Selected Poetry.

THE BOY AND THE BROOK.

Down from your distant mountains height
The brook flows thro' the village street,
A boy comes forth to wash his hands,
Washing, you, washing, thro' his hands,
In the water cool and sweet.

Miscellaneous.

A TRIP ACROSS THE WATER.

From the heights in the rear of Downness, there are fine views of Lake Winnebago, the Victoria and Queen's, are well kept hotels, and at the water side are boats in abundance, of various styles and sizes, for aquatic excursions. It is a pleasant place for a day's rest, and a favorite resort of the people of the city.

THE DEVIL AND TOM WALKER.

Everybody has heard, and a great many make use of the expression,
"the Devil and Tom Walker," and yet we presume very few know who Tom Walker was or what relation between him and the Devil justified this frequent association of their names. As the most authentic account of who Tom Walker was, we give the following story by the best writer America has ever produced, Washington Irving.

A STORY OF THE LAST CENTURY.
