McCLURE ON CAMERON. The venerable and distinguished Senator from Pennsylvania, has been noted through life, for the warmth and tenacity with which his friends supported him, and the virulence and animosity of his opponents. He has been probably the "best abused" and most defamed, of the public men of his day. Warm in his attachments and firm in his friendships, he is nevertheless, a good hater, and has never failed to repay in good time with interest, the assaults made upon him. The latest demonstration of the rancor of his enemies is made by M. K. McClure, Esq., late the lieu-

"The impatience of the public mind at the delays found expression in harsh and generally undeserved criticisms upon the War Department. Mr. Cameron felt the pressure of multiplied labors that crowded upon him, and he was not insensible to adverse criticism. He proposed to resign, provided that some one should be appointed so unfriendly to his policy. He suggested the appointment of Mr. Stanton. The Praident acted upon his supportion, accepted his resignation, and tendered him the mission to Rus to. THE PRASKING PRIVILEGE.

A public demonstration is being nade in Congress, in favor of the total abolition of the franking privilege. Innumerable petitions are daily, preented, signed by a multitude of people asking for the enactment of such measure. Though a simultaneous, this is by no means a spontaneous, expression of popular opinion. In are a sweeping edict, and leave the esponse to a call from the Senate for nformation on the subject, the Postmaster General says the blank petitions for the abolition of the franking privilege were prepared and sent out If one asks why the Sabbath is obby his direction in compliance with a served, the teacher must ask permisvery generally expressed wish of the sion of the Board of Education before public. The large number of 75,000 the question can be answered. With all due deférence to the recommendation of the Postmaster General, we do not see that the total abolition of the franking privilege is called for by the public interests, nor that it will advance the general welfare of the people. It is, we believe ministration and the country, and the abuse of the franking privilege, and not the existence of that privilege, which has led to the efforts which have been made for its repeal. If certain confidential transactions and the privilege could be limited and confined within the channels and scope intended when it was granted, perative attack upon the official repu- it would promote the public convenience materially, and would not increase greatly the expense of the Department.
