining diseases and their symptoms is only the process of reasoning from causes to effect, and has been acquired by shorough literary and medical culture, and also by an almost unlimited practice in every form of disease to which the human system is liable.

By this process of reasoning the Doctor, has acquired a reputation and success in treating diseases seliom attained. quired a reputation and success in treasing unser-seldom attained.

Dr. Clark is making quite a number of convenient appointments for the benefit of invalids who cannot go a long distance to consult him. Patients will find this an opportunity rearly offered, and one they should not fail to take advantage of.

The Dr. furnishes all the medicines, instruments and apparatus necessary for the successful treat-ment of every case.
