IMPORTANT DECISION.—The late term IMPORTANT DECISION.—The late term of the Susquehanna County Court was occapied in the trial of a very important case from this county, L. Quicz vs. the Susquehanna and Wyoming Valley Railroad and Coal Company. The plaintiff claimed an heirship tille to some coal lands occupied by the company—two lots, worth about $1,000,000. The case has been tried here, and was taken to Montrose for a re-hearing. After an eight day trial, the jury gave a verdict for the plaintiff to recover one lot, styled the "Miner lot," containing 333 acres, which may be safely considered worth at least $500,000. The court granted permission to the defendants 30 Sarely considered worth at least $500.00 The court granted permission to the defendance file an application for a new trial within follays.—Pittaton Gazette.

An application for a new trial in the above case will be argued before Judge STREETER, in his place, on Monday evening next.

I.O. of G.T. LECTURE COURSE.—The list of lecturers which compose this course. comprises the names of John G. SAKE, WIRT SIRES, OLIVE LOGAN, MATTHEW HALE SMITH, WENDELL PHILLIPS and ANNA E. DICKINSON. eason tickets are now on sale at Porter & Kirbr's Drug Store. The first lecture will be delivered Monday evening, Nov. 28, in Mercur's Hall, by Hon. JOHN G. SAXE, and is entitled "Love-A Poem." Mr. Saxe is one of the best lecturers on the list and as a humorist has no equal. Read what he press says of him : Mr. Saxe's subject was "Love"; not merely All, Sake's subject was "Love"; not merety the despotic, dangerous, delicious love that is usually represented with wings and bow and arrow, but love Maternal, Patriotic, Philanthropic and Divine. Mr. Sake kept the audience in an uproar from the commencement to the close of his poem. Laughter and applause strovelong for the mastery; but at the close of the last stanzas the latter carried the day.—X. Y. Times.

Of the poem by Hon. John G. Saxe, we would say that nothing of its kind was ever received with more true delight—the audience warmly applauding its touches of sound sense and noble sentiment, and indulging in the greatest mirth at the poet's sparking wit, folicitous expressions, and the lively tone that pervaded every line.—Boston Post. Saxe's poem on "Love," last Saturday evening, at Metropolitan Hall, more than made good the expectations of his warmest admirers. It was dignified and chastely classical throughout, although buibling over with the richest humor; and the reception of the poem was genited and entire the common of the poem was genited and entire the common of the poem was genited. nial and nent of the accidental death of EDWIN O. Mondays. VAUGHAN, late of Wyalusing, sent a pang of sorrow to hearts of a large circle of relatives and friends, which was heightened by the fact' that a brother was lying at the point of death at his father's house. In answer to numerous inqui ries, the following facts have been learned: On Saturday, Nov. 5, Mr. VAUGHAN was returning home at Keokuk, Iowa, from a wisit to Osceola, when nearly opposite his house, about three miles from the depot, he went out upon the platform of the coach, and becoming dizzy and likely to fall he jumped from the train though in rapid motion. An examination of the ground where he fell, as well as his own testimony, showed that he struck upon his feet, but was thrown forward by the motion of the train; a distance of six or seven yards, falling upon his face with his abdomen against a large, sharp-cornered stone, which produced the injuries from which he died on the Sabbath even ing following. Although the concussion was a violent one he got up and walked a distance of several rods to a house, where he made known his condition, when medical aid was sent for, but his case was found to be hop-less. His wife was speedily with him, and everything done to alleviate his sufferings that kindness and skill could suggest. He remained conscious to the last giving assurance that he rested in the faith of that Gospel which he had believed and would soon be with the Saviour whom he loved. He was known and respected by a large cirele of acquaintances, whose sympathies were deeply moved for the family in their double bereavement. He was buried just one week previous to his brother. He was 32 years and, 4 ATHENS.—There seems to be no SERIOUS STABBING AFFAIR AT BAR-CLAY.-A row occurred at Barclay on Sunday vening last, resulting in the death of a man named Richard Abbott. The circumstances as we learn them are as follows: Wm. Cochrane keeps a boarding-house in Barclay, and Mr. Ab-BOTT was boarding with him. On Sunday night two men, named John Cunninghan and Thos. Benson, with whom Cochrane had quarrelled, ere seen coming towards the house, when Mrs. told her husband to go up stairs and keep out of sight. When the men reached the door, Mrs. C. told them they could not enter; whereupon they took hold upon her and pulled her out and commenced an assault upon her. As-BOTT went out to rescue her, and COCHRANE hearing the disturbance, came down stairs, and in the dark it is supposed fatally stabled the nan who was attempting, to protect his wife. The parties were all intoxicated, and the sad affair may justly be charged to rum. Cocu-IANE, CUNNINGHAM and BENSON were brought to this place and lodged in fail.

wands, Monday, Dec. 12, at 1 p.m. MR. EDITOR: I notice, this week, a letter from some one who signs himself "CHARITY," but who intimated that he would feel better if people would call him " Prot," As it is always pleasant to have folks enjoy themselves, and will be a very cheap way of imparting happiness, we will designate him as the "Prof." from Overton. In these days, when almost every horse-trainer, fiddler and dancingmaster is dubbed a "Prof.", some men might not consider it any particular honor if people did choose to give them that appellation; but when a man really desires it, and publishes his wish in the newspapers, every good-natured person must be in favor of his having the covet-

We are sorry to hear that " Hamlet's Address o the Players" wasn't appreciated by his pupils; but we don't understand whether they were unable to appreciate Shakspeare's composition, or the "Prof.'s" own elecution. In the fatter case, it is just possible that the "Prof." forgot the good old rule, "Never attempt what you are unable to perform." What he says in regard to providing merchandise according to celebrated Dutch Chromo. the requirements of the market, is very just, and it is to be hoped that the next time he goes off to an Institute after "a fresh stock of ideas for his pupils, he will not commit such a blunder as to carry back "Hamlet's Address to the Players" and present it to a set of scholars who can't appreciate it. Strange that he could make such a mistake about the demands of the Overton market!

It is hard to tell what some persons do expect from these Institutes, of less than five days There is time to clear up most of the knotty points which we, as teachers, find most difficult to explain; and this was, perhaps, never more thoroughly accomplished than it was at the Institutes this fall. Those who expect to drill in spelling and reading, and to go over the rudiments of all the other branches, too, in that limited time, are to absurdly unreasonable to notice. If, on the other hand, the "Prot." from Overton is so far advanced that he could derive no benefit from the instructions that were given, we hope it son tickets for the LO. of G.T. lecture course. will not be long before he will rise up out of This course comprises the best talent in the his obscurity and receive $100 per week, with country, and none should fail to avail themother "Professors" of his grade. At the Institute which we attended, the resolutions were present. I in the middle of the afternoon, on Friday, and we failed to detect any sign of dishonesty, or any undue haste in their adoption.

If the "Prof." wanted more time to deliberat how he should vote, why did he not indicate his wish? We, the other members of the Institute. would have held a short quaker meeting, while he bowed his lorty head and pondered the mighty question! Or, if he had anything to say, why did he not arise and "lay in his ideas"? Surely, the "Prof." must have one of those 'ponderous minds" that "move very slowly' if it took him two weeks to decide that he had anything to say on the subject! Since he has such a desire for titles, we would
