PRINCIPLES, NOT MEN. The short time which has already clapsed since the convention, has demonstrated the fact that the disappointment of the unsuccessful candidates and their friends, does not amount to defection, as was vainly hoped by the democratic party. The truth is, the Republican party is , made up not of place seekers, but its corner stone is principle, and the great mass of the party readily yield their personal preferences, when they are found to stand in the way of success. Herein lies our great strength Men who have been trusted and looked up to as leaders have no power over the people, when they cease to lead in the right direction. This truth has been clearly demonstrated not only in this county, but all over the country, and the more discerning of our enemies have learned to place no confidence in the power and influence of the occasional back sliders, who, failing in their attempts to secure office in the Republican party, sound the trumpet for reform. and hold up their hands in holy horror at the corruption committed by the party, and the baseness of managers. General Allen, of Warren county, is highly spoken of and gives general satisfaction. The only act of the Convention, which does not seem to receive almost universal commendation, is the naming of Presidential electors and delogates to the National Convention. But when we consider that it is politic at least, to name men for these positions known not only to local influences, but whose names are more widely recognized throughout the State, we have sound sense as well as precedent to justify the act. But this communication has already attained to undue length.

[From the Record of the Times, Wilkesburre.] Kow that the nominations are made, we hope that all the friends of Mr. Ketcham will give the nominees a hearty support. Nothing is to be gained by whinning or grumbling. The defeat of General Hartrant this fall, would certainly insure the defeat of Mr. Ketcham should be ever obtain the nomination for Governor. But aside from the merely "expedient" view of the case, as a matter of honor and principle Mr. Reteliam and his friends should work for Gen. Hartrant's election. They went into the Convention, and are in honor bound by its dedecision. Languid indifference, or factious opposition, would only throw the Stite into the hands of the Democrats, and probably defeat Gen. Grant and elect a Democratic United States Senator from Pennsylvania.

Against the candidate nominated nothing can be said. He has been Anditor General for all years, and performed the duties of the office well. He has been "faithful over a few things," and it's now proposed to make him "ruler over many things." His nomination is hailed

General John F. Hartrant, the nominoe for Governor, is a resident of Montgomery county.

Graduating at Union Collego, he supplemented a thorou, h classical education, by an extra course in civil engineering and subsequently studied and practiced law at Norristown, in his native county.

Upon the breaking out of the Rebellion, he enlisted in the army and served throughout the whole war, receiving repeated promotions, until at the fearful charge upon Fort Steadman, he covered the state of the general character of the man.

In the fierce contest of the war, when rebe Receiving the nomination for Auditor General at the close of the war, he was twice triumphantly elected, and has discharged the driving as an officer in the civil service, the confiand respect of his constituents as his brilliant career as a soldier, won their admiration and gratitude. The nomination of such a man as our standard bearer is equivalent to an election.

In the fierce contest of the war, when rebel bullets were showered at him, he never flinched and his coolness and conspinous bravery were the admiration of the "boys in blue" who followed him to 'tctory. So during the times of doubt and suspicion through which we have just passed the General has never for one moment faltered under the heavy blows-directed against him by Evans and his fellow conspirators, for the purpose of compelling him to withdraw his prosecution of them. He knew but one line of duty, and he fought them to the bitter end, when victory perched upon his bantime in a long series of years, Bradford county has received just recognition at the hands of the Republican party.

The scalp, by its use, becomes white and clean. It removes all cruptions and dandruff, and, by its tonic properties, prevents the hair from falling out, as it stimulates and nourishes the hair-glands. By its use the hair grows thicker and stronger. In baldness it restores the capillary glands to their normal vigor, and will create a new growth. except in extreme old age. It is the most economic
