Session of Ava. 31, 1863.—Mr. Williams, agricultural Editor of The Independent, reported his success with these casts, and condemned the hasty action of the Club in passing judgment a lyerse to their more.

ROTARY FORCE PUMPS. HON. HORACE GREELET, of the N. Y. Tribune, then arose and said, "Mr. Preudent,—I do not understand that this Club, as a Club, has ever condemned the Norway Oats. I have little doubt that it is good grain." Mr. Greeley siso spoke highly of the large, straw and crops of this grain that he had seen in the South, where he had been travelling the past few weaks, and referred to the advantage of procuring Northern grown seed at considerable length. nsiderable length. From the Rochester American Farmer. "Hon Rufus Hale, President of the Orango County Agricultural Society of Vermont, has personally on, ac., and states the result in the following let tion, ac., and states the result in the following letter.

"I take great pleasure in adding my testimony to that of hundreds of others in this and other States, as to the advantages to be gained by substituting your Norway Oats for the old kinds. Their ability to produce more than twice as many bushels to the acre, and their hardiness and trifty growth, rendering them much less liable to be destroyed by worms or disease, are points which no intelligent farmer can overlock. The question to be decided by farmers is not whether they can afford to buy the seed, but rather, can they afford to continue to plow and cultivate their land for 30 or 40 Mishels to the acre, weighing 300bs, or less to the bushel, when they can just as well raise 100 bushels and heavier grain with the same labor. the same labor.

I can recommend them to farmers as being all that you claim for them, and am clad to k ow that you will be able to supply them to a larger extent the coming season than heretofora. NORWAY OATS.

IFrom the Chicago Republican.

The writer of this experimented with the Norway oats last season, on a farm in Dano county, Wis., with the following gratifying results: Twenty-eight quarts were sowin, in drills and thin, on a trifle less than one acre of ground. Soil of medium quality, without manure, and no special care in culture. From this amount of seed manty-two bushle of oats were harvested. The straw grow to between five and six feet in hight, large near the ground, diminishing in size uniformly to the top; the roots stooling-out and forming clusters of straw, which coveried the ground, and branching out downward taking deep and firm hold in the soil; the head growing in some shape, on either side of the stalk, and varying from 8 to 14 inches in length. This is the result of our experiment, and justifies the most sangaine statements made by the proprietors of this grain.

The history of the origin of this remarkable cereal is still unknown, but it is evident that hature has yielded a variety of grain immeasurably superior to any of the varieties heretofore grown in the United States. It is of little consequence to the farmer what [From the Chicago Republican SAWS, BABBITT PACKING CAST STEEL), WHEELBAR any of the varieties heretofore grown in the United States. It is of little consequence to the farmer what its origin may be! It is sufficient for him to know that under the same or even inferior conditions of growth and culture, it is one, and perhaps three, hundred per cent, better in all respects than any of the old deteriorated varieties.

We are reluctant to commond to the too-often humburged and deceived farmer, anything that is "now" in the line of grains, but it is our belief, based upon observation and experiment, that the Norway oats, so-called, sold-by Messra, D. W. Ramsdell & Co., the proprietors, should be sown by every farmer in the West the coming season. We believe we can do no greater favor or service, in such connec-ROWS. GOODS DELIVERED an do no greater favor or service, in such connec-ion, to the thousands who read the REPORTER farmers and those interested in the introduction of improved cereals into the great grain-growing West than to point out to them the merits of these cats. But the merit of this grain is not 'in' the extent of

But the merit of this grain is not in the extent of yield exclusively. A given quantity will weigh a larger per cont more than other varieties; the berry is larger per cont more than other varieties; the berry is larger hull thinner, and the grain more nutritious, hence better, in all repects, for feeding.

Many of the oals advertised throughout the country are nothing but the common Norway cats, and have nothing to recommend them, more than the sed from which they were grown has been imported within a few years.

The oats here advertised, and which are for sale at Messrs, Marshall? Hardware store, or the Ramshall Messrs, Marshall? Hardware store, or the Ramshall Messrs, the seed was bought directly of I. M. Ramsdell, a Vermont farmer, the man who first grew this grain and after whom it was named.
